NYE VISIT CURB ON PRIMARY IN QUAKER STATE

Fight Hot, but Eye Kept on Senate Campaign Fund Inquiry.

EXPENDITURES SEEM MODEST ENOUGH NOW

Belief Held Legislature Candidates, However, Have Spent More.

CHIEF ISSUE HINGES ON HUMANITARIANISM

Davis Backs Hoover Policies While Grundy Stand Is Called Revolt.

Pennsylvania Politics 'Bad as Ever,' Says Nye

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 15 (A.P.).—Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, chairman of the Senate campaign fund committee, expressed the opinion at the conclusion of a day of conferences here today that indications of corruption in the senatorial primaries in Pennsylvania are "as bad as ever." He added that an investigation into campaign expenditures was a practical certainty following the voting on May 20.

The senator, who came here from Philadelphia, where he conferred with officials concerned with election inquiries, spent the entire day in conference with District Attorney Andrew T. Park, of Allegheny County; U. S. District Attorney Louis H. Graham, the Board of Registration Commissioners, and individuals with complaints to submit.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 15.—The impression seems rather general around here that this year's resurrection in Pennsylvania is not to be so joyful. That is to say that the periodical carnival when departed spirits arise from their tombs and participate in the primary elections is not to be so well attended as it has been in years past.

Ordinarily this year's reunion would be a most enthusiastic affair, with such a galaxy of the State's humanitarians running for senator and governor as has seldom been the case.

There is Senator Grundy versus Secretary of Labor Davis as the main senatorial attraction, and Francis Shunk Brown and Gifford Pinchot as the headliners on the gubernatorial card. And an uncertain quantity is the wet ticket of former Representative Thomas W. Phillips for governor, and Prof. Francis H. Bohlen for senator.

Funds Committee Respected.

So heated and bitter is the race that were it not for one thing an unusually large attendance of the departed souls might be expected Tuesday, when the primary comes off. The one thing is the Senate campaign funds subcommittee.

One is impressed with the respect that is being given the committee. If its standing is discounted in Washington because of the absence of "Jim" Reed, it nevertheless rates very high here.

After the experience of the Keystone politicians with Senator Reed in 1926 they are willing to take all Senate committees as very powerful things. Their general attitude of wariness is not lessened any by the visit just at this time of Senator Gerald P. Nye, the chairman of the committee. The politicians were inclined to be careful before, but after his visit to Philadelphia yesterday, when he rode around mysteriously in a taxicab and visited very mysterious places, shaking off newspapermen as he moved, and with the same kind of goings-on here today, they are inclined to be more so.

Witness Recalls Line-Tapping.

Some of them tell with considerable depth of feeling of their experience before the 1926 slush fund committee. One fellow even arouses sympathy when he relates how the committee listened in on a telephone conversation of his just before he appeared on the stand and told of this conversation. This gentleman vows that the committee will have no occasion to question him this year.

The cynical observers here say it is too much to expect that this will be a cleancut campaign with no monkeyshines at all. But they agree that with the campaign now drawing to a close there has been no evidence of lavish expenditures as yet. Newspaper advertising has been most parsimonious, it is declared, although the radio has been freely used.

These observers express the belief, however, that the candidates for the State Legislature will be found to have made increased expenditures. In

Newspapers Praised As Advertising Media

Macy Executive Flays Retailers' Tendency to Exaggerate.

Declaring that newspapers constitute the "one dominant medium" and command more than 95 per cent of his company's advertising budget, Kenneth Collins, executive vice president of R. H. Macy & Co., of New York, yesterday flayed retail advertising in general as "dull, dishonest, unsightly, and inconsistent with the type of readers to who it is directed."

These charges were made at the thirteenth annual convention of the American Association of Advertising Agencies which began yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel, attended by about 200 representatives of leading advertising agencies throughout the United States. Radio, billboards and other forms of advertising were discussed, but the principle topic was newspapers.

"If the charge is made that newspapers are losing their pulling power as advertising media," Mr. Collins began, "the fault is not with the publishers, for newspapers now are far superior from every standpoint than they were even a decade ago. The trouble is that newspapers are mishandled by the rtail advertisers, although another factor affecting newspaper advertising is the spreading out of business districts into residential areas."

FATE OF TARIFF BILL RESTS WITH SENATE

Democrats Resolved That Measure Shall Retain Flexible Clause.

MAY DIE IN CONFERENCE

(Associated Press.)

The question whether the tariff bill will go to the White House or die in conference will be placed squarely before the Senate today.

This critical stage of the negotiations between the Senate and House over the Hawley-Smoot measure was brought about by a decision of Senate Democrats yesterday to oppose an attempt by the Republican regulars to gain a free hand in working out an adjustment of the flexible provision and debenture plan over which the conferees are in deadlock.

The Republican independents said they would support the Democrats in their fight, but they were not as confident as their coalition friends that the move would be successful.

Leaders of the Republican regular forces were frankly worried, but are counting heavily on returning the bill to conference so the final showdown will come on adoption or rejection of of the complete conference agreement.

Today Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, will make a technical motion to insist, without instructions, on the Senate's amendments which have been turned down by the House. This would get the bill back into conference on a negotiable basis. The House managers have refused to confer until the Senate has given its conferees a free hand.

The Senate Democrats will counter with a move to instruct the conferees not to abandon the debenture and flexible provision withdrawing presidential rate-changing power.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, a leader of the Republican Independents, who with the Democrats wrote the debenture and legislative flexible provision into the bill over the protest of President Hoover, said he would vote for the Democratic motion, but doubted it would carry.

He based this prediction on the belief that many advocates of the Senate's provisions would rather see a compromise worked out than to tie the hands of the Senate managers and have no bill at all.

All agreed, however, that success in

NAVAL PACT MEETS LONDON OPPOSITION

Scored by Conservatives in Commons After Talk by MacDonald.

CHURCHILL LEADS FOES

London, May 15 (A.P.).—The London naval treaty was hailed by the government today as it was debated in the House of Commons, but ran into heavy Conservative opposition.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald spoke at length for the treaty, asserting that upon its foundations were laid the hopes for future disarmament. He said he was most hopeful for good results from the continuing conversations between France and Italy for solution of their parity argument.

But the Conservatives, with Winston Churchill leading them, declared that with the treaty Great Britain had not attained parity with the United States in the sense that both should be equal on the seas, and, instead, had given formal acceptance of definitely inferior sea power.

"We can not invest this act of the government with national sanction," he said.

The prime minister reminded the House that while the London conference had been marked by an agreement among Great Britain, the United States and Japan, its work was not finished. Conversations were continuing between Italy and France, he continued, and he had hopes those talks would result in an agreement which would transform the three-power treaty into a full five-power agreement.

Then he said that the London meeting had not been merely a naval conference, but had aimed at contributing to the cause of general disarmament.

"We must bend our attention not merely to the sea but to the air and the land as well," he said. "The limitation of one form of armament will not go very far to secure the peace of the world."

The foundation of real security and international understanding, Mr. MacDonald added, must be an agreement between the United States and Great Britain such as the one reached at London.

"And that piece of work has been

JONES STATES OPPOSITION TO NAVAL TREATY

DOCUMENT DEFENDED BY PRATT IN HEARING

PARITY ATTAINMENT IMPOSSIBLE, CLAIM

U. S. Technicians Mystified by America's Sacrifice of Building Rights.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Admiral Hilary P. Jones, naval adviser to the American delegation at the London Conference and America's foremost representative at naval limitation conferences since the Washington treaty, expressed unqualified opposition yesterday to controlling features of the London pact.

The veteran naval leader informed the Senate foreign relations committee that these provisions of the London treaty are disadvantageous to American interests, harmful to the United States Navy, responsive to a six-year British effort to influence American policy, subservient to Japan's desire to obtain superiority in the Pacific and dangerous to America's future from the standpoint of national defense.

The admiral clearly indicated a reluctance to say more than he deemed necessary in response to questions but gave his testimony in concise and direct language and expressed the conviction that his position is supported by the overwhelming majority of opinion in the Navy.

Adams Admits Concession.

Before he testified, Secretary of the Navy Adams had reluctantly conceded that he fought a losing fight at London for the 8-inch gun cruiser program, adaptable to America's needs, but finally yielded because the other powers insisted. Likewise Mr. Adams admitted that he fought against permitting Japan to increase her ratio but again had to yield and make the best of the situation. Neither the Secretary of the Navy nor the general board of the Navy sponsored the program adopted at London, it was brought out, though at the end Mr. Adams joined with the other delegates to preserve unanimity.

Meanwhile the treaty was defended before the naval affairs committee by Admiral William V. Pratt, first naval adviser to the London conference. Admiral Pratt supported the policy of abolition of submarines, which was advocated by the joint Anglo-American policy prior to the conference, but not carried out, and he supported the 6-inch gun program. CANNON FACES CHURCH TRIAL, REPORTS AVER

Members of Episcopacy Still Keep Silence on Rumor.

BISHOP TO PRESIDE AT SESSION TODAY

WORDS SERVE, OBEY, TAKEN FROM RITES

Conference Enlarges Upon Charges Applicable to Ministers.

Dallas, Tex., May 15 (A.P.).—Despite the silence of episcopacy committee members, a report grew today at the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, that Bishop Cannon, jr., of Washington, D. C., and Virginia, would be brought to a church trial for speculating on the stock market.

Leading members of the episcopacy committee, who heard the complaints discussed for nearly six hours yesterday, still refused to commit themselves on the report that the committee voted last night to ask the church trial. The nearest that could be obtained to confirmation was the statement of one member of the committee that the generally credited report "probably was true."

Other delegates, who discussed the rumor more freely, pointed out what they considered a pertinent reason for the committee's adjournment last night, until Friday. Bishop Cannon will preside at tomorrow's session of the general conference, his name having been reached on the roll of bishops, and they said it would have been too great a personal affront to prefer the charges on the day before he served as chairman.

Cleared in Political Acitivity.

The exact accusations have not been announced, nor will they be announced unless the committee decides upon the trial. Bishop Cannon last night was vindicated in his political activities by a committee statement clearing four other bishops of like complaints.

Should a trial be ordered, the jury of clerics would have to return one of three verdicts—acquittal, suspension, or expulsion from the office of bishop.

Twenty-two laymen including some of the leading delegates to the conference signed the accusations against Bishop Cannon. Judge G. T. Fitzhugh, of Memphis, and Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh, N. C., head the list which includes at least two State Supreme Court judges. It was understood that the accusations were accompanied by photographs of rec-

Texas Split Into Five States Is Garner Aim

Lone Star Commonwealth Could Swing Balance of Power to South by Exercising Congressional Privilege, Minority Leader Says.

The Texas Legislature could, if so disposed, transfer the balance of national political power from New England to the South and obtain for the Southern States the political power, prestige and recognition which has long been the prerogative of a group of small Northeastern States.

This declaration is made by House Minority Leader Garner in a detailed statement inserted in the Congressional Record yesterday.

Mr. Garner points out that Texas is the only State that has the power, merely by act of its legislature, to subdivide its area into not more than five different States. If that step were taken—and assuming Congress would admit the entire quintet into the Union of States—Texas would have eight additional senators, or a total of ten members of the Senate, instead of two as at present.

The minority leader points out that this right is accorded Texas in the joint resolution of Congress for annexation of the Lone Star State approved March 1, 1845. This resolution provides that "new States of convenient size, not exceeding four in number, in addition to the said State of Texas, and having sufficient population, may hereafter, by consent of said State, be formed out of the Territory thereof, which shall be entitled to admission under the provisions of the Federal Constitution."

Mr. Garner contends that this leaves entirely to the State the right to determine whether Texas shall be carved into five different Commonwealths, each with equal representation in the Senate.

Texas has an area of 265,398 square miles and is approximately 70 per cent larger than its nearest competitor, California, which boasts an area of 158,297 square miles.

If the State were divided equally into five States, each would have an area of 53,175 square miles, or approximately the same as Arkansas.

Mr. Garner points out that Texas would make 220 States the size of Rhode Island, 112 the size of Delaware, 32 the size of New Jersey or Massachusetts and nearly 6 the size of New York.

"With an estimated population of 5,600,000," Mr. Garner states, "Texas ranks fifth among the States, being exceeded by New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio.

An equal division into five States would give each State a population of about 1,200,000. In this respect the Texas subdivisions would rank with Maryland, Colorado, Florida, Nebraska, Washington and West Virginia, and would have far larger populations than many other States.

"These figures clearly show the justification for division of Texas into five separate States. The five of the six States of the New England group, with less population and only a small fraction of the area of which Texas

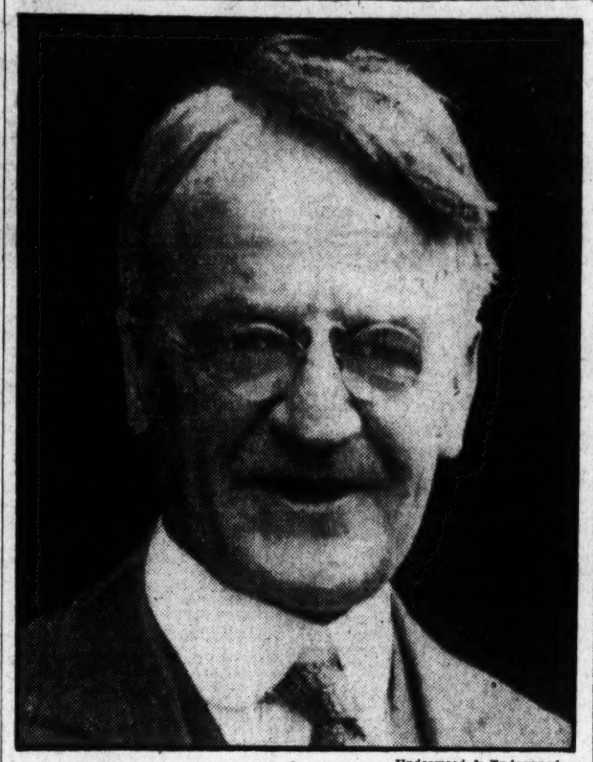
MORROW ASKS REPEAL OF DRY AMENDMENT IN LAUNCHING CAMPAIGN



Underwood & Underwood.

DWIGHT W. MORROW.

State Control of Liquor Urged by Candidate for Senate Seat.

SUBSTITUTE ACT HELD PROBLEM'S SOLUTION

Plan Would Let U. S. Aid Sections Adhering to Prohibition.

ANTISALOON LEAGUE MAY AVOID PRIMARY

Leader in New Jersey Hints Independent May Be Backed in Fall.

Newark, N. J., May 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Return of liquor control to the States by repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the substitution of another amendment are the solution of the prohibition problem proposed by Dwight W. Morrow in his speech in Krueger Auditorium here, tonight, formally opening his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States senator from New Jersey.

The substitute amendment, he said, should "vest in the Federal Government power to give all possible protection and assistance, to those States that desire complete prohibition, against invasion from the States that do not."

So long as the eighteenth amendment and its supporting statutes are the law of the land, he favored, he said, "generous appropriations" for their enforcement. But he urged that the Federal Government devote itself first to stopping the importation of and interstate commerce in liquor. While there a no doubt of its power, under the eighteenth amendment "to perform local police duty," he said, it might well leave that to the several States until it has done a good job in the "purely Federal field."

Drys May Stay Out of Primary.

Shortly before Mr. Morrow made his speech, Dr. James K. Shields, State superintendent of the New Jersey Antisaloon League, indicated that unless Representative Franklin W. Fort, Republican dry, should enter the senatorial primary, the organized drys would probably not participate in the primary, but would support an independent dry candidate in the election in November, should the Republicans nominate a wet.

Former United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Mr. Morrow's only declared opponent so far, has declared himself in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He is a former dry.

The idea of entering Mr. Fort in the primary had not originated with the Antisaloon League, Dr. Shields said, although it would undoubtedly support him if he should decide to make the race in the primary and Mr. Morrow's position on prohibition should be found unsatisfactory.

Law's Friends Addressed Too.

When asked what the drys would do if Mr. Morrow declared for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and Mr. Fort did not enter the contest, Dr. Shields replied:

"I don't know. Probably nothing in the primary. I think we might wait until fall."

Although Mr. Morrow's declaration places him in the category popularly called "dripping wet," he addressed himself as much to the friends of prohibition as to its enemies. He devoted almost all his 3,000-word speech to the prohibition question, sketching the history of the effort to control liquor from colonial days.

The problem is primarily one of government, he said, of the most effective distribution of authority between the several States and the Federal Government. The fundamental difficulty can not be reached, he said, by an amendment of the Volstead act. He admitted that re-

FLIER DIES AS PLANE FALLS INTO PACIFIC

PARACHUTE IS TANGLED

Honolulu, May 15 (A.P.).—A dramatic adventure of air and sea cost the life of Staff Sergt. Joseph Becker, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and caused the loss of three military airplanes between the Islands of Maui and Hawaii yesterday. Twelve other Army and Navy fliers, whose planes rode the rough waves from noon yesterday until early today, were brought safely ashore by rescuing surface vessels.

Becker died when an Army bombing plane fell in to the ocean while accompanying a fleet of 41 Army and Navy planes from Luke and Wheeler Fields, near here, to Hilo, Hawaii. A Navy seaplane and two Army amphibian planes were brought down by their crews to rescue the bomber's men. They picked up three men, but the rescuing planes were unable to rise from the rough waters.

While flying 8,000 feet high, the bomber broke an aileron control and began its descent. Becker's parachute opened prematurely as he was about to leap and became entangled in the bomber's rigging. Two other members of the crew parachuted at an altitude of 4,000 feet and were picked up by the rescuing planes.

Lieut. Tellmadge Leslie Boyd, of Washington, D. C., pilot of the bomber, remained with the ship in an heroic effort to extricate Becker and was drawn into the whirling stabilizer. Boyd's legs were lacerated, his shoes and socks torn off and his clothing reduced to rags. Three thousand feet above the sea, Boyd freed himself and leaped with his parachute into the waves.

A naval seaplane commanded by Lieut. M. A. Schur followed the parachuting men down and picked up Boyd, Staff Sergt. H. Alexander, of Kennedy, Ala., and Private H. L.

JURY FREES KOHLER OF ELECTION FRAUD

NEW MOTIONS PLANNED

Sheboygan, Wis., May 15 (A.P.).—Exonerating Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin, who was charged with violating the State corrupt practices act, a circuit court jury tonight answered negatively eight questions in a special verdict. Judge Gustave Gehrz now must formulate a final verdict which need not agree with the jury's findings.

Judge Gehrz announced he would postpone a decision until all motions are in. The State plans to make several motions, and these, he said, may be offered at Milwaukee, where his circuit is located. He allowed prosecutors three days to file motions. When the decision was returned the courtroom spectators stood on tables, shouted and waved their hands. The crowd pushed forward to shake hands with the governor.

The charges were filed by the Progressive-Republican faction leaders fifteen months ago. Gov. Kohler is a member of the rival "conservative" faction in Wisconsin.

Attorneys of both sides have announced they will appeal to the Supreme Court in case the decision is against them. For this reason the unusual "special verdict" was ordered and much time was devoted to legal technicalities.

Moreover, the end of this case is to mark the pressing of charges against three other States officers—Henry Huber, lieutenant governor; Theodore Damann, secretary of state, and John W. Reynolds, attorney general. All are members of the Progressive faction, and all are charged with the same thing as the chief executive.

Referring to the governor's plumbing fixtures factory at Kohler, Wis., the judge said:

"The law does not charge a stockholder of a corporation with knowl-

peal or amendment of the eighteenth amendment is "difficult," but he did not think it "impossible." Those who think it is impossible must, he observed, "lack faith in the reasonableness of their proposals" or in the reasonableness of those opposed to them.

Calmness Asked of Both Sides.

He pleaded for reasonableness on both sides.

"I look forward to the time when the old leaders of the temperance movement, the churches and the school and the social workers, will appreciate that they have not reached a final solution of a world-old problem by the present eighteenth amendment," he said. "I look forward to the time when the moral teachers of the country will realize that in the battle for a great social reform there was wisdom in the old system of experimenting in forty-eight laboratories rather than in one."

Mr. Morrow was introduced by Edward B. Duffield, president of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. State Senator Joseph T. Wolber presided at the meeting, and Mayor Charles Congleton, of Newark, welcomed Mr. Morrow to the city.

During the day, Mr. Morrow made a motor tour of more than twenty smaller communities in Essex County. Jesse Salmon, Republican leader of the county, is the only county chairman in the State who is supporting Senator Frelinghuysen. All others, at present, are in the Morrow camp.

Frelinghuysen Sent Letter.

A great majority of the Republican State committee favors Mr. Morrow, although the committee is officially merely observing the primary. This information was imparted to Senator Frelinghuysen in a letter today from Bertram E. Mott, State chairman. Senator Frelinghuysen had protested that the committee was violating the State law prohibiting State and county committees from taking sides in a primary contest.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Mott, "the individual members have the right, as individuals, to support the candidate of their choice, especially in their own counties."

"I beg leave to advise you," he concluded, "that there has been no violation of the State law providing that State and county committees shall not indorse candidates previous to the primary as far as the Republican State committee is concerned."

Hampden-Sidney Men Give Dinner

President of Capital Alumni Chapter Presides at Annual Fete.

The Washington alumni chapter of Hampden-Sydney College gave its annual dinner last night at the City Club, with R. P. Irving, president of the chapter, occupying the head of the table. George L. Walker, alumni secretary, was the guest of honor and gave an encouraging report of the campaign now in progress to raise funds for the permanent endowment of the college.

Mr. Walker spoe of the advantage the small college has over the larger institutions of learning and said that of the many hundreds of alumni he has interviewed in the two years he has been engaged in secretarial work, he could count on the fingers of one hand those who were in favor of enlarging the college beyond its present capacity of 280 students.

The traditions of Hampden-Sydney, dating back to the American Revolution, its fine old buildings, as well as its well-equipped more modern ones, the inspiring atmosphere of "The Hill," and the college spirit manifested by its student body and alumni, he said, could never be found in a large college.

Short talks were made by several of the alumni present, and it was decided to hold the next meeting in October, just before "home-coming day," October 18, when plans will be made by the members for attending the annual celebration at Hampden-Sydney.

New Ward Liner Goes Down Ways

Oriente Launched in Virginia With Two Governments Represented.

Newport News, Va., May 15 (A.P.).—Before a group of representatives of the American and Cuban governments and high officials of shipping lines, the Ward liner Oriente slipped down the ways into the waters of the James River today during colorful launching ceremonies. The new vessel was christened by Miss Virginia Hoydt, 15-year-old daughter of Richard F. Hoydt, director of the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies Lines, of which the Ward Lines are a subsidiary.

Representing the Cuban government, his excellency, Orestes Ferraro Marino, Ambassador at Washington, delivered a brief dedicatory address. Among those attending the launching were Albert H. Denton, Jefferson Myers and Samuel S. Sandberg, commissioners of the United States Shipping Board, and Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover.

Immediately following the launching the official party went to the Chamberlin-Vanderbilt Hotel for luncheon. The Oriente is a sister ship to the Morro Castle. The vessel is of 11,300 gross tons, with a length of 508 feet, a beam of 70.9 feet and loaded draft of 26 feet.

Quartet to Receive Hearing in Rockville for Fight at Roma Gardens.

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED

Preliminary hearing of charges of robbery preferred in connection with the alleged attempt to holdup Roma Gardens, roadhouse on the Rockville pike, will be given the four men arrested by Montgomery County Police Francis H. Harding, Michael Parella and Harry Atchison, of Washington, and James Callan, of Brooklyn, N. Y., at Rockville today.

Each of the men is held on three charges, two of assault and robbery and one of assault with intent to rob. Parella and Harding are at liberty on bond.

The four men were arrested by county police who were called by Frank Abbo, proprietor of the roadhouse, when he became suspicious of the men. A free for all fight was in progress between the arrested men and members of a private party being held at the roadhouse at the time of the alleged holdup.

Election of officers will be one of the chief features of the annual meeting of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs today at the Woodside Methodist Church. Tableaux will be staged by the various member organizations commemorating the silver anniversary of the federation. The tableaux will be presented under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Peters, chairman of the drama department, and will represent the important events of the organization's history for the past 25 years.

Music will be furnished by the music section of the Chevy Chase Woman's Club. The hostess clubs will be the Woman's Club of Woodside, the Home Interest Club, of Forest Glen, the Current Comment Club and the Woman's Improvement Club, of Silver Spring. The address of welcome will be given by Mrs. Harry Elkins, president of the Woodside Woman's Club.

The nominating committee, of which Mrs. J. Darby Bowman is chairman, has presented the following nominations for the balloting on new officers: Mrs. Peyton Whalen for president; Mrs. Garland Lignon, for first vice president; Mrs. Robert Allnutt, for second vice president; Mrs. George W. Young, for recording secretary; Mrs. Edgar W. Moore, for treasurer; Mrs. Almus Spears, for corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Eugene F. Stevens, for parliamentarian.

Two final decrees of absolute divorce were granted yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter, in Circuit Court at Rockville. Absolute divorce and custody of the two children was granted to Mrs. Louise Humphrie of Chevy Chase, from Tucker G. Humphries, of Detroit. Through Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, the wife contended that she had been deserted in a petition filed March 12, 1930.

Fermon J. Plummer, of Quince Orchard, was granted an absolute divorce from Mrs. Mabel C. Plummer, of Washington, on the grounds of infidelity. Through Attorney Albert M. Boulc, the husband alleged infidelity and named a corespondent in a petition filed March 28, 1930. The couple was married May 6, 1917, at Rockville. There are no children.

Montgomery County police are looking for Charles Masek, 23, former night clerk at the club, for questioning in connection with a robbery of approximately $402 at the Congressional Country Club. Police say that Masek punched the time clock for work shortly before the robbery was discovered and has not been seen since.

The sum of $402 was taken from Alexander Armour, $65 belonging to the club bellhops, as well as two shirts and suits, valued at $5, belonging to Joseph Jester, roommate of Masek at the club. Masek had obtained the position of night clerk May 8. County Policeman Windsor C. Poole is investigating the robbery.

The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission has asked authority to issue bonds totaling $300,000, of which $54,000 is to be expended on water and sewer connections for Montgomery County, it was announced yesterday by T. Howard Duckett, chairman of the commission. The petition has been presented to the Maryland Public Service Commission and includes a total of $110,700 for projects in Prince Georges County.

Text of Speech by Morrow Opening Senate Campaign

Newark, N. J., May 15 (A.P.).—Opening his campaign here tonight for nomination as the Republican candidate for United States senator from New Jersey, Dwight L. Morrow said:

I come before the Republican voters of New Jersey as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of United States senator. Upon the resignation of Senator Edge I was tendered the appointment to the United States Senate by the governor of the State. The work in Mexico and the protracted session of the naval arms conference in London made it impossible for me to accept the position by appointment. I had, however, signified my willingness to stand before the voters. Therefore I am here tonight. * * *

A man who accepts a party nomination accepts the general obligations of the party. This does not mean that he shall follow party blindly, but it does mean that he shall try to cooperate with his party colleagues and that he should depart from his party only where his conscience compels him to believe that his party is wrong. * * *

I hope to have the opportunity during the next few weeks to discuss with the voters of New Jersey some of the more important questions which may come before the United States Senate within the next six years.

Tonight I am going to discuss prohibition. It is a question seldom discussed dispassionately. It is a question which constantly confuses moral principles with the art of government.

Difficult Problem for Government.

The control of liquor has for a long time been one of the difficult problems of all governments. There are people who believe that the prohibition of intoxicating liquors under any circumstances by any government is an infringement on the right of the individual to lead his own life in his own way.

I do not share that view. It has been generally recognized that all governments have the right to protect a man against his own propensities if the injury to the community is sufficient to warrant the interference with individual liberty. The prohibition movement is a recognition of this principle. It is not a new movement. * * *

The liquor business has been for centuries one of those businesses in the conduct of which the government has a direct interest which warrants it in putting restrictions upon the personal liberty of individuals. How much restriction it is wise to put on individual liberty is a question about which there has been and will be great difference of opinion. The habits and character of the people, the size of the community, the extent of the participation of the people in the exercise of their political rights are all important factors in the determination of how far a community can go in restricting individual liberty for human good.

How Morrow Views Issue.

It is not my purpose to discuss in general the merits of prohibition as a policy. That, as I conceive it, is not the issue. The issue is whether it is practicable and in the public interest to apply that policy to the United States as a whole through the agency of the Federal Government. It is a problem in government.

The peculiar characteristic of the Government of the United States is its Federal form. Under that form of government we look to our several States to perform certain governmental functions, and to our Federal Government to perform other governmental functions.

Prior to 1919 it was the State governments that bore the principal responsibility for dealing with the liquor question. * * * Such functions as rested upon the Federal Government in connection with the liquor question were related to the exercises of its power over foreign and interstate commerce and its system of taxation.

Special War-Time Measure.

National prohibition went into effect throughout the whole United States on July 1, 1919, by a special war-time act of Congress, and was continued after January 17, 1920, under the power conferred on Congress by the eighteenth amendment. We have now had ten years of experience by which to judge the new policy.

Bear in mind that we had proceeded in this country for 130 years under the theory and the practice that the several States of the Union were the government which directly touched the lives of the people. It was the States which had such organization as existed for the administration of criminal law in general. It was the States that had built up police forces which made enforcement of local criminal law possible.

With the coming into force of the prohibition amendment, however, a vast new criminal jurisdiction was assumed by the Federal Government. This involved not only an organization of a new police force, but—what is even more important—it involved a new attitude of the people toward the Federal Government and of the Federal Government toward the people. The extremely delicate and sensitive problem of interference with the individual liberty of a man for the sake of the social good of the community was thereafter dealt with not in terms of small communities, but in terms of a mighty nation of 125,000,000 people, with great climatic, racial and social divergences.

Believed Partially Successful.

In many States, where it is in accord with prevailing popular sentiment, national prohibition is generally believed to be successful. It is successful because of the active cooperation of the people and their officials. In other States, including those with the greatest populations, the system works badly because the people and their officials do not cooperate with the Federal agents and the Federal agents alone are not able to exercise effective control.

In these States there exists resentment against the attempt to impose a control which the prevailing conscience of the peoples does not accept.

Is it well that large portions of our people should conceive of the Federal Government as an alien and even a hostile power? Is it well to have as a result a lawless, unregulated liquor traffic, attended by a shocking corruption?

It is not fair to assume that all resentment against national prohibition is due to a desire for unlimited license to be intemperate. There is no community in the United States which desires that. The resentment is due to the feeling that an unreasonable control is being imposed. * * *

Second Section of Amendment.

There are many problems in human living that are not susceptible of a final solution. The attitude of the community toward the traffic in liquor is such a problem.

I am aware that the second section of the eighteenth amendment gives the Congress and the several States "concurrent power" to enforce the amendment. I am aware that the States can, if they desire, enforce within their own jurisdictions the prohibition which the Federal Constitution now prescribes as the policy for the whole United States.

The fact remains, however, that the first section of the eighteenth amendment is operative in every hamlet in the land. It limits the power of all State legislative bodies and all State officials. It invalidates every legislative act which authorizes or sanctions what the section prohibits.

Federal Government Overburdened.

It has thus come to pass that States or subdivisions of States whose sympathy is not with the law feel themselves relieved of responsibility for enforcement. They leave to an overburdened Federal Government, with a wholly inadequate police force, the task of carrying out a great social reform which before 1920 all the communities of the land in one way or another were wrestling with.

I bring you no panacea for this deplorable condition. I know of no magical solution. I cannot, however, stand before my friends and neighbors and ask for their suffrage without having them know my attitude toward the problem:

First, I believe that the way out of the present difficulty is to recognize clearly the fundamental difference between the nature of the Federal Government and the State government. I believe this involves a repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the substitution therefor of an amendment which will restore to the States the power to determine their policy toward the liquor traffic, and vest in the Federal Government power to give all possible protection and assistance to those States that desire complete prohibition against invasion from the States that do not.

Amendment to Constitution.

If I should be elected to the United States Senate I should be prepared to vote for a resolution submitting to the several States an amendment to the Constitution in any form that would accomplish the foregoing purpose. I do not believe that the fundamental difficulty can be reached by an amendment of the Volstead act.

Second: The United States Senate as one of the two branches of the national legislature has a part in determining the appropriations for Federal law enforcement. So long as the eighteenth amendment and the statutes thereunder are the law of the land, I favor generous appropriations for their enforcement.

I favor the use of such appropriations, in the first place, for that portion of enforcement which is preeminently the duty of the Federal Government. This means that the Federal Government would first direct its efforts to keeping liquor from coming into the country and to keeping liquor from passing into interstate commerce, while there is no doubt of the power of the Federal Government under the eighteenth amendment to perform local police duty in the suppression of the liquor traffic, it should be remembered that it has a vast task in the purely Federal field. Until it performs that task it might well leave all local police duty with the States, who have concurrent power with the Federal Government in the local field. Such a method of enforcement would distribute responsibility where it belongs.

Wet and Dry Terms Avoided.

In the foregoing discussion I have tried to avoid the words "wet" and "dry." It does not help much in a solution of a problem to label men. Men labeled wet may be as much opposed to the saloon as men labeled dry.

The saloon must not come back. The people of the United States are rid of the saloon—and well rid of it. But in the process of ridding ourselves of the saloon a wholly unregulated liquor traffic has grown up in this country. One group blames it on disobedience to the law. It is not in such a spirit that a solution will be found.

The solution will be found when we realize that the issue before us is a Government problem. How can the control of the liquor traffic be divided between Federal and State governments in a way that will recognize the habits and sentiments and moral principles of the people in different parts of the country? I see no way of settling that question satisfactorily without a further change in the Constitution.

Amendment Not Impossible.

We hear on all sides that it is impossible to amend the Federal Constitution. It is difficult, but not impossible. Four times within the last twenty years the Constitution has been amended. It can be amended again. * * *

I look forward to the time when the old leaders in the temperance movement—the churches and the schools and the social workers—will appreciate that they have not reached a final solution of a world-old problem by the present eighteenth amendment.

I look forward to the time when the great moral teachers of the country will realize that in the battle for a great social reform there was wisdom in the old system of experimenting in 48 laboratories rather than in one.

HOUSE PAYS TRIBUTE TO DEAD MEMBERS

NAVY ORCHESTRA PLAYS

(Associated Press.)

The House of Representatives laid aside legislative activities yesterday to pay tribute to its dead.

In an hour-long memorial service, its members listened with bowed heads and in silence to a roll call of the twelve House members and three senators who have passed away during the last fourteen months. Immediately afterward the House adjourned for the day in further tribute.

As the representatives filed to their accustomed seats they found even the appearance of their historic chamber transformed to the occasion. Flowers and fern banked the Speaker's dais. A great vase of Easter lilies stood in the well of the House and to one side a Navy Band Orchestra played sacred music.

The calling of the roll of the deceased members for the final time became the duty of William Tyler Page, the clerk of the House.

Red Carnation Dropped.

And as each name was called, a red carnation was dropped simultaneously into a vase standing below the Speaker's dais from the hand of Mrs. Mary T. Norton, a Democratic member of the House from New Jersey.

Then, as a moment of devotional silence was declared and ended, the voice of the widow of a late Oregon representative, Mrs. Nicholas J. Sinnott, singing "Christ Went Up Into the Hills," was echoed back from the walls of the chamber that had resounded the voices of the men whose passings were mourned.

The senators whose names were on the roll were Lawrence D. Tyson, of Tennessee; Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio, and Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming.

Two Addresses Delivered.

The representatives were Royal H. Weller, of New York; Charles W. Roark, of Kentucky; W. P. Martin, of Louisiana; John J. Casey, of Pennsylvania; Wesley J. Steele, of Georgia; O. J. Kvale, of Minnesota; William W. Griest, of Pennsylvania; William K. Kaynor, of Massachusetts; Elmer O. Leatherwood, of Utah; James A. Hughes, of West Virginia; James P. Glynn, of Connecticut, and Robert Q. Lee, of Texas.

Two brief memorial addresses were delivered, one by Representative Crowther, of New York, and the other by Representative Montague, of Virginia, and with invocation and prayer by Dr. James Shera Montgomery, the House chaplain, and the singing of sacred music by the Interstate Commerce Commission Male Chorus the services were ended.

Court Considers Contempt Charge

Attorney Asserts He Does Not Recall Disrespectful Words About Jury.

A contempt charge against Leo K. Drury, an attorney with offices in the Southern Building, was taken under advisement yesterday in District Supreme Court by Justice Jennings Bailey.

Drury, who is alleged to have made disparaging remarks about a jury in circuit court after an adverse verdict, filed his answer to the petition of the Government yesterday and declared he had no recollection of having made the remark attributed to him. While admitting that the language he is said to have used was disrespectful, Drury tells the court that he intended no disrespect either to the tribunal or the members of the jury. He also tendered his apologies "if he did use strong language" following the verdict.

No argument in support of the Government's petition for a rule to show cause was offered by the assistant United States attorney, but Attorney Morgan H. Beach, on behalf of Drury, told the court that while his client did not recall making the alleged remarks he was willing to make any apology which the court might direct.

Half-Holiday Bill Favored in Report

Civil Service Committee in House Approves Grant to U. S. Workers.

The McCormack bill to grant a half holiday the year round to most Federal employes was favorably reported yesterday by the House civil service committee.

The bill, which has the indorsement of the Federation of Federal Employes and the American Federation of Labor, would grant a Saturday half holiday the year round to all Federal employes except those in the Postoffice Department, the Government Printing Office and some in the Interior Department and the Canal Zone.

Those in the Postoffice Department and the Government Printing Office, however, would be granted a half holiday by other legislation that is now pending.

CONFEREES TO MEET ON RETIREMENT BILL

Dale Ready to Approve Plan to Liberalize Law After Deadlock.

HOOVER FAVORS PROJECT

The Senate and House conferees on the new bill to liberalize the civil service retirement law will meet tomorrow morning, it was announced yesterday by Senator Porter Dale (Republican), of Vermont, chairman of the Senate civil service committee.

As was pointed out in The Post last Saturday, Senator Dale is ready to approve the new bill, although many of its features are obnoxious to him.

The willingness of the Vermont senator to meet with Chairman Lehlbach, of the House civil service committee, and the other House conferees is proof that he is ready to come to an agreement.

It has been a month or more since the Senate and House conferees have held a meeting. Their first and only session ended in a deadlock, with the Senate conferees holding out against the new bill. At the conclusion of that meeting, it was understood that there would be no more meetings until Senator Dale said the word. And this did not come until yesterday.

The conferees may or may not agree on the bill tomorrow, but there is no doubt that they will agree eventually. Once they have agreed, the two houses of Congress will approve the bill without hesitancy.

That President Hoover will sign it is a foregone conclusion, for it was he who sponsored the measure. In fact, he went so far as to issue a statement saying, in effect, he would accept no other bill.

RELIGION IN SCHOOLS DEADLOCKS SEMINAR

Catholics, Protestants and Jews Fail to Agree on Instruction Plan.

ST. LOUIS SESSION ENDS

St. Louis, May 15 (A.P.).—Agreement among Catholics, Protestants and Jews on a plan of religious instruction in public schools proved a knotty problem at the closing session of the St. Louis Seminar today.

There were various proposals, but leaders in the three religious faiths sought in vain to come to accord on the subject.

The conference ended with adoption of a plan to continue the seminar idea as a means of combatting religious conflict. But it also recognized basic differences in the religions that would prevent a union. Closer contacts between members of thre three faiths, socially as well as in church and community matters, also were urged.

The religious educational problem was the focal point in today's discussions. The Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor, St. Louis Protestant, thought it should be possible to give religious instruction for which the child should receive credit in the school course.

The Rev. Father Hugo Sloctemeyer, of St. Louis University, expressing the Catholic viewpoint, said both Catholics and Lutherans have established parochial school systems and submitted to double taxation in order to give their children the sort of education they deemed necessary and "as a standing protest against Godless education."

He suggested the Jews establish a similar system.

Rabbi A. E. Halpern thought, however, that the public schools should remain for all the children of America. He told of supplementary religious teachings given Jewish children and added that "if you want more religious teachings, let it be in the homes."

Other speakers defended the public school system as "not irreligious or Godless" and pointed out that any agreement on religious instruction in the public schools would be hampered by the difficulty of agreeing on what religion is.

Enlargement of courses in religion at universities and colleges, open to all groups, was suggested. A further study of the whole question was deemed advisable by other members of the conference.

Eugene Roy, Choice of U. S., Assumes Haiti Presidency

Crowd Yells Epithets at Borno When Retiring Official Leaves.

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, May 15 (A.P.).—Eugene Roy, choice of President Hoover's commission, elected by the Haitian council of state April 21, today was inaugurated president of the island republic. A demonstration against retiring President Luis Borno alone provided a note of discord to the event.

The inauguration ceremony, which took place in the Chamber of Deputies, was without any other of the unpleasantnesses which recently have marked the progress of political life in Haiti.

The new president, 69 years old, and an independent, brings to the office almost unanimous support of Haiti's several political groups. He will develop plans for a popular election this summer or autumn when a president will be regularly elected by vote of the people.

Inauguration day was ideal for all the eight ceremonies, which began at sunrise with the firing of the presidential salute of 21 guns. The president-elect was escorted to the Chamber of Deputies, following raising of the national colors, by a procession of high officials, who witnessed the taking of the oath of office. The party then attended a mass in the cathedral, after which the new chief went to the palace accompanied by his cabinet and the state council, president and vice president for a formal communication to him of the authorities of his post.

This afternoon a great public reception was held at the palace. Port-au-Prince was in gala dress. The streets were filled with cheering crowds, bells were rung and whistles and horns raised their din for fifteen minutes.

While the president and his entourage were proceeding from the cathedral to the palace the large crowds got out of hand, breaking through the police lines. The procession moved into the palace and the gates of the high, iron fence swung closed upon the mob.

EUGENE ROY.

As retiring President Borno emerged from the palace the demonstration turned to a scene of disorder for an instant, the throngs yelling invectives as he drove away. Borno arrived at his home in Petionville without further incident.

The new Roy cabinet tonight was announced as follows:

Frederic Bernadin, Cape Haitian minister of foreign relations; Rudolph Barrau, minister of interior and justice; Ernest Douyon, leader of the Union Patriotique, Cayes, minister of public works; Damocles Vieux, public instruction; Franck Roy, minister of finance (distant cousin of President Roy and employe of the National Bank of Haiti).

It was reported that two sons of the president would be appointed consuls to New York and Havre.

REPORTS GROW THAT CANNON WILL FACE TRIAL BY CHURCH

ords showing Bishop Cannon's stock transactions.

Asked to Explain.

Although it has not been possible to learn the accusations made by Mr. Fitzhugh and his associates, it was generally reported that they were based on Bishop Cannon's transactions with Cable & Co. brokerage house brought to light last year.

Shortly after these transactions were discovered and Southern Methodism was looking to Cannon to explain what was termed "gambling in stocks" the bishop issued a statement which was called "unspotted from the world" defending his activities.

In this statement he compared buying stocks on margin with buying lots on credit or on the installment plan. He cited the names of several laymen in the church who had advised him on stock market transactions and indicated his belief that no more censure should be directed at bishops for such activities than was directed at laymen.

It was charged that Bishop Cannon further violated church law by having his brokers keep him in touch with the market while he was on foreign missions, and that some of the transactions with Cable & Co. were on Sundays. His stock market activities, Bishop Cannon said, had been carried on over a period of twenty years, or before his election to the college of bishops.

The words "serve" and "obey" today were stricken from the marriage service of the church. Little opposition to the change developed when the matter was brought to a vote at the conference.

Advocates of the revision said the omission of "serve" and "obey" from the promise taken by the bride was in keeping with the trend of the times and would be approved universally.

The conference voted to enlarge the charges upon which a minister may be tried and also to retain the present unwritten limitation of four years on the terms of presiding elders. It was decided that when charges of immorality are brought and can not be substantiated, the minister may be found guilty of gross impropriety or highly unministerial conduct with the punishment a reprimand, suspension or expulsion.

Before adoption of the memorial, the only charges upon which a minister could be tried, were improper words and temper, and immorality. In the latter case, unless the charges could be fully proved, the jury was perforce obliged to acquit him, even though the evidence clearly showed that his action had been highly improper, and even though his superiors were convinced of the truth of the immorality charge.

Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh, N. C., chairman of the temperance committee said the report of his group would be brought in late this week with nominations for board officials for the next quadrennium. While Mr. Daniels would not comment on the report, it is known that the re-election of Bishop Cannon as chairman of the board of temperance will be fought within the committee. Mr. Daniels was one of the laymen who signed the stock market speculation accusations lodged against the bishop.

done," he said, to the accompaiment of cheers.

He served a warning, however, that the nations are "faHing back into their old-mentality."

"Old fears and old superstitions regarding security are returning," he said. "The same sort of arguments so familiar before 1914 are coming up, unblushing and unashamed, in 1930."

Churchill's Three Points.

Mr. Churchill followed the prime minister and was stern in his criticism, declaring that the anxiety of his party regarding the treaty had not been removed by Mr. MacDonald's agreeable speech. His criticism was based upon three main points:

That the treaty was not the natural successor of the Washington agreement signed in 1922, but differed fundamentally from it.

That it was not a treaty of parity between Great Britain and the United States, but was acceptance by Britain of definitely inferior sea power.

That the treaty contained subsidiary provisions which would have the effect of insuring that this inferiority was attained before revision of the treaty in 1936.

Signing Melancholy Event.

"I submit," continued Mr. Churchill, "that in proposing a treaty binding ourselves to definite naval inferiority to any power, the government has gone beyond what was wise or right.

"The signature and the ratification of this treaty will be a memorable and melancholy event in our history. We Conservatives are powerless to avert such a disaster, but we can not accept any responsibility for it.

"We can not invest this act of the government with national sanction. We hold ourselves free to review the whole situation."

During Mr. Churchill's speech the House was thrown into an uproar by an almost unprecedented incident. Mr. Churchill publicly read a lengthy telegram about the submarine question that David Lloyd George, then prime minister, had sent to Lord Balfour at the Washington conference in 1921.

Lloyd George Criticizes.

Prime Minister MacDonald and Mr. Lloyd George protested against the citing of the telegram, and a controversy raged over whether it was a cabinet document and, therefore, unavailable for public quotation without special authorization.

Mr. Churchill ended the incident by expressing regret "if I have erred."

Mr. Lloyd George, for his part, said that Mr. MacDonald had been unfair and ungracious in appearing to belittle the value of the Washington conference, which the Liberal leader considered one of the greatest achievements of disarmament.

He asserted that the greatest feature of the London conference was the understanding reached between Great Britain, the United States and Japan, which was "worth over 100 cruisers."

ANTISALOON LEAGUE RECEIPTS BARED BY LOBBY COMMITTEE

over the protest of F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league.

The wealth clustering around Sebastian S. Kresge, Detroit chain-store magnate, was shown to be the financial mainstay of the league during the last four years, contributions from this source aggregating $116,250 for that period. Of this amount, $106,250 was donated through the Kresge Foundation of Detroit, while the other $10,000 was given by Stanley S. Kresge, the magnate's son, in 1928, to help finance the league's political activities.

Conspicuously absent from the list was the donation of $500,000 pledged by the elder Kresge in December, 1927, to aid the league's dry educational campaign then adopted. Mr. Kresge offered to give the $500,000 to match a similar amount to be raised by the league as a part of its contemplated $10,000,000 educational fund, projected at that time.

The records made public yesterday indicate that the Kresges have succeeded the Rockefellers as the fiscal angels of the dry organization. The latest contribution from the latter source listed in the records held by the committee is $20,000 given jointly by John D. Rockefeller, sr., and John D. Rockefeller, jr., on April 11, 1925.

Except for a gain of slightly less than $8,000 in 1923, and another gain of more than $70,000 in 1928, the league's receipts show a steady decline from 1919 through 1929, according to the totals made public by Chairman Caraway. Among the political contributions for 1928 is one of $1,000 from E. C. Jameson, of New York, who gave $172,000 to support the anti-Smith campaign, including the $65,300 to Bishop James Cannon, jr., which is scheduled as a subject for future investigation by the lobby committee.

Collections of the league by years were: 1919, $919,984; 1920, $842,381; 1921, $647,519; 1922, $560,340; 1923, $568,158; 1924, $440,209; 1925, $370,220; 1926, $333,375; 1927, $367,361;

SEA PACT ATTACKED BY ADMIRAL JONES

Adviser to U. S. Delegates Points Out Danger to America in Treaty.

PRATT BACKS DOCUMENT

ator Hale produced a confidential document from the files of the Navy Department wherein Admiral Pratt had opposed abolition of the submarine as a British policy fatal to the United States, the admiral explained that he had changed his mind.

Testimony by Admiral Pratt before the Senate naval affairs committee in 1927 insisting upon the superiority of the 10,000-ton ship and asking for 36 such vessels was also read by Mr. Hale and brought the same reply. The confidential document signed by Admiral Pratt was dated 1925 and the admiral was finally given the benefit of an executive session to explain what he had learned to alter his viewpoint.

Jones' Testimony Summarized.

Admiral Jones' testimony may be summarized in the following paragraphs.

1. The first part of the first article of the treaty contains a provision giving France and Italy a right to build landing platforms on capital ships and thereby increasing the prospect of early British action to exceed the treaty limitations.

2. Article VIII permits unrestricted building of 20-knot 2,000-ton ships and thereby surrenders a policy which the American Navy has fought for during the past six years at every session of the preparatory commission of the league and at Geneva. America has objected to the speed of these vessels because it enables them to act as effective commerce raiders over an area measured by a cruising radius of from 4,000 to 5,000 miles. The ships are of great value to foreign powers in restricted waters and of no military value to America, according to Admiral Jones.

British Success Cited.

3. Under article XV the British succeed in their long campaign to force a distinction between 8-inch gun cruisers and 6-inch gun cruisers by the device of the sub-category for each type. In every instance where it is advantageous to Great Britain to use the word sub-category, that term is used, the admiral stated, while whenever it is to Britain's advantage to use category that term is employed. The veteran admiral predicted trouble over this.

4. Article XVI, in conjunction with article XVIII, denies America's effort for parity by compelling delay in construction of the last ships of the eighteen cruiser program.

5. Article XIX causes America to come into the next conference of 1935 with "frozen tonnage" of unsatisfactory ships and with only 14,000 tons to replace, where the British will have upwards of 100,000 tons for replacement and Japan will have a similar advantage. The British, according to the terms of the treaty, will not be prejudiced if they replace smaller vessels with 8-inch gun ships and the Japanese, according to Admiral Jones, will be in a position to wrest further concessions from America.

Japanese Ratio Recalled.

6. The 5-3 Washington conference ratio with Japan, obtained at the sacrifice of the right to fortify American bases in the Pacific, should read 5-5 plus, with Japan having the plus and the further concession in the London treaty to Japan jeopardizes America's position in the event of hostilities in the Pacific.

7. The only effective means of maintaining even approximate parity is for America to build 8-inch gun cruisers, capable of taking care of themselves in distant waters, instead of the 6-inch cruisers which must either run or claim protection of the fleet. "A cruiser acting as convoy can not run," the admiral said. "She must stand and fight." British superiority is proportionately increased by the number of 6-inch gun cruisers agreed upon in the treaty, said Admiral Jones, who explained the importance of naval bases in this connection.

"There is a difference of opinion in the Navy, is there not?" Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, asked near the conclusion of the admiral's testimony.

"The vast preponderance of opinion in the Navy supports the 8-inch gun program. Of course you can find individuals who think otherwise," said Admiral Jones.

"You differ from Admiral Pratt?" asked Senator Robinson.

"Fundamentally," the admiral replied.

Adams First Witness.

Secretary Adams was the first witness before the foreign relations committee. He read a prepared statement before cross-examination began.

"When, if you please," asked Senator Johnson, "do you expect parity with Great Britain?"

"Some time after 1936," the Secretary replied.

"Isn't it a fact that during the life of the treaty we can not attain parity?"

Mr. Adams admitted that we do not "quite attain parity" and the concession made to Japan respecting 8-inch gun cruisers was alluded to as one cause. The cost of the treaty Navy would be a billion dollars roughly, according to Secretary Adams.

Prefers More 8-inch Guns.

Respecting the superiority of the 8-inch guns for American needs, Senator Johnson asked the Secretary if he had not opposed the 6-inch gun program adopted by the delegation.

"Personally, I would prefer more of the 8-inch guns," was the reply.

"Was there any discussion and were there any sessions at which you expressed your opposition to the 6-inch gun program and supported the 8-inch gun program," Senator Johnson continued.

Secretary Adams admitted this to be true, but said in the end the delegation was unanimous and he concluded not to oppose the 6-inch gun program.

"When did you reach that conclusion?" Mr. Johnson asked.

"When I found it was impossible to get the other kind."

"That's all," said Senator Johnson, but Senator Robinson, of Indiana, asked pointedly if the change of the Secretary's position was not "because the other powers would not permit us to carry out our 6-inch gun program."

Objected to Ratio Increase.

It also developed that Secretary Adams objected to increasing the Japanese ratio from 5-3 to 10-7. But Japanese insistence forced the delegation to yield in the interest of harmony, it was conceded.

President Hoover's conference last summer with Ramsay MacDonald at the Rapidan camp was brought into the discussion in connection with the cruiser problem. Mr. MacDonald sought during his visit to bring about a degrease in America's 8-inch gun program, but the general board of the Navy declined to indorse anything under 21 8-inch gun ships. Mr. MacDonald objected to anything over 18 cruisers of this type. A compromise was thus reached at London, it was explained, whereby America obtained 16 of these ships. The committee wanted to know if any records were procurable shedding light on the discussions between the President and Mr. MacDonald. Mr. Borah referred to these as the "figures on the Rapidan."

"You mean the log?" said Senator Harrison. Mr. Adams said he thought there were available records of such figures but that they were in the State Department.

Naval Authorities Mystified.

Quoting from a report from naval intelligence, Senator Robinson, of Indiana, said the naval authorities were mystified as late as May 1 last concerning the reason for America's sacrificing the right to build the last ships of her 18-ship program during the treaty.

"What was the real reason?" the senator asked.

"That was a compromise with Japan," replied Secretary Adams, who conceded that it abandons parity during the life of the treaty.

"The point I want to make is that the restriction appears all on one side. Great Britain and Japan do not sacrifice anything," added Senator Robinson.

Admiral Bristol and members of the general board will be the next witnesses before the foreign relations committee.

Reed Lauds Naval Pact In Pittsburgh Address

Pittsburgh, May 15 (A.P.).—United States Senator David A. Reed said today that the London naval conference had done more to eliminate enmity and suspicion among the great powers of the world than anything else since the dawn of civilization.

Speaking at a luncheon given by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce in his honor, Senator Reed, a member of the American delegation to the conference, said he was confident the parley had removed the possibility of the United States becoming involved in war during the lifetime of the present generation. He predicted ratification of the pact by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, the three nations involved.

BALTIMORE RAIDERS SEIZE $8,500 IN RUM

Capital Agents Aid in Liquor Confiscation as Steamer From South Docks.

LAKE RUNNER IS CAUGHT

Baltimore, Md., May 15 (A.P.).—Washington special agents and local customs officials today seized an eight packing case cargo of liquor from the hold of the steamship Betty Weems, coastwise vessel, when it docked in Baltimore. The liquor, which consisted of rare wines, liquors and whisky, was valued at $8,500.

The cases were consigned to the Clover Distributing Co. of Baltimore from the Coral Gables Preserving Co. of Miami, Fla. Officers here said no such firm existed and word was received from Miami that authorities of both Miami and Coral Gables had been unable to find the Coral Gables Preserving Co. No arrests were made.

The liquor was in packing cases lined with metal sheathing to prevent leakage in case of bottle breakage.

The raid was made as the result of a tip received by Washington authorities from those of another State. The ship touched at Fort Pierce and Jacksonville, Fla., on its trip north. Its regular route takes it to ports in Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., May 15 (A.P.).—A case of mistaken identity was revealed tonight as the reason why Coast Guardsmen were able to capture without gunfire the rumrunner No. 18 from Amherstburg, Ontario, where she slipped into Green Bay from Lake Michigan last night.

Member of the crew of six, in jail here, said they believed a cutter from the Plum Island guard station was only a fishing boat. They let her draw alongside before they realized their mistake.

The No. 18 carried 4,000 cases and barrels of Canadian ale and beer, valued at $80,000. She cleared Goderich, Ontario, last week. The crew was taken to the Door County jail, awaiting transportation to Green Bay for arraignment before a Federal commissioner tomorrow, and the cargo, much of it in barrels on the deck, placed under guard.

Youth Questioned In Trio of Blazes

Seat Pleasant Fires Lead to Detention in Jail at Upper Marlboro.

Prince Georges County police are holding a twenty-year-old youth in the Upper Marlboro Jail in connection with the investigation of Seat Pleasant fires believed of incendiary origin. No charge has been placed against him and he is booked merely on a charge of investigation.

The youth was arrested yesterday by County Policeman Frank P. Prince and State Detective Joseph Daugherty, of the State fire marshal's office, who have been investigating the $150,000 fireat the store and lumber yard of F. L. Watkins at Seat Pleasant two weeks ago. Two other smaller fires which apparently were of incendiary origin caused residents to fear a firebug, and Sheriff Charles S. Early assigned Prince and asked that a State investigator be assigned.

The youth was questioned yesterday afternoon in the office of Sheriff Early, where he was confronted by a milk wagon driver who had told police that a youth answering his description had interfered with him when he tried to extinguish the blaze in one of the small fires.

FERBER COMPLETES 40 YEARS WITH POST

Type Assembler's Loyalty Is Rewarded by Employer With Gift of Watch.

EARLY DAYS RECALLED

America's fastest type assembler completed his fortieth year on the job yestreday, making him, at the age of 56 years, the established dean of The Post's composing room.

John Louis Ferber, then 16 years old, went to work for The Washington Post at the close of 1889, wrapping papers to be mailed to subscribers.

It was only a few months later, on May 15, 1890, that he was promoted from that job to the work of assembling type in the composing room, which ask he still performs today.

When John Lewis Ferber started to work for The Post, the typographical union did not recognize the assembler as a journeyman, largely for hte reason that in those days the work generally was left to the care or neglect of the printers' devil.

If the quantity of type set was found at the last minute to be insufficient to fill the paper, a few slugs of "boiler plate" were used to fill in, and if the paper were overset, the surplus type was returned to its fonts regardless.

But after a few years the difference between the way Louis Ferber did his work and the way the same task was done on the average paper began to attract attention, with the result that, in 1904, the union created a new classification for assemblers, Louis Ferber at that time being the sole member of the group.

By 1912 the "assembly bank" was one of the most important features in every composing room, and keen competition in speed and accuracy had developed throughout the country's newspaper plants. It was at that time that a contest was held in Washington in which Louis Ferber "leaded" or spaced three galleys of type to every one leaded by an assembler from Baltimore who had, until then, claimed the championship. Since that time Louis Ferber's supremacy never has been threatened.

After a brief but enthusiastic celebration participated in yesterday by his fellow workers in the composing room, as well as those in other departments of The Post, Mr. Ferber was presented by A. D. Marks, business manager, with a gold watch and chain, a token of appreciation from Edward B. McLean, owner and publisher.

His fellow members of The Washington Post Chapel, Columbia Typographical Union 101, gave him a large box of cigars.

Dry Enforcement Bills Wait Committee Move

The House judiciary committee held two sessions yesterday without coming to an agreement to favorably report the prohibition enforcement bills which have been pending for weeks. At the close of the late afternoon session Chairman Graham announced that tentative agreement had been reached on some points, but that vitally important questions remain to be disposed of.

At its morning session the committee voted to report favorably a bill introduced by Representative Moore (Democrat), Virginia, authorizing accused persons to waive jury trial. This measure, it was explained, is general in scope and in line with decisions of the Supreme Court. While this would apply to liquor cases, it is not one of the bills recommended by the President's Law Enforcement Commission.

Police Hold Domestic On $120 Theft Charge

"Jumping money" made its appearance in police circles last night, when Detective Sergt. Howard Ogle recovered $120 in bills that had been stolen from Mrs. Dorothy Smith, a nurse, of Columbia road near Eighteenth street northwest.

Lelia Tolson, Negress, of New Jersey avenue near Florida avenue northwest, a domestic in the home of W. A. Graham Clarke, Morrison street near Thirty-second street northwest, where Mrs. Smith was on a case, told the detective when he found the $120 in her trunk that it must have jumped there. Mrs. Smith declared she left her pocketbook, containing a $100 bill and $20 in small bills, on a table and some one extracted the money while she wasn't looking. The Negress has been charged with grand larceny.

Police Aid to Veterans Commended in Letter

"The kindness and general attitude of the Washington police force toward the many thousands of disabled World War veterans that live here and also at Government hospitals," was commended in a letter to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, yesterday.

The letter was written by William Charles Wolfe, a disabled veteran who told of being helped by Policeman H. D. Johnson, at Pennsylvania Monday, when he was stricken ill. That instance was but one of many in which police had helped war veterans, Mr. Wolfe said.

Burke to Begin Duties As Capital Patrolman

Detective William F. Burke, of Third Precinct, today was scheduled to begin a term of duty at the Sixth Precinct as a patrolman, the transfer having been ordered without prejudice and at Burke's request.

The Post, in a recent story announcing this transfer, said Burke had been convicted on a charge of intoxication in police court. This is incorrect in that Detective Burke was found guilty and fined on intoxication charges only by the police trial board. The Post regrets the error.

Two Autoists Injured Dodging Three Ducks

Eugene V. Mangum, 40 years old, of 411 Twelfth street northeast, and Frank G. Dimmick, 41 years old, of 1379 F street northeast, were injured yesterday afternoon when they tried to dodge three ducks on the highway near Forestville, Md. Their car hit an abutment and overturned.

Upon being taken to Casualty Hospital, Mangum was found to have lacerations on the right leg and possibly fractured ribs, while Dimmick had contusions of the chest and possibly fractured ribs.

SALT RAID RESULTS IN SITTING CONTEST

MILLS TO BE REOPENED

Bombay, May 15 (A.P.).—The eyes of all India centered today on the little village of Dharasaana, where the strangest scene of all the extraordinary drama witnessed recently in this country was enacted.

A contest in "civil resistance" took place between Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, leading a group defying the salt laws, and police. Mrs. Naidu, who heads the civil disobedience movement now that Mahatma Gandhi and Abbas Tyabji are in jail, headed her volunteers for the government salt deposits at Dharasaana and intended to raid the salt pans.

The police halted the party, whereupon Mrs. Naidu and her followers squatted on the road while the police formed a cordon around them. The odd situation continued all day. No one was allowed to pass the cordon with food for the volunteers, and no volunteer who left the police lines was permitted to return.

Leader and Flock Sit.

Meanwhile, the woman leader and her flock sat in the road, chatting and spinning native cloth. It was believed that she would be joined by a second party tomorrow unless she agreed to leave Dharasaana without attempting the salt raid.

Other events in India today were shaded by the happenings of Dharasaana road. The usual crop of arrests and sentences was harvested, but there were no serious disorders.

A "red" procession more than a mile long, organized by the Youth League of Bombay, paraded in the fort area of the city tonight, carrying red flags. Many members of the Congress party, with "Gandhi caps" and red scarfs and carrying the tricolored national flag, also marched.

New Strategy Evolved.

Among the marchers were large numbers of women and children, wearing orange robes and red scarfs. They were led by Mrs. Kamaladevi Chattopadhyaya and cried "Long live the revolution" as they strode along.

A new secret strategy was evolved by the all-India congess at a session which ended today after three days and nights. Its deliberations were closely guarded.

Pandit Maliviya, member of the congress, notified the government that a committee would enter the Peshawar district for relief of members bereft in recent disorders. A government order previously issued forbids such a step.

Mills Will Reopen.

Sholapur's mills will reopen Saturday, it was announced, although the owners still fear outbreaks. J. E. B. Hutson, home member of the government, returned to Sholapur, where wholesale arrests brought the total far into the hundreds. Capture was reported of most of the "firebrands" blamed for the campaign of arson that inaugurated the killings and martial law in the last week-end.

The government suppressed the Bombay congress bulletin for two months for its seditious publications. At the same time Mrs. Lakshmpathi, of Madras, was arrested and imprisoned for one year on charges of leading a salt raid.

Evidences of communistic activities in the north were increasing, government reports said. The authorities were preparing a campaign against the reds.

Five Policemen Added To White House Staff

The White House police force was increased from 38 to 43 privates and placed under the control of the United States Secret Service yesterday under the terms of a bill signed by President Hoover. Richard Jervis, head of the White House Secret Service, will be in charge.

Clarence L. Dalrymple, who for 20 years has been in command of the force as sergeant, will be active head of the group with the rank of captain. Ernest M. Seaman is promoted from sergeant to lieutenant. The three sergeants provided by the bill are Adolphus Walters, A. W. Gall, and John M. D. McCubbin.

Minister Is Fined $50 On Gambling Charge

Charles A. Wyles, a colored Methodist minister, was fined $50 in Police Court yesterday by Judge Gus A. Schuldt on a charge of operating a numbers game. Wyles pleaded guilty and Judge Schuldt expressed surprise. "Do you mean to say that you, a minister of the Gospel, managed a numbers game among your followers?"

Wyles pointed out that it was only a 12-cent game and declared that everybody is "playing numbers so I was just keeping up with the times." "What a tendency," remarked the judge as he assessed the fine which was paid promptly.

RED BATTLE PLANES SUCCEED IN ATTACK

Aberdeen Theoretical Mass of Ruins as Fortunes Turn in Mimic War.

SIX FLIGHTS TRIUMPH

The fortunes of war took a sudden turn yesterday and the previously hard-hit Red battle forces from Bolling Field won the day from the defending Blues at Aberdeen, Md., in the aerial war between them. Out of nine Red flights to leave Bolling during the day, six completed their missions by roaring triumphantly down on Phillips Field at Aberdeen, having eluded the elaborate spotting network of the Blues. Theoretically, Aberdeen is a mass of ruins.

During the morning three flights of attack planes and two flights of bombers began raids on the Blue stronghold, the latter defended by antiaircraft artillery, twenty pursuit planes and a network of closely interlocked observation posts scattered 100 miles throughout the disputed area. All of the attack planes and one of the bombardment flights were successful, the remaining flight of bombers alone coming in with the pursuit plane hotly trailing it.

In the afternoon three flights of attack and one of bombardments set out from the Red base. One of the attack flights got through, as did the single flight of bombers.

Today's Red success was attributed by a neutral officer observing the mimic war to a queer turn of events. The attack flights, accustomed to fly only a few feet over the treetops, attracted attention when one came in Wednesday with bits of foliage draped on its landing gear. Orders were issued yesterday to disregard normal tactics and fly above 1,000 feet. The attack planes took advantage of the order by climbing to about 7,000 feet, where they escaped detection by the observation posts.

250 Danes Visit Capital En Route to Denmark

Approximately 250 Danes from Chicago will stop over in Washington today en route to New York, whence they will sail Saturday to Denmark in the interest of the world's fair of 1933. Their purpose of visiting the Capital is to pay their respects to President Hoover and to Constantin Brun, Danish Minister to the United States.

The party will be received at the White House at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon and will be guests at a reception given by Mr. Brun from 4 to 6 o'clock at the Willard Hotel. Senator Glenn, of Illinois, will meet them at the Union Station. The party will sail on the noted Ford "peace ship."

The plaintiff tells the court that she was arrested several months ago on a disorderly house warrant, and asserts that the defendants instigated the charge. She also sets out that the following day the charge was nolle prossed in Police Court. Attorney Soterios Nicholson appears for the plaintiff.

CLEAN-UP WEEK

By GEORGE S. WATSON, Chief Engineer, Fire Department of the District of Columbia.

Many fires that require the work of this department could be avoided by a little care and forethought. Trash in cellars and buildings is a constant source of menace not only to the owner of the property but also to the entire community.

If during Clean-Up Week every one would make an inspection of his premises and promptly remove all waste paper, old boxes, excelsior and other material of inflammable nature, the results of this work should be apparent in a reduction in the number of minor fires to which this department has to respond. This will serve to improve the general rating of Washington as a fire insurance risk and it will add to the protection which the Fire Department can give the city.

There are fires, frequently of a serious nature, which will occur despite all precautions. Equipment called out to fires of a minor nature caused by waste paper and rubbish is not available to protect the city from more serious conflagrations.

Clean-Up Week seems to present a real opportunity for all of us to contribute to the safety of the city.

The couple married October 18, 1924, at Rockville, Md., and have one child, now 4 years old. The wife charges the husband with cruelty while he charges her with many acts of infidelity with the corespondents. POSTOFFICE LEASES FACE HOUSE INQUIRY

Committee Will Seek to Learn if Lessors Aided in Campaign Funds.

BIG RENTALS ARE HINTED

(Associated Press.)

An investigation into postoffice-facility leases of the Postoffice Department and campaign contributions of lessors was decided upon yesterday by the House campaign expenditures committee.

The committee instructed Chairman Williamson to introduce a resolution to ask authority of the House to permit it to conduct an inquiry during the recess and to provide $25,000 for its expenses.

Decision to make the inquiry was reached on the basis of a report by a subcommittee which conducted a preliminary study to determine whether charges made by Representative Maas (Republican), Minnesota, should be investigated. Mr. Maas charged individuals and concerns were in the business of leasing facilities to the Postoffice Department at exorbitant rentals and that they issued bonds far in excess of the value of their properties, informing the public they possessed unbreakable leases.

Mr. Williamson said the investigation would seek to ascertain if the charges were true and whether the lessors had contributed to either party campaign funds, and "if so whether they are in any way connected with the leases."

The subcommittee reported, Mr. Williamson said, that it had found no fraud as far as Postoffice Department officials were concerned, but that it was felt a thorough investigation was justified.

Mr. Williamson said he would press for early action on the resolution which he plans to introduce today. The resolution was drafted by Representative Colton (Republican), Utah.

Bucker, of 367 M street southwest, seeking to recover $15,000 for alleged personal injuries said to have been suffered in an automobile accident on the Philadelphia-Washington road almost two years ago.

The woman, through her attorneys, L. Q. C. Lamar and Robert A. Grace, asserts that on September 24, 1928, she was riding in an automobile near Havre de Grace, Md., when a machine belonging to the defendant crashed into it from the rear. HOLY RIVER WINNER AT BRADLEY FARMS

Rain Halts One Event During Second Day of National Horse Show.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS

Hunters and saddle horses from the East's finest stables flashed their heels over hurdles and strutted in graceful gaits yesterday in the second day of the National Capital Horse Show Association's annual spring meeting on the rolling hills of Bradley Farms, Md.

Rains again delayed the program, and caused postponement of one event, but the crowd was larger than on the opening day and the performance was of high class despite wet turf and clay bogs beneath some of the higher barriers.

Holy River, one of Richard K. Mellon's Rolling Rock Farms entries, captured the feature event, a class for thoroughbred hunters over an outside course with seven high barriers. Prince Charming, a Warfield Farms gelding, was second, with Red Rock, another Mellon entry, third. Fourth place went to Ethelred, owned and ridden by Roger Bayly. The first prize was $50; second, $30; third, $15; fourth, $5.

Saddle Horse Class Lively.

One of the liveliest events of the day was the ladies' saddle horse class, which was won by Mrs. J. H. Guitar, of Churchill Farms, Va., on Marcorita, a big brown mare which she rode side-saddle. Miss Elizabeth Jackson, in the saddle on E. W. Noble's Marse Henry, placed second. Miss Evelyn Walker, of McDaniel, Va., up on Vernon G. Owen's Harriet Lee, was third, and Judy, a Karl W. Corby entry, was fourth. Juddy showed bad manners in the opening round, and was out of control for several minutes. Her rider was changed, however, and she came back to place fourth among the fifteen entries.

Miss Elizabeth Downes, of New York, riding John S. Harrington's Bobby Blees, looked a winner before her mount dropped a shoe and was forced out of the event.

The first event of the day—a jumping contest for green hunters—was taken by Richard K. Mellon's Laurel, with Miss Ruth Cowan's Keodore coming second, and Roger Bayly's Miss Burriand third. Lady Barclay, owned by Mrs. Ellsworth Augustus, of Willoughby, Ohio, was fourth. Prizes were: First, $40; second, $25; third, $10; fourth, $5.

Bandit Flag Winner.

G. W. Rust's Bandit Flag flashed to victory in the contest for hunters owned by residents of the District of Columbia. Ray H. Norton's Buckeye was second, with Miss Betty Couzens' Bean Beetle third. Daffodil, a chestnut mare owned by Miss Persis C. Myers, placed fourth. Prizes were: First, silver cup; second, plate; third, $15; fourth, $5.

Class 36, for hunters and jumpers over a modified Olympia course with jumps from 4 to 4 feet 6 inches, was won by Lucifer, owned and ridden by Miss Ruth Cowans, of Montreal, Canada. E. E. Adamson's Tip, ridden by Dick Adamson, was second, and Fred King's Pa Hale finished third, with Bernie Cox up. Pathfinder, a brown gelding from the Redpath Stables, Gaylord, Va., placed fourth. Prizes were: First, $60; second, $40; third, $15; fourth, $5.

The American Remount Association class for horses 3 to 5 years old, sired by a Government stallion, was won by In the Way, a Woodside Stock Farms' mount, ridden by Stanley Green. Cagwin, owned and ridden by Ernest M. Woolf, was second, with Dr. E. H. Marsteller's Nancy, third. Heretam, a chestnut gelding, owned and ridden by Mrs. Cary Jackson, placed fourth. Prizes were: First, $40; second, $15; third, $5; fourth, ribbon. No jumps were taken in this event, the entries being judged for form in the walk, trot, canter and gallop.

Marcel Wins Saddle Event.

Real form featured the open road hack class, which included ribbon winners of many shows, who were judged in the walk, fast trot, slow canter and hand gallop. Kenneth N. Gilpin's Marcel won the saddle event, with Maj. George S. Patton's Hukupu placing second. Ernest M. Woolf's Cagwin was third, and W. Frank Burrows' Happy Time fourth. Prizes were: First, $50; second, $25; third, $10; fourth, $5.

Classes 15 and 32, delayed by rain on the opening day, were run off before yesterday's program was commenced. The first event—a saddle show of thoroughbred horses—was won by Mr. Gilpin's Marcel, Clarence H. Osborne's Opequon placing second. Scioto, Karl W. Corby's classy brown gelding, was third; C. H. Carrico's Motari placed fourth.

Class 33, a jumping contest for thoroughbreds other than hunters, was won by Miss Ruth Cowan's Red Tape. Sinbad, Mrs. Harry Frank's star of the opening day, was second, and Springweather, of the Chilmark Stable, placed third. Fourth place went to John A. Massie's Maid of Afton.

MACY CHIEF HITS RETAILERS FOR DULL ADVERTISING COPY

newspapers are published in the present, to the growing use of pictures, and the increasing recognition given to the activities of women, art, literature, and science as evidence of the improvement in newspaper publication.

One handicap to the advertiser under present advertising methods, he declared, is that whereas in past years shopping districts were largely concentrated, now every residential section has its own shopping section served by neighborhood merchants. The large retail advertiser's solution for this situation, he declared, may be found in the establishment of branch stores, all of which thus would participate in the benefits of advertising done by the main store.

He criticized severely the general neglect of retail advertisers of class circulation, using space in publications merely because they happen to have large circulations without regard to the type of readers who constitute that circulation.

"The apartment dweller in a big city has no interest whatever in garden hose or gas ranges," he remarked. "Therefore, it is obvious that an advertiser who advertises merchandise for the suburbanite in a paper that circulates only in the metropolitan area, his expenditure is wasted, regardless of how large that circulation may be. A much smaller circulation in the sections he must reach would be a far wiser purchase.

"The newspaper is a moving van, to move merchandise from the store to the customer. You would not ship plate glass in a dump wagon, nor would you hire a high-priced padded van to transport a load of scrap iron. When hiring his van, the retail advertiser has to look under the hood, and not just decide after a friendly chat with the driver, who in this instance is the newspaper advertising solicitor.

Mr. Collins expressed the opinion that the retail space buyer should be an active member of the firm, fully qualified to get what he is paying for when he buys advertising circulation, and to know which media are able to give his company what it needs.

"Not one retail space buyer in ten now knows what it's all about," he declared.

Declaring that retail advertising today is universally dull, the speaker pleaded for interjection of a little humor into copy.

"I can see nothing gloomy about linoleum, babies' rattles, or anything else sold in retail stores," he declared. "The editors give readers plenty of laughs, and increase their circulation thereby. The radio broadcasters know how to make that type of advertising successful, of which fast Amos 'n' Andy are excellent proof."

One Reason for Shortcomings.

One reason for the shortcomings of retail advertising, he declared, is that agencies, which are in business because they are supposed to know something about advertising, allow themselves to be dictated to by the retailer who has not the slightest conception of advertising.

"Most retail advertising," he asserted, "is compounded of lies and exaggeration and in which the truth is a total stranger."

He exhibited scores of examples of advertising by leading merchants from coast to coast, who unblushingly insisted that their offerings were "unequaled anywhere, past, present or future." And the public reaction to that, he declared, is the sarcastic reply:

"Oh, yeah?"

"Barnum would not stand a chance against some of the exaggerations and lies to be found in retail advertising today," Mr. Collins declared. He also urged much more serious thought to brevity and to making "layouts" attractive rather than ridiculous and absurd.

Mellon Aid Is Speaker.

Pointing out that he was present "with the distinct understanding that I am not to indulge in any forecasting," Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, addressing the banquet at the Mayflower last night, told the advertisers that although the country is passing through a periodic business depression at present, the basis of real prosperity is available and holds definite promise to the Nation.

"We are all the more impressed and depressed," he said, "because yesterday was so extraordinarily prosperous, and the sharpness of the contrast is accentuated by the rapidity with which the change has come. Being human, we are inclined to pick the best year as the standard year and to compare existing business activity with record rather than with average figures.

"Our present experience, and for that matter, all past experience in the modern world, indicates that the machine can not be made to function at full speed all the time. Periodically a lack of balance develops somewhere along the line. The whole fabric is so closely knit and interdependent that a general slowing up inevitably occurs until a readjustment has been effected and the balance restored. It is discouraging that this should be so, and the day may come when we shall have so mastered our economic machine as to have it under better control. But in the meantime it is well to remember that these downswings do not wipe out the progress achieved during the forward movements, and that when the onward march is resumed once more we start, not from the old mark, but from the new.

Prosperity Is Cited.

"I take it that a nation may be said to be prosperous when the people, generally speaking, are fully employed at a relatively high rate of remuneration which brings within the purchasing range of the average man or woman a constantly increasing list of goods and services. Such a condition presupposes on the one hand a high level of purchasing power, and on the other, high productivity with increased efficiency in production and distribution, reflected in relatively low prices for a broad list of articles, which includes not only necessities, but the luxuries demanded by the almost unlimited desires of human beings constantly aspiring to a higher standard of living.

"During the period which has recently witnessed such a remarkable quickening of our economic life and the attainment of a standard in the satisfaction of human wants hitherto unheard of, these factors have been present. Estimates by the National Bureau of Economic Research for 1928 place our total realized income at about $90,000,000,000, as compared with about $80,000,000,000 in 1909. This represents an increase in per capita income from $327 to $749, or in income per individual gainfully employed from $864 to $1,920. Although adjustment for price changes over the period would reduce the increases, it would by no means eliminate them.

"It is interesting to note that the remuneration of employes, that is, salaries, wages, etc., are estimated today at about 57 per cent of this total, as compared with about 51 per cent 20 years ago. Treasury statistics derived from corporation and individual income tax returns reflect the growth in national income which has taken place in recent years. For example, between 1922 and 1928, a period during which important tax reductions were effected, the net income tabulated from individual returns increased from $21,000,000,000 to nearly $25,000,000,000, in spite of revenue act revisions which eliminated more than 3,000,000 of the smaller taxpayers; while net income of all reporting corporations increased from $4,800,000,000 to about $7,400,000,000.

Growing Purchasing Power.

"Here, then, we have the factor of growing purchasing power, which is vastly important not only from the standpoint of what has been accomplished, but as pointing to possibilities in the way of future development."

Entertainment at the banquet was provided by a score of stars from the Columbia Broadcastingg System who during the afternoon had regaled the patients at Walter Reed Hospital with an impromptu program.

Another speaker at the afternoon session was John Benson, president of the A. A. A. A., who spoke briefly on "Local and National Rates." Commenting upon the frequent wide differential between these two rates, he declared that the trouble is not that newspapers charge too high rates for national advertising, but that their local rates are too low.

A. B. C. President Talks.

P. L. Thompson, direector of public relations of the Western Electric Co. and president of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, explained the benefits to advertisers and agencies of affiliation with the bureau, and urged them to become members and utilize its services to the utmost.

At a closed session in the morning, H. K. McCann, of New York, chairman of the board of governors of the A. A. A. A., pointed out the responsibilities of advertisers in placing more than $350,000,000 of advertising in the current year. He declared that despite the depression, it appears likely that advertising this year will be well maintained in comparison with 1929.

The convention will close today with an executive session at the Mayflower, at which Harrison Atwood, vice president of H. K. McCann Co., and Henry C. Flower, jr., of J. Walter Thompson Co., will discuss export advertising, and president Benson and E. R. Gardner, of New York, will talk on agency internal operation. Election of officers will conclude the program.

Inquiry Is Begun In Woman's Death

Rites Held Up as Virginia Authorities Give Order for Autopsy.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 15.—Investigation by Clarke county authorities of the death of Mrs. Louise Headley Hughes, estranged wife of James R. Hughes, of Frederick County, was ordered today while relatives were leaving their homes to attend the woman's funeral at a Southern Methodist Church in Frederick County.

Instead of the body being interred as planned, an autopsy was ordered by Commonwealth's Attorney Frank M. Wray, of Clarke County. It was performed by Dr. P. W. Boyd, of Winchester; Dr. C. O. Dearmont, Whitepost, and Dr. H. C. Iden, Berryville, coroner for Clarke County. Mrs. Hughes died late Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. J. Tharpe, in Clarke County, and the latter's son, O. A. Clatterbuck, was present.

Hughes said his wife left her home some weeks ago with Clatterbuck, who is also married and has a family of children in Clarke County. When Hughes read the death certificate, indicating death was due to tuberculosis of the stomach, he declared his wife never had been treated for such ailment. Early today it was said at the Tharpe home that she died of cholera morbus. Hughes protested, and Clarke County authorities ordered an investigation as to the cause of death. Coroner Iden tonight ordered a vital organ sent to Richmond for microscopic examination. Dr. Iden said he would continue examining witnesses, but gave permission for interment of the body tomorrow afternoon.

MORROW ON PROHIBITION.

Dwight W. Morrow has made a valuable contribution toward the clarification of public thought on the prohibition question. Evidently he has given the subject careful study, and has reached conclusions which he sets forth with vigor and courage. His views coincide with those expressed by impartial students of constitutional law.

Mr. Morrow is convinced that the Constitution must be amended, to restore to the States their police power. He would carry on enforcement of the law framed to give effect to the eighteenth amendment, but he would eliminate that amendment from the Constitution. He believes that the Federal Government should confine its operations to Federal duties in connection with prohibition—that is, he would apply appropriations principally to the prevention of smuggling, and when the States have recovered their police power he would require the Federal Government to prevent interstate transportation of liquor.

The consequences of setting up a Federal police system in an attempt to perform the duty that properly falls upon the States are deprecated by Mr. Morrow, not only because of the impossibility of making this system effective, but because the attempt changes the attitude of the people toward their Government and brings worse evils than those that are sought to be remedied. He makes an appeal for recognition of and adherence to the distinctions between proper Federal and States powers, and asks the people not to lose the art of government while pursuing laudable ends.

The people are entitled to abolish utterly all intoxicating liquors if they wish to do so, but when they study the problem dispassionately they can not fail to come to the conclusion that the liquor problem is one involving the exercise of the police power. The question then is whether the police power shall be exercised by the States or the Federal Government. The practical result of adoption of the eighteenth amendment has been to transfer the police power to the Federal Government, although the States have concurrent power. Since the Federal Government can not exercise this power without an army of policemen, penetrating into every nook and corner of the country, the attempt to exercise the power has been a failure, partly because public sentiment deters Congress from creating such a vast Federal police system, and partly because the people resent Federal intrusion into their domestic and State affairs. The antagonisms to Federal enforcement give rise to frauds, conspiracies, and violent crimes, creating a situation that presents entirely new problems and national dangers.

The courts are powerless. The eighteenth amendment prevents them from sustaining the police power of the States against Federal exercise of the same power.

The Post has been convinced that the people would ultimately perceive the blunder they committed when they conferred police power upon the Federal Government. The prohibition question engenders such violent passions that the majority of the people have not studied the subject impartially to the point of discovering that the fundamental error is one of confusion of governmental powers. If the people could detach their interest and attention from the liquor question long enough to make a thorough study of the situation as a problem of constitutional law, they could then agree upon a course that would enable them to decide the liquor question as they pleased, and to make their decision effective.

ADVERTISING CONQUERS DEPRESSION.

One business that does not expect to curtail its activities because of the economic depression is that of advertising. Confidence is expressed by delegates attending the annual convention in Washington of the American Association of Advertising Agencies that their business will continue to expand this year. Expansion of good sound advertising will hasten recovery of all business and stimulate new industrial activity.

Advertising has come to occupy a most important place in modern business. Merchants, manufacturers and others who wish to place their products before the public spend more than $350,000,000 annually to tell the world what they have to sell or wish to buy. Production on a gigantic scale would be impossible without a medium through which to inform the public as to how and where its wants can be satisfied. The extent to which this medium is utilized determines, to a considerable degree, the volume of business transacted.

Advertising can play an important part in bringing about complete recovery from the current business depression. Ogden Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, pointed out in his address to the convention that the United States has a secure foundation for prosperity. He mentioned the tremendous purchasing power of the American people, the efficiency of American production and distribution, and the ever-widening market for all manner of goods and services. "Here is a real basis for prosperity," he said. "It is well to remember that these basic factors are still present and there is no reason why they should not contribute to our progress in the future as they have in the past."

Since the foundation is secure, advertising can do much to stimulate business to its normal pace. The potency of the psychological factor in this depression is everywhere recognized. Wholesome, honest advertising can dispel the gloom and uncertainty that are disturbing the buying public. It is a powerful factor in business under any circumstances, but in times of depression it assumes a role of special importance, transforming timidity into confidence by actually increasing the volume of business.

H. J. Heinz, one of the greatest organizing geniuses in the history of American business, made it a rule to double his advertising appropriation during dull or depressed times. The power of extra advertising applied to an honest product actually maintained profits for him in hard times when other business men lost money.

DR. NANSEN.

Although Fridtjof Nansen, explorer, author, scientist, academician, humanitarian, diplomatist, is dead in Oslo, his fame and constructive works will never die. Announcement of his passing, after an active, useful life, has stirred many nations. Washington recalls his several visits, the last one only a year ago, in the interests of science and of organized effort to give relief to nearly 1,000,000 Russian, Armenian and Greek refugees scattered throughout Europe.

Few men distinguish themselves in more than one field of endeavor; Dr. Nansen was one of them. As a scientific explorer, he was at the head of the list. Zoology and oceanography were long his favorite studies. For his work in amicably severing the union between Norway and Sweden he became the first Norwegian Minister to England. He preserved the neutrality of his country, during the World War, by his work as head of the Norwegian mission to the United States, through which Norway was enabled to import essential supplies—and this at a time when it was claimed that there were leakages of foodstuffs and other materials into Germany through Scandinavia. It was largely due to his efforts that, followng the armistice, 500,000 soldier prisoners were returned to their homes from Siberia, China and elsewhere. His energy resulted in the feeding and clothing, at the peak of the great Russian famine, of over 1,600,000 inhabitants of regions in the Volga and South Ukraine, while at the same time he was conducting a campaign which, under Mr. Hoover's direction, was at one time able to feed 10,000,000 famine-stricken Russians.

Dr. Nansen represented his country in the League of Nations from its inception, and was high commissioner for refugees of the league. Two years ago a group of Americans chipped in over $100,000 to help him in his refugee work at Constantinople. The Nobel Peace Prize, awarded to him in 1923, was turned over to Nansen agricultural experimental stations in former famine areas of Russia. It was only natural that the man who in 1905 said, with reference to the Norway-Sweden question, "any union in which the one people is restrained in exercising its freedom is and will remain a danger," should oppose the occupation of Corfu by Italy, champion the movement which resulted in Germany's entrance into the league and defend the cause of professors and universities in Soviet Russia. For his interest in education Dr. Nansen was elected Lord Rector of Aberdeen University.

Death has denied to this descendant of Viking sires that final trip of polar exploration, by air in the Graf Zeppelin, to which Dr. Nansen was looking forward in the hope of discovering the fate of his intimate friend, Roald Amundsen.

THE BEWILDERED HOUSE.

The House of Representatives, that model of efficiency which seeks to inculcate diligence and industry into every other governmental body, has let its prestige slip a cog or two. In spite of all its parliamentarians could do to keep the machinery running, a sputtering characteristic of an exhausted fuel supply was heard Wednesday night, and only emergency measures saved this famous legislative power plant from an ignominious breakdown.

The House fought desperately to save its reputation, one group insisting on concealment of its dereliction by adjournment, and the other demanding vindication of its honor by forcing the negligent ones to attend to duty. A filibuster having given way to a parliamentary entanglement, the House floundered about in impotency for hours, unable either to transact business or to adjourn. Representative Quin extricated the House from its muddle with a resolution to arrest the members absent from the chamber without leave and bring them in. But while the arresting process was going on 60 members who had been present gave way to the pangs of hunger and abandoned their posts for the cafeteria.

From members of this same body emanated, a short time ago, threats that until judges of the District courts served longer hours on the bench each day nothing would be done to relieve court congestion. The House is the foremost advocate of efficiency in the courts, in the executive departments, &c., but most of its members have no scruples against catching a little spring fever themselves. It is safe to say that no judge, or even the least of the Government's civil service employes, has ever been confronted with a warrant of arrest in a theater because of failure to attend to his duty. What clerk absents himself in a cafeteria when his presence is necessary to keep the wheels of government turning? Where is the court that has to close its doors to keep hungry judges from deserting the bench?

It is evident that from this demonstration the elaborate rules of the House are not yet complete. When that august body finds itself quite unable to function, or to adjourn, because a majority of its members are engaged in their personal affairs, let it automatically turn its attention to efficiency legislation for some department or bureau. Or, failing in that, it would be enlightening to hear the members dissertate on man's inhumanity to man.

NATIONAL CAPITAL PARKWAYS.

Congress has placed its stamp of approval upon a splendid project for beautification of the National Capital. As it stands the Capper-Cramton bill has been passed by only the Senate, but the House adopted a similar measure, and all others interested in this development have indorsed the text substituted by the Senate. No time should be lost in securing the concurrence of the House in the substitute bill, and the President's signature.

The bill authorizes expenditure of $33,500,000 for development of the natural beauty of Washington and vicinity. The most important unit of the project is acquisition of land for construction of the George Washington Memorial Parkway, to extend down both sides of the Potomac from Great Falls to Mount Vernon, in Virginia, and to Fort Washington, in Maryland. For this an appropriation of $7,500,000 is authorized, on condition that Maryland and Virginia share half the expense. Thus is the foundation laid for one of the most magnificent parks in the world.

Fortunately the gorge of the Potomac has not been appropriated for industrial or residential use to any great extent. Most of it remains in its native beauty, as it should remain forever. When the memorial parkways are completed on both sides of the river and connected with a bridge at Great Falls this will become the most famous drive in the country. No other city in America or abroad will have anything to compare with it. The people of Washington will rejoice to see the scenery of the Potomac at last coming into its own.

That part of the project which is to be financed by the District calls for acquisition of lands suitable for development of the parks, parkways and playground system. For that purpose $16,000,000 will be available as a loan from the Federal Government, to be paid back at the rate of $1,000,000 a year. The District will be able to acquire immediately lands that might otherwise be put to residential or industrial uses, or bought up by speculators. The saving thus effected will no doubt justify the District in going into debt to acquire park lands. Senator Capper points out that the District is now spending almost $1,000,000 annually for this purpose. This loan will permit a comprehensive program of development extending over sixteen years, and should bring about a coordination of park projects that otherwise would be impossible. If Congress decides to make a fair contribution to the District budget the people will have no cause for complaint.

The third unit of the project is to be paid for on the basis of one-third from the Government and two-thirds from Maryland, which retains title to the property. This clause provides for extension of Rock Creek and Anacostia parks beyond the District line, an important feature in the general beautification of the National Capital. If necessary the Government will also advance the full cost of this work, allowing the State to repay its share over a period of years.

The bill adopted by the Senate eliminates several objections to the previous Cramton bill. The most important change is the provision authorizing the Government to purchase the bridge at Great Falls at any time after the memorial parkway is built. One matter that seems to have been neglected, however, is flood control. In developing such an expensive and beautiful park it would be well to remove every danger of having its improvements swept away by an unusual flood.

The Bureau of Fisheries says the smallest fish in the world is no larger than an ant. But the fellow from whom one gets away will describe it as "so" long.

A campaign is on in Baltimore to stop the use of harmful cosmetics. It's about time for some one to propose a constitutional amendment.

JUST A MOMENT.

By STEPHEN B. STANTON.

Wisdom hopes for what is bound to come.
What is more permanent-seeming than the existent—what, in fact, more ephemeral?
We stand upon a little piece of shifting ground and call it stability—a place of memories confronting an abyss of change.
Not to read newspapers is tantamount to saying that knowledge of events should be post-mortem and that we should touch time only historically.
We suddenly reap the reward of all our hopes—and call it luck.
We do our foolish acts with such confidence, our wise ones with such timidity.
Adaptability always falls on its feet.

DEATH CHANT OF CLEMENCEAU.

Georges Clemenceau's last book, "Grandeur and Misery of Victory," written while the dark angel stood at his door, may be described not unfairly as the death chant of an embittered but undaunted spirit worsted in a protracted clash of wits, but unreconciled and defiant to the end, says the Chicago News. It tells anew, and with striking emphasis, the age-old story of the fundamental antipathy between civil and military authority.

The old Tiger does his best, within the limits of a sweet reasonableness which somehow rings hollow, to undermine the fabric of the Foch tradition. Perhaps he was naive enough to hope that history eventually would demolish the popular conception of the generalissimo as a leader of heroic proportions and in its place would set up the more modest figure of a soldier highly endowed indeed with military genius yet unwilling to assume the full responsibility of his job. But history rarely settles decisively controversies of that sort.

To readers in the United States the most interesting, and undoubtedly the most exasperating feature of the book is its persistent belittling of the American intervention on the side of the allies. Were Clemenceau's the only account of the conflict in existence, the part played by the United States in the great war would appear to posterity as the merest incident, with no real significance and of little effect. But when he deals with Pershing's refusal to throw his raw troops into the maw of the enemy, and Foch's calm disregard of the Tiger's frenzied appeal to order them in, he betrays inevitably his realization of their importance as a factor in the outcome.

GOLF TRUTH.

Of Golf achievement here's the pith!
Were I as young as Horton Smith
As sound of wind, as strong of limb
My swing might be as crisp and trim;
My drives might be as straight and far
And I might shoot the course in par.

Had Horton Smith my stomach round,
My shoulders fixed and muscle bound,
My weight of years, my older sight
My wrists and hips, then Horton might
Be often moved to question why
He could no farther drive than I.

An old man's game, is golf, they say!
It is a game that old men play
And worry over, but the truth
Is mastery belongs to youth.
When Horton Smith is as old as I,
He'll watch the younger blades go by.

So needless is it to repine
Because the drive is off the line.
The stomachs that are in the way,
The years have put on us to stay,
And Horton Smith will lose his game
When time has tampered with his frame.

The Song of Birds Means Nothing to the Man Who Is Counting His Pulse.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

DID you ever try to figure out why the simple people are the happiest—why the Negro of the South and the Kanaka of the Hawaiian Islands laugh so easily and are so free of anxiety?

It is because they aren't "practical" enough to be greedy and avaricious.

Because they want little, they seldom are disappointed.

Because they aren't disappointed, they don't feel sorry for themselves.

They have the greatest prize life offers because they are free of self-pity.

The most unhappy woman I knew is a self-made invalid who has no interest in life except her troubles.

A period of genuine illness developed her latent capacity for selfishness, as illness frequently "spoils" children, and she so thoroughly enjoyed being the center of interest that she adopted the role of chronic invalid to keep her audience.

Thinking only in terms of self became a fixed mental habit, and her only enjoyment is the morbid satisfaction she finds in feeling abused.

Here are the two extremes—the simple people who are habitually happy because they are free of selfishness, and the neurotic woman who is habitually miserable because self is all she thinks about.

When professional optimists tell you it is more blessed to give than to receive and that happiness is to be found only in service, they are proclaiming a scientific truth as matter-of-fact as the heat produced by friction.

Happiness is found by forgetting self—and thus only—for the simple reason that the human mind can't concentrate on two things at the same time.

As an invalid mother forgets her weakness when her child is endangered, or a small boy forgets his toothache when the circus appears so happiness comes to those who learn to forget.

No conscious effort is necessary to win it, for it is the natural state of man.

Normal children are happy because they have no anxieties.

Normal adults are happy when they rid their minds of worry.

There is no individual, however fortunate, who would not become unhappy if he permitted himself to brood over his inperfections, his mistakes and the uncertainty of life.

To confess unhappiness is to confess that your thoughts center on yourself—that you are so selfish and so impressed by your own importance that you can not find on earth anything more worthy of attention.

Enlargement of the ego is the beginning of unhappiness, and there is no cure except in the realization that a sore thumb stops hurting while you are helping your neighbor put out a fire.

THE ONCE OVER

THE LADY GOLFER AND THE $2,500,000.

Miss Marian Hollins, famous golf star, recently made $2,500,000 through the sale of oil properties. Golf players throughout the country are deluging the lady with letters asking how she did it, whether she used the orthodox grip, how far back she went on her swing, etc.

* * * *

Two million five hundred thousand dollars is good shooting, even from the ladies' tees.

* * * *

"Would you mind explaining to the golfers of America how you did it?" Miss Collins was asked by this department.

"Well, I don't quite know how to explain," she replied. "I guess the explanation is that I was on my game and encountered very little trouble."

"Does $2,500,000 stand as your best score?"

"Yes, indeed. I think it is a new record for a lady golfer."

"Did it seem difficult?"

"Not at all. Of course, I had one of the best legal firms in the State caddying for me and that helped a lot."

"What do you think helped most in getting the two million five hundred thousand?"

"Well, I suppose perfect timing. I was coordinating perfectly and at no time made any mistakes."

"What stance did you use?"

"I employed a rather close stance, playing the property off my right toe."

"Did you use a compact swing?"

"I always do. In getting anything above a million dollars I believe a golfer should go back slowly and carefully, taking care not to go too far back, and thus get out of the groove. And above all, relax. Tightening up is the thing to be avoided."

"There are millions of golfers in the United States, Miss Hollins, none of whom has been able to make $2,500,000. What message can you give them? What advice can you offer that may aid them in attaining this goal?"

"My advice would be, 'Don't press'," said Miss Hollins. "It's all done with the wrists, you know. Why don't more golfers make a couple of million dollars? I'll tell you. They try too hard."

"The mere thought of $2,500,000 makes the average golfer overanxious, you think?"

"Yes. It's a mental hazard."

"One more question: Do you think $2,500,000 gives a player more confidence?"

"Unquestionably," concluded Miss Hollins.

Mr. Masefield, the new poet laureate of England, was once a porter in a Christopher street saloon, New York. That sets a new record for the high jumps.

A "drunk" stood up during an airplane flight over New York and tried to wrest the controls from the pilot. Maybe he was just reaching out for the brass ring.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Industries Should Establish Laboratories in Washington to Gain Contact With Great Government and National Scientific Institutions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The National Capital is a city of great beauty, but it contains also many agencies of great utility rendering service to humanity.

The United States Chamber of Commerce is a business laboratory and by its research enables business to be conducted along scientific lines, it is a general clearing house and an establishment for the meeting of the best business minds that the country produces.

The Department of Commerce is a laboratory for collecting information and distributing, transcribing it in such manner that it will render a real service to those interested in progressive methods of conducting their various establishments.

The Bureau of Standards is a laboratory to assist manufacturers to determine the best material and the most scientific methods to pursue in their undertakings.

The Department of Agriculture is a laboratory to prove by scientific methods that the farm can be made to produce more and better products.

Now as the Government has paved the way the citizens of Washington should make an extensive drive to get private manufacturers to establish scientific laboratories in this city, which should be of inestimable benefit to them on account of being in closer contact with various Government and national institutions.

Business success depends more upon cooperation than competition, and there is no city that could compare with Washington in bringing about results, that to a large extent, would eliminate periodical periods of depression.

W. GASTON BULLOCH.

United States Not a Warlike Country—Three-Power Treaty Fails to Consider Other Nations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a mere layman whose mind is not geared to follow the diplomatic windings of world politics, I am not much intrigued, as they say, by the London three-power treaty. So far as I am concerned, technical testimony as to the ratio relationships of a three-power naval agreement seems trivial in connection with a movement for world peace. It seems to me that in their eagerness to promote peace on earth, our American internationalists are entirely blind to the fact that more than three nations must be taken under consideration. They refuse to consider that the difference between the United States and the nations of the Old World is a difference not of degree but of kind.

It is the absolute truth to say that ours is not a warlike country. We have no old grudges to hold in check, no racial antagonisms to heat the blood. That can not be said of any of the great powers overseas. The war spirit sleeps more or less potential in Russia, Germany, France, Japan, Italy, England, not to mention China and the smaller countries of the slumbering Balkans. Uncle Sam, in friendly aloofness, should continue to teach them the ways of peace by force of example. I admit that internationalist peace propaganda is enticing, but I am still a follower of Washington, Jefferson and Monroe. The spectacle of the Republic of the United States in an equivocal alliance with imperial England and imperial Japan looks too warlike for me.

Patience a High Quality in Teachers Trying to Build Up Character in Children.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I like the idea of the correspondent who, writing of character training in the public schools, says that "the indirect influence of dignity, fairness, and geniality on the part of a teacher will work wonders. In addition to these qualities the importance of patience should be considered. Patience and still more patience is absolutely necessary to bring out the better nature of little citizens who are hard to manage. Few adults are endowed by nature with the kind of self-control required for teaching, especially in the lower grades. All the more honor to those teachers who in conscientious devotion to their high calling acquire the quality. The teacher who, unfortunately, may be subject to irritable moods should get down on her knees and pray for divine assistance so that their harmful effect may never be felt by the scholars in her charge. In the matter of character education, goodly home training is the best. But character training in the schools is likewise of great importance. And whether the public school children will or will not be benefited by it depends entirely on the public school teachers.

Wants an American Poet Laureate, With a Stipend of $1,000 a Year.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial in Sunday's Post in re John Masefield and the English poet laureateship was splendid. I wanted to see Masefield appointed myself, but did not think he had a chance. I thought Kipling would get the appointment.

Why does not the U. S. A. have a poet laureate? Are we to continue letting kingdoms at least appear to be more civilized and cultured than our republic? "Poets are the unacknowledged legislators of the world," and the amount of appreciation shown them by a nation is a measure of that land's intellectual capacity.

I move that a poet laureate be appointed for the United States of America, and inasmuch as the United States Treasury is richer than that of Britain, I further move that the U. S. Government appropriate $1,000 per annum for said poet laureate. Who will second the motion? One thousand dollars is the approximate cost of one shell being shot from a naval cannon. If such a high tribute can continually be paid to Mars, can not a few scattered coins be handed to the Muse, just once a year?

LEAGUE OF NATIONS ENDS 59TH SESSION

Political Activity Outside of Chamber Chief Feature at Meeting.

BRIAND, GRANDI CONFER

Geneva, May 15 (A.P.).—The council of the League of Nations today concluded its fifty-ninth session, having considered in four days a long list of political and humanitarian questions. Most of those matters were of routine nature and merely were passed on to the League of Nations assembly for final approval, but the chief feature of the meeting was the political activity which took place outside the council chamber.

This resulted from attendance at the council of the foreign ministers of seven European States — Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Poland, Finland and Jugoslavia.

Primary interest focused upon the conversations of Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, and Dino Grandi, foreign minister of Italy, who in two meetings reopened negotiations to seek a solution of the naval problems which kept them from participating in all the accomplishments of the London naval conference. With the counsel of Great Britain they are attempting to find formulas which may transform the three-power London naval treaty into a five-power pact.

Problems in Saar Discussed.

M. Briand also talked to Dr. Julius Curtius, the German foreign minister, about the problem in the Saar, the great mining district, which has been exploited by the French since the World War.

Other meetings were between Dr. Curtius and August Zaleski, discussing difficulties between Germany and Poland, and a meeting of Briand and Grandi with M. Marinkovitch, foreign minister of Jugoslavia.

M. Marinkovitch, who was chairman of this session of the council, told newspapermen before he left Geneva that this session was a useful one if it were not sensational, then commented upon foreign relations of his country—a state embracing territories which often have been involved in international discord. He remarked that Jugoslavia's relations with her neighbors were now cordial, and said his conversations with Grandi were general because there was no concrete issue between Jugoslavia and Italy now.

Political Matters Acted On.

Among the political matters passed on to the assembly were a proposal for amending the League of Nations convent to make it harmonize with the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact; the draft of a treaty for financial assistance to a nation which is attacked or threatened, and the results of the conference recently held at The Hague for codifying international law.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

AT the White House just now is irrefutable evidence of how eager Americans always are to entertain their President. As soon as it was whispered about that Mr. Hoover would tour the national parks of the West in August, invitations began to rain upon him.

From the whole Far West, from all its States, counties, cities, villages, round-ups, rodeos and dude ranches, have come and are still coming urgent pleas, prayers and petitions that he bless and dignify them with the honor of his presence and the sunshine of his smile.

The invitations come multitudinously, highly adorned, by mail, air mail, wire, special messengers, mayors, delegations and chambers of commerce.

And with what sweet promises do they beguile Mr. Hoover! With what astounding promises, pictures and prospectuses of unrivaled fishing grounds do they seek to draw him, a king of fishermen, to merry dalliance in their midst!

• • • •

THIS West that not so long ago clapped its hands for joy at the mere rumor of a plan to build a new irrigation dam, has suddenly become a network of creeks, branches, bayous, rivers, springs, torrents, cascades and falls!

Instead of containing wide, wild wastelands, where sandstorms eddy and sand flies fly, it blossoms like a rose with long, lush grasses on whose blades venturesome trout, in trying to leap from rivulet to rivulet, have impaled themselves in their gasping gills!

Gulches, once dry as the dust in ancient tombs, have turned to babbling streams which, dancing over rocky beds and deepening into dark green shaded pools, are now proclaimed to be meccas, paradises and celestial "fishin' holes" guaranteed to lift any Izaak Walton to the seventh heaven of delight.

• • • •

THE fish of the West have, in the last few days, multiplied incredibly, grown to enormous stature and suicidally taken into their tempting and doomed white meat a taste and flavor that would tickle the palates and crowd the gullets of a million discriminating gourmets and gormandizers.

Fish that have been for uncounted generations unspotted as drifts of virgin snow and utterly innocent of trout pedigree, genealogy or relationship, are today miraculously transformed into spotted brook trout elusive as a Chicago gangster and game as a half-starved wildcat!

And so thickly do they crowd the Western waters that not one can pass another without scraping off a fin, despite which mutilation they gambol gally in the sunshine, leaping for flies and springing with surprising agility, speed and skill into the very faces of fishermen, occasionally picking the strangers' pockets with prehensile tails and acquisitive gills in the midst of their unprecedented acrobatics!

In a word, how touching is the Westerners' fondness for entertaining their President—and for the resultant advertising of the West!

NYE'S VISIT CURB TO PRIMARY CAMPAIGN IN PENNSYLVANIA

other words the belief is that the leopard has not changed its spots, but merely its mehtod of doing things. Instead of the Davis-Brown general committee making large expenditures, or the Grundy committee doing so, observers express the opinion that the money is being passed on to candidates for the State Legislature, all of whom, of course, have tieups with one or the other of the State tickets.

Work for Nye Committee.

This is something, of course, that Senator Nye's committee will have to delve into.

With the campaign drawing to a close the issue between the principal candidates seems to be humanitarianism, that is, which of the candidates is the most humane. Mr. Davis seems to be making that and support of the Hoover administration his chief talking points. Senator Grundy, without saying anything about the administration, might very well be taken as being in revolt against it.

He is paradoxically enough denouncing the tariff bill which everywhere else in the country bears his name. He promises that if he is elected he will devote his best efforts to opening up the tariff again to get justice for Pennsylvania industries, and furthermore, that he will work for a delegation to the 1932 Republican national convention that will write an indisputable tariff plank in the party platform. It does not seem that he would have to go much further to say that he is definitely against Mr. Hoover's reelection.

Secretary Davis, on the other hand, says that just as soon as the pending tariff is passed prosperity will return and everybody will be happy. He has embraced Mr. Hoover's policies in toto, including the one for universal happiness. He has also embraced Mr. Hoover's prohibition policy which causes the wet Phillips-Bohlen ticket to ask repeatedly what this policy is.

It is noteworthy that all impartial observers make it a point to say that the Phillips-Bohlen ticket is far and away better than any in the field, and the statement has no reference to its wetness.

It refers to the high caliber of the men composing it. It is not expected to win, of course, but the vote it will gather is to be an important factor in the outcome.

All Claim Workman's Aid.

The humanitarian issue in one outstanding particular revolves around the parentage of the workmen's compensation act of the State. Brown, Grundy, Pinchot and Davis all claim to have had to do with it, but it is said that Senator David A. Reed, who is not running for anything this year, was the one really responsible for the act.

Senator Reed was here today for a testimonial of esteem from his fellow townsmen for his work at the London parley. He said he really had not had the time to talk with his friends about whom he would support, and therefore could make no statement.

This fact is illustrative of how bungled up is Pennsylvania's race this year.

9 AMERICAN WOMEN CURTSY TO ROYALTY

Second Court of Season at Buckingham Palace Is Colorful Event.

CROWD SEES NOTABLES

London, May 15 (A.P.).—In the royal pomp and pageantry of London's second court of the season, nine American women curtsied tonight to King George and Queen Mary.

The American women, seven of whom were matrons, were part of a bevy of 400 court debutantes. Eight American girls were presented at yesterday's court.

Buckingham Palace for the second successive evening presented a scene of splendid color and sumptuousness. Brilliant gowns of the women and dress uniforms of army and navy officers and diplomats formed a lavishly varied setting for the king and queen and their golden thrones.

Queen Wears Chiffon Gown.

Queen Mary chose a gown of heavy silver chiffon for the occasion, with an overdress of pale peach chiffon, embroidered with pearl silver. Her train was of peach and silver brocade. High on her head gleamed a tiara of pearls and diamonds. On her breast shone the Order of the Garter and other jeweled orders.

King George was clad in the scarlet of colonel in chief of the famous Coldstream Guards. Last night he wore the full red uniform of colonel in chief of the Grenadier Guards.

Among the American women presented, Mrs. Clark Howell, of Atlanta, Ga., was an outstanding figure. She wore a pink moire gown, delicately embroidered with rhinestones, with a graceful circular skirt of uneven hemline. Her train, also of moire, was lined with silver cloth. She carried a pink and silver feather fan.

Other Americans Presented.

Miss Carley Robinson, of Louisville, Ky., wore a white romaine crepe gown designed on classic lines and had a train of turquoise blue velvet.

Most of the debutantes presented at court had a wait of from two hours to two hours and a half on the mall before entering the palace.

A huge crowd of Londoners gathered around the Victoria Memorial for the traditional inspection of the socially notable.

The other American women presented tonight were Mrs. Louis Burguiere, of California; Mrs. Hoke Smith, of Georgia; Mrs. John K. Davis, of Ohio; Miss Doris Duke, of Durham, N. C.; Mrs. Robert Appleton, of New York; Mrs. Robert P. Scripps, of Ridgefield, Conn., and Mrs. David C. Hanbrahan.

Oklahoma City, May 15 (A.P.).—J. C. Walton, former Governor of Oklahoma, filed suit in United States District Court here today against Plain Talk, an Eastern magazine, asking damages of $250,000, charging he was libeled by an article, "Whoopee in Oklahoma," published in its May issue. Walton was impeached and removed from the governor's office.

Walton's petition characterized as "false, scandalous and libelous" an article by Walter W. Liggett, a writer in Plain Talk, dealing with Walton's activities while governor.

U.S. of Europe Plan Outlined by Briand

French Minister Sends Out Memorandum to Every Continental Nation.

Paris, May 15 (A.P.).—Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, has forwarded to the diplomatic agents in France of all European countries a memorandum about his proposed European confederation, the widely heralded "United States of Europe."

The memorandum will be delivered to the diplomats simultaneously on Saturday and will be communicated to the press probably Saturday evening. M. Briand has asked the different governments to make known how they think the "United States of Europe" can be organized. He suggests that a European organization for the settlement of problems of general interest be set up.

Suggestions as to the form in which the governments think such cooperation may be effected are requested. M. Briand proposed that periodical conferences on genreal problems be held. A copy of the memorandum will be delivered to the State Department at Washington for purposes of information.

Yale Disciplines 30 After Rioting

Suspension From Classes May Cost Diplomas of Twelve Seniors.

New Haven, Conn., May 15 (A.P.).—Thirty undergraduates in Yale College today were disciplined by Dean Clarence W. Mendell for participating in the disturbance of last Thursday night when hundreds of students clashed with police in the university section.

Fourteen students, of whom twelve are seniors, were suspended from recitations for the rest of the college year and sixteen were denied dormitory privileges for next year. The student body will also have to pay for the damage done to police uniforms.

The recitation period is now only of two weeks duration and then follow the final examinations. To the twelve seniors who are suspended from recitations the sentence is regarded of considerable weight. The windup of recitations gives the finishing touch to courses and seniors who depend upon passing the examination to obtain their diplomas in June make the most of the last weeks of classroom work.

200 Killed When Reds Loot, Burn Chinese City

Hankow, China, May 15 (A.P.).—Two hundred persons today were reported killed and $600,000 worth of property looted by Reds attacking Simakow, a town of the Han River, 40 miles below Hankow. The Reds burned the town. The garrison fought bravely but was overwhelmed. Hanchwan, across the river from Simakow, today was surrounded by 3,000 attackers, well equipped with machine guns.

The Hanchwan garrison, about 300 men, is short of ammunition. It will not be able to hold out. Missionaries evacuated the region before arrival of the invaders.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN IN LABOR SITUATION

UNION AIDS SEE HOOVER

Improvement in the employment situation in the District is reported by the Industrial Employment Information Bulletin of the Department of Labor, just issued. Washington plants in most instances operated during April with normal forces, while hotels and restaurants retained, because of the spring tourist rush, employes usually furloughed.

While the number of applications for employment at the public employment office increased, a larger percentage was placed than during the previous month. There was a good demand for domestic servants and miscellaneous workers, with an ample supply available.

Despite the large volume of private and Federal building, street improvements and residential work, there was not sufficient construction to absorb all the resident skilled and unskilled workers. However, permits recently issued called for the expenditure of $4,778,720, including $1,500,000 for a bank building.

President Hoover yesterday assured a group of officials of the American Federation of Labor that he would do all he could to minimize the unemployment situation existing in the navy yards and arsenals throughout the country.

There are at present some 27,000 men on the books as employed at the navy yards and arsenals, Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, told the Chief Executive, but many of these "are out of work."

Others in the delegation were John Coefield, president of the Plumbers International Union; Arthur O. Wharton, president of the Machinists International Labor Union, and John P. Fey, secretary-treasurer of the Metal Trades Division of the Labor Federation.

FLIER DIES AS SHIP FALLS INTO PACIFIC

Cowan, of Syracuse, N. Y. Becker was carried down by the bomber beneath the waves.

Boyd, Alexander and Cowan were brought to a hospital here to be treated for exposure.

Boyd was about to jump when he saw Becker's parachute entangled in the rigging and he went to the assistance of his sergeant. The attempt to free Becker failed and Boyd parachuted seaward as Becker was dragged down by the plane into the high waves, leaving only an oil scum where the ship sank.

The steamer Hawaii rescued Lieut. E. W. Rawlings, Sergt. R. F. Summers, Lieut. Schur, Lieut. C. A. Hawkins, Aviation Pilot A. R. Schlacks, Chief Radio Man J. H. Dobson and Machinist A. J. Kachergis. One of the planes drifted 40 miles before its men were rescued.

Through the long hours of day and night Army and Navy planes circled over the fallen planes, unable to give assistance owing to the rough sea. Several surface vessels which hastened to the scene were unable at once to locate the drifting planes.

Tallmadge L. Boyd, known to Washington friends as "Tom," learned to fly two years ago at Hoover Field. He earned his flying time by working as a clerk and contact man, and later was appointed a cadet in the Army Air Corps and sent to Brooks Field, Tex., in February, 1929. After being commissioned he chose the bombardment branch and was assigned a few weeks ago to Hawaii for a year.

He was a graduate of George Washington University and a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity. His mother lives in Ogden, Utah.

boasts, are represented by ten senators, whereas Texas has only two. They also have a total of 25 electoral votes, compared with Texas' 20."

With eight additional Democratic senators in the Senate, Mr. Garner contends that the coalition of Democrats and Progressive Republicans "would doubtless have retained control on all major legislation."

Had Texas been divided into five States, he is very confident the battle over the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill would have been very different, the South and West receiving "the recognition which are their due and the power of the North Atlantic States to exploit the rest of the country would have been limited if not eliminated."

Mr. Garner likewise argues for the division of Texas into five States because of the wide diversity of interests within the State, the rapid growth in population and the tremendous development of natural resources in recent years.

New Kind of Salts Taking Country By Storm

They Revitalize the System—Induce Youthful Activity—Keep Body in Splendid Condition—Free From Fat.

It doesn't take long for Americans to wake up to a good thing—only a few months ago Kruschen Salts were introduced into this country and the welcome news of their superior goodness and swift rejuvenating power traveled so fast that at one time the supply was many carloads behind the demand.

All of which goes to prove that Americans know good salts when they take them and want their friends to benefit also.

Kruschen Salts are taken for their health building value all over the world—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain today.

Kruschen Salts are different from other salts—Kruschen is six salts in one—the very same six salts that nature put into the human body at the beginning of creation and demands you keep them there or your health won't be as good as it should be.

Unlike most salts Kruschen isn't simply a laxative—if that's all you want any old kind of salts with any kind of a label will do—but is that all you want?

When you take Kruschen Salts you not only stimulate your bowels, liver and kidneys to function naturally and perfectly, but you supply every internal organ, gland, nerve and fiber in the body with nature's own revitalizing and rejuvenating minerals.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85c at Peoples Drug Stores, or any drug store in America—take one-half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—in just a few days indolence changes to activity and life grows brighter.

Before the bottle is empty you'll feel years younger—eyes will brighten—step grow sprightlier—nerves steadier—you'll sleep sound, enjoy your meals and after a hard day's work you'll be ready for wholesome recreation—one million Americans know all this—ask your druggist.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Horse Show Attended by Large Crowd

Colorful Sight Enjoyed Despite Interruption by Storm.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE weather man seems to be using some judgment in the matter of the rain for which the country is crying. Heavy showers have sent spectators scurrying for cover on each afternoon of the horse show—but not until most of the classes were over and when thoughts were turning toward tea.

Sunshine and smiling skies contributed to the gala aspect of the Bradley Farms show grounds all through the early hours of yesterday afternoon; and the crowd was much larger than on the opening day of the National Capital Horse Show. The boxes were filled through the afternoon and there was a colorful line of "rail-birds," with many of the girls in bright summer frocks, all around the ring.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, who had been an interested spectator on the opening day, was present again yesterday afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. Harold Smoot. They were escorted to their box by Mr. Melvin Hazen, president of the horse show association, who sat with them for part of the afternoon. Mrs. Stimson, wife of the Secretary of State, was also present and had Mrs. W. E. Hotchins, of New Jersey, in her box. And with Mrs. Lamont, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, were Mrs. J. Mandeville Carlisle, Miss Gertrude Lamont and her guest, Miss Billy Pratz, of Easton, Pa.

Miss Caroline Roebling, in smart riding togs, was accompanied by her dance, Mr. Alexander B. Hagner, and Miss Alice Cutts was prsent with Mr. John Tillotson Wainwright, to whom she is to be married in the early summer.

Mrs. David Aiken Reed entertained a box party, having as guests Mrs. Hugh Campbell Wallace, Miss Anne Randolph and Miss Mary Randolph. Mrs. James J. Davis was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies, who also entertained for Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Miss Laura Tuckerman, Mrs. Thomas Cheeseborough and Miss Emlen Davies.

Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson occupied their box and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dwight entertained guests in theirs. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Osborne, of Cleveland, who are among the exhibitors, have recently been added to the list of box holders and had friends with them yesterday. Gen. "Billy" Mitchell, famous as a horseman, had come from Middleburg, Va., to attend the show and was a conspicuous figure in fawn-colored riding clothes and a rakish soft felt hat. Many other horse show enthusiasts from Warrenton, Middleburg and other sections of the Virginia "horse country" were among the spectators.

Others glimpsed in the grandstand, leaning over the rail or taking tea in the pleasant old farmhouse on the grounds were Mrs. Edwin St. John Greble, Mrs. Frederick C. Hicks, Mrs. Joseph Himes, who was accompanied by her small daughter, Marilynn, and by Mrs. Everett Sanders; Mrs. Alexander Legare, who had Mrs. Upshur Moorhead as a guest in her box; Mrs. Reginald Walker, Mrs. Wade Ellis, Mrs. Alvin Dodd, Mrs. Lindsay Russell, Mrs. Royal S. Copeland, Dr. and Mrs. Macpherson Crichton, Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, Mrs. Charles B. Drake, Mrs. Delos Blodgett, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parsons Erwin, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Mrs. Karl Klem, Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, Maj. Raymond McQuillin and Mr. John Finnerty.

In view of the unsettled weather tweed suits were the favored form of feminine attire, although there were noted many gay sports costumes of jersey or knitted materials, with yellow the most popular shade. Mrs. Gann wore a tailored black satin suit with a becoming purple hat, and Mrs. Harold Smoot a smart dark blue ensemble. Miss Gertrude Lamont had chosen a modish caped frock of tan and brown tweed, with a top coat in matching tones and a small brown felt hat. Her guest, Miss Kratz, was also in brown, her crepe suite polka dotted in yellow, her blouse of yellow and the same rich shade appearing in the banding of her brown straw hat.

Mrs. Himes' costume was of brown tweed, flecked with white and worn with a white blouse, a brown felt hat and a fox scarf. Mrs. Sanders' green knitted suit was topped off with a green hat and shoes and handbag matched the tone of her costume. Miss Frances Virginia Waggaman had chosen a printed silk ensemble, gayly flowered in red and green and worn with a rust-colored hat. Other pretty girls glimpsed were Miss Mildred Tytus, Miss Jocelyn Hibberd and Miss Phyllis Hight, the last in riding togs. But the most engaging maid at the show was little Miss Rosa Wainwright, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Dallas B. Wainwright, a perfect picture in her yellow frock and floppy yellow hat. She was accompanied by her mother.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. F. Brooks Upham arrived in Washington yesterday and are staying at the Mayflower. Admiral Upham has been appointed chief of the Bureau of Navigation to succeed Rear Admiral Richard H. Leigh.

Admiral Upham was formerly in command of the United States control force, with headquarters in New London, Conn.

U. S. War Mothers Near Cherbourg

French Port Prepares Gay Reception for Group to Disembark Today.

Cherbourg, France, May 15 (A.P.).—A group of America's "Gold Star Mothers" arriving here tomorrow to visit the graveyards where their sons lie after fighting on the battlefields of France, will be greeted by familiar colors of red, white and blue.

The Star-Spangled Banner entwined with the French tricolor, will welcome them everywhere. French former service men, as a delicate attention to the mothers of American boys who died in France, will meet them at the maritime station which they have decorated with the colors of their association and the shield of the French military medal.

Both station and town were beflagged tonight. The ceremonies tomorrow will be extremely brief in order not to fatigue unduly the American mothers. A delegation of widows and orphans of French soldiers and another of the war mutilated will greet them. Then a war orphan will present bouquets of flowers and the formalities will be over.

Mine Blast Kills Three; Four Hurt

Explosion in Pennsylvania Imperils 325 Men at Work.

Avella, Pa., May 15 (A.P.).—A gas explosion in the Powhatan Coal Co.'s mine No. 2, killed three miners and injured four others, one seriously. The dead: Clement Manley, 26, New Cumberland, W. Va.; John Sepres, 19 and Thomas Williams, 50, Negro, both of Avella.

Andrew Kustic, 19, Avella, was so seriously burned that his recovery at a Washington, Pa., hospital was regarded as doubtful. Seventeen of the 78 men in No. 4 room, where the explosion occurred, escaped through an entry three miles back in the mine, giving rise for a time to reports that they were killed. There were 325 men at work in the mine at the time of the explosion.

A fall of slate occurred shortly before the blast, knocking from the track a trolley on which Kustic was riding. Mine officials believe sparks resulting from derailing of the trolley set fire to gas created in the slate fall.

WORK ON BRIDGE

The most important of the many questions that are exercising the mind of the contract player of today is whether artificial and conventional bids are useful and ethical.

An artificial bid is one which has no significance with respect to the declaration named; its real meaning being dependent upon a prior understanding between partners. Of course, this is not a secret understanding, but one with which all at the table are thoroughly familiar.

A conventional bid is one which has normal significance as to the declaration named and the bidder's strength therein, but which in addition to that has a meaning determined by some prior understanding which otherwise would not be conveyed by the bid.

A bid of one Club, to mean nothing about Clubs but to show a certain number of tricks, is an example of an artificial bid; so would be an answering bid by partner which conveyed no information concerning the suit named, but announced merely a weak hand.

The bid of two of any suit to show length and strength in the suit is a regulation bid; but if that significance be coupled with an understanding that such bid commands partner to bid whether weak or strong, then it becomes a conventional bid. If as an answering bid to this, two No Trumps is used to show weakness, that bid is purely artificial.

Although some players entertain a strong sentiment against the use of artificial and conventional bids, Contract players and theorists have been experimenting with all types of such bids. They have been incorporated to a greater or less extent in almost every system, and now it seems to be generally believed that bidding in Contract can not be 100 per cent effective, without using them; and, possibly for that reason, the opposition seems to be decreasing. The main need for such bids arises from the fact that in Contract partners, when strong, must strive to bid up to the contract which is the most advantageous for the combined hand; and to that end the original bidder occasionally desires to make sure that he will be afforded a second chance to bid so that he may be able to give his partner a choice between two declarations, he being satisfied that there is at least game in the one which best fits the two hands. To keep the bidding open, artificial and conventional bids which demand a response from partner, are employed.

Next Friday I shall describe the most popular conventional bid, and also the most popular artificial one; and shall make a suggestion for a common ground upon which the warring followers of all systems might be able to meet.

Yancey Reaches Florida On Flight to Argentina

Jacksonville, Fla., May 15 (A.P.).—Capt. Louis A. Yancey, making a radio communications good-will air tour to Buenos Aires, landed here at 3:40 p. m., Eastern standard time, from New York, completing the first leg of his jaunt.

He will hop off again with his two companions tomorrow morning for Miami, the next stop on his itinerary.

Elbow Macaroni Cheese Cutlets.

1 package elbow macaroni.
4 tablespoons butter.
4 tablespoons flour.
1 cup hot milk.
1 egg yolk.
1½ cups cheese cut in cubes.
½ teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
Egg and crumbs.

Boil the elbow macaroni for nine minutes in four quarts rapidly boiling water to which one tablespoon salt has been added. Drain. In a double boiler make a thick white sauce of the butter, flour, milk, salt and paprika. Take from the fire and add the well-beaten egg yolk. Stir in thoroughly, return to the fire and add the cheese and parsley. Stir constantly until the cheese is melted, then pour over the cooked macaroni, mix thoroughly and set aside to cool. When cold and firm, shape into the form of cutlets—dip in sifted bread crumbs, then in a well-beaten egg yolk to which two tablespoons water have been added, then in crumbs again. Fish may be substituted for the cheese. Garnish with parsley.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, May 15.

THOUGHT you'd sort of like to know what's new in traveling cases for the smart woman, specially now that buds and trees and things are being warmed into blossoming and week-end trips are likely to take you by storm, as it were. So what did I do but go right out and ruin the bank balance by buying one, not 'cause I needed it, but just so I could write about it for you!

It opens on the side and not at the top the way most well-behaved bags used to do; and as this opening is in the exact middle of the side, each section bends back and stands up straight when the bag is resting flat on a table or chair or floor. Then there is a tray that has hinges in the middle making two sections, which fits exactly across the inside, covering it all. This tray holds all the little things, you know, those little things that count—cosmetics and pins and hairbrushes and scissors. There are two handles that fold in over the tray when the bag is closed. But when you want to fill the whole bag with lots and lots of clothes and shoes that are bulky you lift the tray out and carry by the two handles just as though it were a matching square bag in a travel ensemble!

And I don't know what you think, but as far as I'm concerned calfskin for bag and lining is the best looking, the most durable and the smartest leather for a week-end case. And navy blue, mulberry or bottle green are the favorite shades for the fair sex.

There are some figures that can't be improved upon! Venus had one—the beautiful Russian artist has one—and lots of American women have them! On such a figure there is nothing more alluring than very simple, soft flowing, quietly elegant lines. And what I mean by that, I've sketched for you today—Bruyere's silver lame evening gown. Nothing overdone in its lines—and nothing left undone to express the modern and perfect woman.

All smart women in the world wear lovely and expensive necklaces of brilliants these days—so I just sketched you another one today which I for one would just as soon wear with the evening gown that the lovely lady is wearing!

Have you forgotten to get the extra vegetable for tonight's dinner. Then you've got to dash around the corner for it now in a hurry, and, oh, my, your house dress looks terrible! Well, while you're out, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and get this week's illustrated leaflet telling you how to cut and put together a house dress that you can put on in two shakes of a lamb's tail. One that has a fullish looking skirt with two inverted pleats—for a very good reason I shan't tell you till you get the leaflet. And a little cape that buttons on the shoulder presto and makes it look like a mill-yun dollars for quick shopping!

Oh! We almost forgot to remind you of the weekly Dare fashion letter in the big Sunday Washington Post every Sunday.

The Goofus Nart

I agree with the Goofus Nart
That blowing beans is quite an art,
For while most anyone I've seen
Can easily learn to blow a bean,
To shoot them straight and with precision
Requires practice, nerve and vision,
And it will also help you shoot
If you can grow a Nart-like snoot!

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF May 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 2:40 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 4:30 a. m. to 6 a. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

A more serious aspect will be taken of life on this date, and business and work will come first. Progress will be an uphill journey, as unexpected difficulties will stand in your way. Perplexing problems within the home.

The children born on this May 16 will have strong, forceful tempers, but they will not bear malice, and their disposition will be kind and sweet. They will have a firm and inflexible will, and they will go ahead in spite of obstacles. Their spirits will be cheerful and buoyant.

You have an austere and a fastidious nature, one which is satisfied only with the best of everything. You are an exacting judge and you refuse to pass anything which does not come up to mark (almost of perfection). You do not shun the responsibility of selection and rejection—you are discriminating. "The butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker," and all the rest of the world soon learn that you demand quality goods, and that you are willing to pay top-notch prices for the same. If you are ready to shout your displeasures, you are just as ready to voice your satisfaction, your delight and happiness about those things which please you. You help to keep the standards of service and efficiency from trailing and slipping. You do not win universal popularity (nor do you want it), but you are idolized by many.

You are capable of lifting yourself by your own merits to a position of considerable celebrity and honor. It is indicated that you will gain money (or lose it, if afflicted) through public ventures, stocks or speculation. You will travel for business or health during the latter part of your life. You love company, society, sport and pleasures. There will be many changes of residence during your lifetime.

Successful people born May 16:

1. William H. Seward, statesman.
2. Levi P. Morton, financier and statesmen. Vice President of the United States.
3. Norman J. Colman, agriculturist.
4. Philip D. Armour, merchant of Chicago.
5. Charles S. Reinhart, artist.
6. Cyrus Hall McCormick, manufacturer.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

The Value of Flowering Shrubs.

IN a recent article on landscape architecture some one said that, naturally, when a person had one bush, they wanted two. I feel that the writer was quite mistaken, for I know that when the average person owns one bush they always want about a dozen.

Every garden that can afford them the necessary space should have shrubs. However, you must consider room, for they are heavy feeders in most cases and therefore require plenty of soil from which to derive the proper nourishment. Aside from sustenance they demand room for a display of top growth. Crowded specimens are neither sharply nor sightly.

When setting out shrubs, it is well to spray them with bordeaux mixture immediately after they have become established. You remember the old adage regarding the ounce of prevention which is worth a pound of cure. This spraying, which does not represent much work or a great expenditure of money, may mean the perfect development of both flowers and foliage.

When planting any shrub be sure to dig the hole of sufficient size so that the roots may be spread out as you place the bush in position. Many people who are not experienced planters do not understand this phase of the work and later ask me why, when they purchased shrubbery from reputable dealers, the bushes died.

Another phase of the work that is either not understood or is entirely overlooked is the after care of newly planted specimens. The first ten days or, better still, two weeks, after planting you should give each bush three buckets of water a day. Later, when the prolonged dry spells of July and August come, it will be well to mulch the newly planted bushes. You can use grass clippings for this purpose. The object of the mulch is the conversation of moisture.

Perhaps the bush we love the most is the lilac. Even in a small garden a lilac is in keeping. A flowering crab apple will lend a lovely note of pink to your garden in the springtime. The duetzia is always a wise choice for a wee city garden. The varieties of duetzia vary considerably in height and habit, but bloom alike in dainty bell or tassel-shaped flowers, borne thickly in wreath along their branches in May or June. The dwarf varieties will grow in semi-shade. If you have a wall garden by all means choose one or two cotoneasters. These are fruiting shrubs with brilliant autumn foliage and vivid fruits.

All the varieties I have mentioned require good soil and perfect drainage.

Wives of Tomorrow

"Freedom."

THEY sat in the pullman and unburdened their hearts after the manner of women who never met before and never shall again. The woman in black was from the West and coming to New York on a visit to her mother. The woman who wore the little toque was a typical "worrie." And her troubles were the typical of the woman who "worried." "No matter what happens or whose fault it is, I get the blame and all I hear from morning till night is money, money, money. 'I just wish I could climb a tree."

The Western woman's troubles were more real.

"Well, money isn't everything and you'll know know it some day. My mother says wthen they moved into a house with running water in, her cup of happiness was full. I guess she never had much except happiness out of her marriage for she was just crazy about Pa always. She still is. I remember the first time we ever went away for the summer. Ma cried so the second day that we all had to go back home. And we didn't mind a bit. We were all a bit homesick for Dad. Folks were different then. They had more heart. Why, if mother was out and it would start to rain or thunder, I'd cry as if she were dead. Children don't love that way now. I just wonder why. And I think that's why none of them know how to love when they grow up. They seem to just fight instead."

"Well if you don't fight you never get anywhere these days, and I'm going to fight till I get what I want, if I have to get a divorce to do it."

"Divorce doesn't help any. I thought that life would be one long sweet song when once I got mine. But now I know different. If you can't get happiness out of marriage you can't get it out of what's left of you after you've made a wreck of marriage. Money is what causes divorces. It caused mine, for it caused the quarrels. There are troubles in marriage. I've been through it, but I've been through divorce, too. And I'm telling you never to think you can be any happier than you are right now. Don't go and leave a man because of money. If you do, you'll regret it. The men have it hard getting money, just as hard as we have trying to stretch it. If I had it to do over I'd never break up just because of money, and I'd never quarrel with a man again just over money. It's worry that causes them to get so cross and mean." And suddenly the woman from the West began to cry.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce.)

The food supply for the ordinary household should be subject to scrutiny from the following standpoints: The presence of harmful preservatives introduced either to render bad food preservable or to preserve food which is preserved only with difficulty; the possibility of the presence of specific poisonous material from food containers, wrappers or utensils used in cooking; danger from food contamination by bacteria and parasites.

In order to avoid contamination of foodstuffs by lead from containers used in preserving, from wrappers such as tinfoil, or from cooking utensils, metal coming directly in contact with food should contain less than 1 per cent of lead.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

WHILE Washington is worrying along with nice, clean, wholesome comedies of American life, Philadelphia is all het up over "Lysistrata." Of course, Washington once saw "Lysistrata," too; but that was a production of the Moscow Art Theater, told in the Russian tongue, and so the censors had practically no cause for worriment. The Philadelphia offering is done in the native tongue—which sets tongues wagging. It is a translation by Gilbert Seldes, with settings by Norman Bel-Geddes. The cast includes Fay Bainter, Ernest Truex and Marian Hopkins—all well known in this parish.

ROI COOPER MEGRUE it was who wrote "It Pays to Advertise," thereby adding a slogan to the language. Perhaps this was a slogan even before the play was titled—as the advertising men here in convention assembled will know with some degree of positiveness. At any rate, the National Theater Players are taking the old comedy out of the bag and are rehearsing it for presentation next week in the family playhouse. Love, soft soap and high pressure business tactics are three ingredients that go to make "It Pays to Advertise" one of the standbys of theaterdom.

As for shows, T. Joe Cahill, executive secretary of the Dude Ranchers Association, from out Montana way, comes to town in the interest of Frontier Day, held the last week of each July in Cheyenne, Wyo. "Now, there," says Mr. Cahill, "is all the drama in the world—and I don't mean maybe. It is, in a word, Western life at its best."

Mr. Cahill sports one of those ten-gallon hats like Cal Coolidge used to wear when he went West. Certainly, these hats are more picturesque than most of the scenery on the American stage—and they advertise the wild and wooly country.

WHILE Atlantic City may boast of its boardwalk, and Virginia Beach, too, Seaside Park, down on Chesapeake Bay, is now in the throes of demolishing the old boardwalk that once tripped up many a visitor to Chesapeake Beach. Mr. Lee Somers reports that the normal peace and quiet of the old fishing and swimming hole is much disturbed by the final elimination of the old piles that once held up the boardwalk. This is all for the purpose of making things smart and attractive for the opening of Seaside Park—an event scheduled to take place on the 24th instant, as they say in the business letters.

WHAT A GREAT WOMAN'S MAGAZINE THINKS ABOUT SUBSTITUTION

This editorial is published to more than two and a half million families in the June issue of Pictorial Review... It is re-published here because we believe it covers a subject of vital interest to every family in the United States... Refuse substitutes; buy the advertised brand every time!

FOR many months Pictorial Review has watched with frank concern the growing tendency toward substitution. There is, today, a determined effort under way to sell the public unknown, unadvertised articles in place of the known, advertised favorites.

Substitution is nothing new. It has gone on for years. But this present condition is more pronounced, more wide-spread, and more definitely organized than it has been before. It shows itself in many ways, familiar to every woman who shops for herself or her family.

Perhaps you ask for a certain advertised article by name, and the clerk will say, "Here is a new brand we just got in. Many of our customers like it. Would you care to try a package?"

Or, again, the clerk says, "We're having a special this week on so-and-so brand. Would you like to have that instead?"

Or, in some cases, you are told that the store does not carry the brand you ask for, but that such-and-such a brand is just as good.

These are the common cases. One more also deserves mention. You may receive the article you ask for, and then be sold unknown brands for most of the other products on your shopping-list. Sometimes you order one brand, and find another in your package when you get it home.

Substitution! It is all done so smoothly, so easily, so politely that you may not realize what has happened to you.

Almost without exception, substitutions are made for a selfish reason. The store which substitutes has its own interest in mind rather than yours.

It may substitute because the "just as good" brings a larger profit per unit sold than the article you want and ask for. It may do so because the store wants to offer what looks like a bargain price. This is particularly true when certain brands are sold by one group of stores exclusively. But how can you judge their prices when you do not know what others would ask for the same product?

This does not mean that unknown brands are always lower in price. They are not. Sometimes they are sold for more than advertised brands. But in the one case you know what you are getting. In the other you cannot be sure.

For many years Pictorial Review has dealt with the manufacturers of advertised goods. Like other publications, we insist upon knowing that every product presented in our pages deserves the confidence of our readers. We have visited the great modern laboratories where their products are developed.

We have been in the immaculate kitchens where food products are tested. We have seen the meticulous care with which purity is safe-guarded. We have felt by personal contact the conscientious desire of these companies to maintain the highest standards of excellence.

It is hardly necessary here to argue the advantages of such products. It goes without saying that these manufacturers believe in the quality they are offering you. That is why they publish a statement of that quality in the pages of newspapers and magazines.

The fact that manufacturers advertise to you is the best evidence that they want to win and keep your good-will. They put their case up to the public and they know that their goods must satisfy if they are to hold your trade. Naturally, they must maintain their quality, they must give full weight, they must do all the things necessary to protect their priceless asset of public acceptance.

Pictorial Review urges its readers to buy advertised goods.

Ringworms Itched Terribly and Burned. Healed by Cuticura.

"The ringworms first began with little red pimples on my husband's abdomen and thighs. They itched terribly when he perspired, and used to burn. He used to scratch the eruptions until they were so sore that he had to protect them with gauze so that his clothing would not rub them. He also had eczema for three months.

"I advised him to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so he purchased some. After a few treatments he got good results, and in about a month he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Lydia Brown, 1016 Orange St., New Orleans, La., Aug. 16, 1929.

MILLER URGES UNION OF BAPTIST GROUPS

CITES CYNICISM TREND

New Orleans, La., May 15 (A.P.).—Calling upon all Baptists to pioneer in religion, A. L. Miller, of Boston, president of the Northern Baptist Convention, as the Northern Church fraternal delegate to the Southern Baptist Convention in session here today invited the church membership to enlist in the proposal to weld together the Northern and Southern bodies of the church.

His invitation came just after the Southern convention had been informed that at their request the Northern Baptist Convention had halted negotiations for amalgamation with the Disciples of America and announcement had been made by Dr. A. J. Barton, of Atlanta, chairman of the Commission of Social Service of the Southern church, that the Southern memorial to the Northern church opposing their merger with the Disciples would be withheld.

"Speaking for more than 90 per cent of the Baptists," said Mr. Miller, a layman in his church, "we have more in common with the Southern Baptist Convention than any other two denominations. We have no pope. We have no bishops. We are without great organization and yet we are all Baptists of the same creed.

Flings Barb at Cynicism.

"Theodore Roosevelt once referred to the little group of radicals in politics as the 'lunatic fringe.' I wonder if I might call some in the Baptist Church the 'lunatic fringe?'

"I am afraid we are not pioneering in religion today as we did 200 years ago. Then it cost something to be Christians. But today it is so easy. You and I must pioneer. Let us work together."

Touching on the fundamental-modernist angle and the enlistment of the young people in the work of the church, Mr. Miller declared:

"Fundamentalism is the perpetuation of Christianity. Modernism is dissolution of Christianity.

The cynicism of America—oh, why is it that the young people take such a cynical attitude toward religion? I think it is because we do not present them with the proper challenge of Christianity."

Annuity Plan Adopted.

Immediately after the introduction of fraternal delegates, the convention named President W. J. McGlothlin, of South Carolina, as the Southern fraternal delegate to attend the Northern Baptist annual convention at Cleveland, Ohio, May 28-June 2.

The first action on major business taken by the convention today was adoption after prolonged debate of the new service annuity plan providing for acquisition of the annuity contributions by the relief department on January 1, 1931, to increase ministerial relief by 45 per cent and to care for present annuity benefits through special endowments and interest.

Debate was extended past the hour's limit before the revised relief plan was passed, amended to limit the amount for an annuitant to $1,200 except under certain conditions and the disability allowance to $600.

The committee on resolutions appointed by President McGlothlin follows: T. Clagett Skinner, Virginia; W. Marshall Craig, Texas; C. E. Burts, Georgia; L. O. Dawson, Alabama, and C. W. Duke, Florida.

TARIFF BILL HANGS ON SENATE ACTION

the Democratic attempt would in effect kill the measure. The bill would go back to conference, but the House conferees, backed by an overwhelming vote in the House against the Senate provisions, would be expected to hold their ground.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, believed the debate would not be drawn out.

"The probability is a motion will be made," he said, "that the Senate adhere to its flexible and debenture amendments in accordance with the understanding that they would be brought back for another opportunity to vote. This means that the fight is on when the conferees come in."

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, one of the Democratic conferees, said the minority regarded the two provisions adopted by the Senate as "vital to the welfare of the American people."

"We will not recede on them," he asserted. "Every effort has been made to have them retained in the bill and enacted into law. We will continue those efforts to bring a test on the floor of the Senate."

The conferees have been called to meet this morning, but members of both groups were in the dark last night as to the purpose of the meeting.

DENISHAWN DANCERS SCORE IN PROGRAM

Ruth St. Denis Introduces New Bits of Artistry From Orient.

CAPITAL GIRL FEATURES

Terpsichorean feats of agility and grace, a wealth of exquisite costumes and an abiding sense of rhythm were features of the program presented by Ruth St. Denis and the Denishawn Dancers at the National Theater yesterday afternoon.

Miss St. Denis and her dancers appeared under the local management of T. Arthur Smith. The premiere danseuse, who has just returned from an Oriental tour, where she has made a study of native dances in far eastern lands, injected a note of novelty into the afternoon's entertainment by a portrayal of some of these motifs. The costuming for this portion of the program was an added delight to the motion poems through its richness and appropriateness.

The ensemble numbers were particularly lovely, and the audience applauded most generously the opening selection, Beethoven's "Sonata Pathetique."

Greeted by Ovation.

The first appearance of Miss St. Denis was greeted with a tremendous ovation. It was in a Grecian number entitled "Greek Veil Plastique" by Gluck in which her thorough command of the choreographic art was fully displayed.

In a short address made at the intermission Miss St. Denis stated that the renaissance of the art of dancing is at hand and that in 25 years regular temples of the dance will be in existence in honor of the oldest of the arts.

Second only in interest to the work of Miss St. Denis was that of Marion Chace, a Washington girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Chace, of Chevy Chase, whose "Idyll," danced with her husband, Lester Shafer, was worthy of Miss St. Denis herself. She scored again in the East Indian Bazaar scene.

Introduces Song Snatches.

The audience was elated by the innovation introduced by Miss St. Denis, evidently one of the results of her Eastern travels, in which she introduced snatches of song and bits of poetry in the languages of the countries in which the dances were played. This gave an air of realism which was heightened by the correct costuming. In a "Tagore Poem," danced with exquisite interpretation, Miss St. Denis played a native Indian instrument with considerable skill.

Among the other members of the Denishawn dancers who appeared yesterday were Ernestine Day, Anna Austin, Regenia Beck, Hazel Krans, Vivian Berman, Martha Hinman and Lester Shafer.

Nurse Reports $175 Theft.

Miss Alberta Montgomery, a nurse at Walter Reed Hospital, reported to the Thirteenth Precinct yesterday afternoon that a purse containing about $15 in bills, an unset diamond valued at $100, a piece of gold chain about 10 inches long, and an old copper coin of historical value, was taken from a desk in the main hospital building. The stolen articles totaled about $175.

"Politics" Split Palo Alto D. A. R.

Half of Chapter Resigns, Including Mrs. David Starr Jordan.

Palo Alto, Calif., May 15 (A.P.).—Approximately half the membership of the Stanford University Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, today resigned from the chapter and the national organization in protest against what was termed the "political activities and reactionary policies of the national board in regard to peace, disarmament and the world court."

Those resigning included the wives of two former Stanford University presidents, Dr. David Starr Jordan and Dr. John Casper Branner. The group did not include, however, Mrs. C. W. Neff, regent, or Mrs. Theodore Hoover, sister-in-law of President Hoover. Those not resigning, it was said, believed they could do more to right the asserted "reactionary policies" of the national board by remaining within the chapter.

The resolution adopted by the withdrawing members also protested against "the high-handed methods of administration by which the member chapters have no effective voice in the determination of the national policies of the association."

Electrocution of Men Postponed on Appeal

Justice Peyton Gordon in District Supreme Court yesterday postponed until June 5 the electrocution of Andrew Jackson Hawkins, colored, who was convicted several months ago on an indictment charging the first-degree murder of Ruth Watkins, also colored.

The postponement, the second of recent weeks, was granted on the motion of Attorney John H. Wilson, Hawkins' attorney, who stated to the court that his client's plea for clemency still is pending before the Department of Justice. The District Court of Appeals recently refused to sustain an appeal in the case. Hawkins was scheduled to die in the electric chair May 22.

Children's Slayer Sent to Asylum.

Canso, N. S., May 15 (A.P.).—Mrs. George Munroe, wife of a Dover lobster fisherman, who killed three of her seven children with an ax, yesterday, was ordered committed to a hospital for the insane today.

ADVERTISING NEEDS FOR CITY STRESSED

Mrs. Florence Kahn Tells Kiwanis Club of Lack of Cooperation.

ILL FELING MENTIONED

There is utter lack of cooperation between the District residents and members of Congress, Representative Florence P. Kahn, of California, told members of the Kiwanis Club and their guests at the annual "ladies day" luncheon of the club in the Washington Hotel yesterday.

Speaking on the general subject of "Women in Congress," Representative Kahn gave some of her impressions of the Capital after 30 years residence here. She urged that Washington advertise the city as the only place designed as the Capital of a great Nation and that every effort be made to develop Washington as the most beautiful city in the world.

"If Washington advertised her beauty and advantages as a center of government, as California advertises its climate," Representative Kahn said, "the whole world would know what a really great city this is."

In Capital 30 Years.

"I have been in Washington 30 years, coming here with my husband when he was in Congress, and in all that time I have failed to find any evidence of cooperation between District residents and members of Congress. The people in Washington look down on members of Congress and as a result, those on the Hill have no particular liking for Washington residents.

"It is difficult to get senators and representatives from other large cities to serve on committees for the District because of this lack of cooperation. I talked to one member of the House recently, who is resigning from a District committee, and asked him to name five outstanding Washingtonians.

"He struggled and finally named three and added that he had never been able to discern any real cooperative movement on the part of Washingtonians toward getting what they desired from Congress."

Discrimination in Schools.

According to Representative Kahn, members of Congress are considered "fair prey" for the residents of the District and she charged that even the children of senators and representatives are shifted about in the schools and denied the consideration given other children.

Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer, new honorary member of the club, was present and was named on the orthopedic and welfare committee.

Next week's meeting will be held at Alexandria, Va., when Alexandria Kiwanians will be hosts to the Washington, Fredericksburg and Manassas Clubs at an "interclub" luncheon.

Police Warn Against Imposter.

Inspector William S. Shelby, of the Detective Bureau, yesterday warned business men and housekeepers to be on the lookout for a man selling tickets for a benefit play, claiming to be "Capt. Murray" of the Fire Department. There is no Capt. Murray in the department.

Tough Two-Gun Westerner Surrenders After Good Cry

Black-Bearded Giant, Who Stood Off Posse of 40, Finds Tear Gas Bombs Too Hard a Problem; Cattle Theft Charged.

Ray, Arizona, May 15 (A.P.).—Modern police tear gas bombs went up against the two-gun play of the old West near here today, and the tear gas bombs won when Edward Mitchell, "from all along the Colorado River," surrendered to a posse on a charge of cattle theft after he had had a good cry.

Mitchell, a black-bearded giant of a man and a stranger in these parts, was accused by Howard Parks of stealing cattle from the Parks Ranch and selling the meat to a road construction gang. When deputy sheriffs and riflemen started after Mitchell yesterday to serve a warrant, he barricaded himself in a stone walled cabin on the Parks Ranch where he had been living.

He had a rifle, a pistol and plenty of ammunition. Each demand for his surrender was answered by a volley of bullets.

The 40 or more possemen made themselves comfortable behind rocks and ledges and sent to Florence, Ariz., site of the State prison, for tear gas bombs. When these arrived today they were used with almost immediate effect. Mitchell came out weeping and surrendered. His head was wrapped in a blanket which he had used as an improvised gas mask.

The "hermit" was placed in jail here and in addition to being charged with theft of cattle, he will be charged with resisting arrest, Sheriff Gilmer said.

Not much is known of the prisoner except that he is a wanderer in the Southwest and has been headquartering recently on the Parks Ranch. Several hundred pounds of jerked beef were found in the stone cabin where he resisted arrest. It is alleged the meat is from cattle stolen by him.

Wife-Killer Sentenced Soon After Confession

Portland, Me., May 14 (A.P.).—Less than twenty hours after he had confessed to beating his young wife to death with a rolling pin, Kenneth Williams, 20 years old, of Yarmouth, today was indicted for murder, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Williams said he killed his wife because of "dissatisfaction with their marital life."

Workman Killed on Vatican Railroad.

Vatican City, May 15 (A.P.).—Misfortune again today attended building of a bridge on the new Vatican railroad line. One workman was killed when a steam pile driver broke through the tracks and crashed to earth. The first accident was a cave-in after hard rains several months ago.

Cold Weather Hinders College "Shorts" Style

Hanover, N. H., May 15 (A.P.).—The 500 Dartmouth students who yesterday inaugurated the "shorts" style of campus haberdashery today had dwindled to a mere score or so of shivering youths. A drop in temperature to 42 degrees above zero coupled with a drenching rain were sufficient deterrents to the less hardy.

An indication, however, that "shorts" might become permanent was seen in the fact that a number of students had sent their regular trousers to tailors with orders that they be abbreviated in approved fashion.

Arth Named Coreceiver Of Apartment Building

Justice William Hitz in District Supreme Court yesterday named Charles W. Arth as coreceiver of the Jefferson Apartments, Sixteenth and M streets northwest, succeeding Charles S. Baker, who resigned. Mr. Arth was placed under $20,000 bond the same as that which the court required of Herbert Davis, former auditor of the court, and the other receiver.

Mr. Baker, however, will continue to act as collector for the F. H. Smith Building at 615 Fifteenth street northwest, a post which he holds jointly with Mr. Davis. In tendering his resignation as receiver, Mr. Baker advised Justice Hitz that within a few weeks he will be called out of town on business. A petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Smith Building is now pending in the court and the case is expected to be reached within a few days.

WILLIAM GIBBS McADOO
PRESIDENT OF THE HUDSON AND MANHATTAN R.R. OPERATING HUDSON RIVER TUNNEL SYSTEM. THE FIRST TUNNEL UNDER THE HUDSON RIVER—COMPLETED LAST YEAR.

May 16, 1905.

Greeted by a crowd as she stepped from her train, from New York, Nan Patterson came home yesterday.

Thomas Edison in an article in The Washington Post stated: "I am working at present on the motor battery for an automobile. My idea is to make it possible for a tonneau car for four persons, to go 100 miles without recharging the battery. We can do that now with heavy trucks but the motor is too heavy for the auto for traveling. The practical limit at the present for the tonneau car is 50 miles.

The ships and materials for the work on the Panama Canal will be bought from the world markets was announced today. This is going to be done because of the present heavy tariff.

The stock market suffered one of its dullest days since the day of its opening back in the eighties.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

INDUSTRIAL DUST AND T. B.

A PROPER regard for their own interests demands that people who have recovered from tuberculosis should not work at a dusty trade. To do so is to invite a reawakening of their disease, and its steady progress thereafter. Incidentally, a proper regard for the people in the trade demands that former consumptives should be excluded from the ranks of the workers. And also, incidentally, a proper regard for the interests of the business demands that the management decline to employ former consumptives to work in dusty trades. The reactivated case becomes a source of contagion to other employes and of financial loss to the enterprise.

These conclusions lead Dr. L. A. Gardner to advise that all managers of industrial establishments where there is much dust of certain kinds, make freedom from arrested tuberculosis as shown by close examination, a requisite of employment. He furthermore advises careful periodic examination of all employes for tuberculosis.

There are degrees in the harmfulness of dust, however. The dusts studied by Dr. Gardner were composed of silicon in some form or other. It is probable that certain metallic dusts such as that due to ax grinding and brass polishing would rank with the worst studied by Dr. Gardner.

In his study quartz dust was found to lead the list. This was followed by carborundum dust. Granite dust ranked third. Asbestos dust ranks lower still. Not much harm is done by dust from marble and limestone, and still less from coal dust. The author did not study the effects of organic dusts such as those due to flour.

The harmful element in those studied was silicon. This is basis of ordinary sand and sandstone. Something seems to depend on chemical nature of the silicon itself, something on the physical character of the dust particles, and something on where in the lungs these granules are apt to be deposited.

Dr. Gardner wants to have more facts before he forms his final conclusion, but he feels that he has enough to wararnt him in asking personnel mahagers to insist on an entrance examination for healed tuberculosis followed by periodic examinations.

DEPENDS ON OTHER MEALS.

H. S. writes: Will you please let me know whether eating lunches practically every day, for five days, consisting of sandwiches of tomato and lettuce, Swiss cheese, sardines, cream cheese, &c., will affect a young girl of 18 in any way?

REPLY.

NOT EASILY DIGESTED.

Mrs. A. M. J. writes: Are raw potatoes healthy? A friend of mine eats two to four medium-sized raw potatoes a day. She is 46 years old, is anemic, and her health is poor. She says the potatoes taste as good to her as nice, juicy apples.

REPLY.

The starch in raw potatoes is not easily digested, but there are those who like them, eat them, digest them and get good food values and vitamines from them.

NATS BEAT INDIANS, 4-2, ON WEST'S HOMER AND TRIPLE; AMERICANS LEADING BRITISH TEAM FOR WALKER CUP, 3-1

VOIGT AND VON ELM ONLY AMERICAN PAIR TO BOW TO BRITONS

Wales Sees Triumph of U. S.; Mackenzie, Moe Win, 2 and 1.

Johnston vs. Tolley, Jones vs. Wethered in Singles Today.

By FRANK H. KING.

SANDWICH, England, May 15 (A.P.).—Beating the British at their favorite form of golf—Scotch foursomes—before the Prince of Wales and more than 5,000 others, the American Walker Cup Team today won three matches and lost only one, giving the visitors a decided advantage in the closing stage of the competition tomorrow when eight singles matches will be played. All matches today were at 36 holes and tomorrow's competition is also over the full route.

Bobby Jones and Dr. O. F. Willing defeated T. A. Torrance and Rex Hartley, 8 up and 7 to play. Roland Mackenzie and Donald Moe won from Sir Ernest Holderness and J. A. Stout, 2 up and 1 to play. Jimmy Johnston and Francis Ouimet stopped William Campbell and John Nelson Smith, two Scots, 2 and 1.

The only American defeat was charged to George Von Elm and George Voigt, who fell before Cyril Tolley and Roger Wethered, 2 up.

3 Singles Victories and Halve Needed.

To win the Walker Cup for the sixth time, the Americans now need only to win three singles matches and halve one. The singles array tomorrow will be: Johnston vs. Tolley, Jones against Wethered, Von Elm against Hartley, Voigt against Holderness, Willing against Smith, Ouimet and Torrance against Moe and Stout and Mackenzie against Campbell.

If any one saw more golf played today than the Prince of Wales it was not because his royal highness did not follow everything that looked like a good fight. He stepped from his airplane near the St. George's course and when he removed his flying suit he was revealed garbed in a plus fours outfit of big brown checks, dashed with red, made of what is known as guards regiment cloth.

All day the prince took his chances with the rest of the gallery, striving for points of vantage about the greens. He arrived at a moment when British hopes were at a low ebb, all the American pairs being ahead. His presence failed to inspire the British, for the first eighteen holes ended with the visitors ahead in all the matches.

Prince of Wales In Scramble.

The prince was not shown any special favor by the rushing crowds. He is the Prince of Wales to the British government, but only another golf fan at big occasions like that of today and he had to scramble with the others for a place in the inner circle about the greens. He did not even go through the lanes opened for the players to reach the greens.

Like most of the crowd the prince watched the first two matches in which Jones and Willing, playing in perfect harmony and cooperation, trounced Torrance and Hartley soundly, and the second in which Von Elm and Voigt suffered putting lapses.

Tolley's powerful game and the steadiness of Wethered, inspired by the performance of his big partner, in the afternoon wiped out the two-hole lead the two Georges took to luncheon. Two shots in a bunker at the twenty-eighth sent the Americans one down and from then in it was a fight all the way, the Americans trying heroically to wipe out the hole against them.

Von Elm missed a chance to draw level at the short sixteenth where Voigt's tee shot was 10 feet from the cup, but the putt slipped past, and the hole was halved. Wethered holed

Braves Rally in Ninth, Two Out, to Beat Cubs

Chicago, May 16 (A.P.).—With two men out in the ninth inning, the Boston Braves put on a three-run rally to defeat the Cubs, 10 to 8, in a heavy-hitting game today. The victory enabled the Braves to divide the two-game series.

Sheriff Blake, the fifth Cub pitcher to see service in the slugging match, went to the mound in the ninth inning with a one-run lead given him by Rogers Hornsby's home run in the eighth with two on base. After two Braves had been retired, Maranville walked, reached third on Sisler's single and scored the tying run when English booted Moore's easy grounder. Then Welsh sent a long single to right to bring in two more runs.

Miss Collett Finalist in England

Defeats Miss Wilson, Conqueror of Helen, Hicks, One Up.

Long Putt Decisive; Miss Fishwick Is Other Finalist.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

FORMBY, ENGLAND, May 15 (A.P.).—Glenna Collett, playing an excellent brand of golf, today went into the final of the British Women's Golf Championship, but only after two fierce battles with defending British girls who forced her to the eighteenth green, morning and afternoon, and several times threatened to send her home the loser.

She defeated Hilda Cameron, of Scotland, in the morning and Enid Wilson of England in the afternoon, each 1 up, and found neither opponent soft in any particular.

The hard-hitting Helen Hicks went down, 5 up and 4 to play, before the harder-hitting Enid Wilson in the morning play.

Diana Fishwick, who contests with Miss Collett for the championship over a stretch of 36 holes tomorrow, won her way to the finals by defeating Daisy Ferguson of Ireland in the Morning and Kathleen MacDonald in the afternoon.

While the betting odds favor the American, because of her greater experience, Miss Fishwick is generally conceded an excellent chance, especially if Miss Collett should be shy of her top form.

Rain Diminishes Galleries.

Rain diminished the galleries in the quarter-finals, but 400 followed Misses Hicks and Wilson and 2,000 persons saw most of the shots of the Collett-Wilson match. Miss Fishwick was followed by only a faithful few as the other semifinal was looked on as the probable championship struggle.

However, the fact that Miss Fishwick went out in 37 strokes in the afternoon to 39 for Miss Collett, gave the British some hope for a surprise finish tomorrow. Miss Collett's medal score against Miss Wilson was 80, a card that many male golfers envy at Formby.

The morning play was in the rain and the semifinalists played the first nine holes of the afternoon pelted by raindrops, but the sun came out to shine on the homeward journey.

Miss Hicks putted poorly and lapses on the green chiefly were responsible for the fact that she was 5 down at the tenth hole. Miss Collett found herself unable to get ahead of Miss Cameron on account of the Scotch girl's good putting. The most sensational shot of the day's play was contributed by Miss Cameron when she holed a 25-yard niblick shot from a trap.

Miss Collett Wins On Eighteenth.

The Cameron-Collett match was all square going to the seventeenth but she won there and her task of the morning was over when the eighteenth was halved.

Misses Collett and Wilson halved the first three holes in par figures, the gallery expressing polite amazement when the girls conceded each putts of over 2 feet.

Both hit long balls from the tee, but Miss Wilson had a slight advantage. On the 504-yard third she almost reached the green with her second. Miss Collett went 1 up by sinking an 18-foot putt for a birdie at the fourth, but the advantage was shortlived, for Miss Wilson won the short fifth when her opponent sliced from the tee. Miss Collett won the sixth when Miss Wilson missed the green with her third and was short with her approach putt. The next three holes were halved although Glenna holed a 15-foot putt at the seventh. The 494-yard tenth was won by the English girl with a birdie 4. The American's long putt rimming the cup. Miss Collett won the eleventh where Miss Wilson explored a trap. Another birdie 4 for the British entry at the twelfth made the match all square.

The thirteenth was halved, but Glenna went 1 down at the fourteenth when Enid hit a long spoon nearly to the green, chipped up close, and sent home a putt for a birdie 4.

12-Foot Putt Aids Miss Collett.

The fifteenth was halved and Miss Wilson, apparently cracking under the strain, sent her tee shot into the woods, out of bounds. Miss Collett landed on the edge of a trap at the green, then hit her next and saw the ball roll into the sand. She blasted out with her third and holed a 12-foot putt to square the match, when her opponent took 5.

The seventeenth was a half and each reached the eighteenth in two shots. Miss Wilson, putting first, rimmed the cup, while Miss Collett's putt from 18 feet, ran straight and true into the hole.

The card:

Collett, out	4	5	5	3	4	5	5	4	4	—39
Wilson, out	4	5	5	4	3	6	5	4	4	—40

Mind Is His Chief Weapon, Schmeling Tells Readers Of Post in First Article

Builds Body to Obey Thoughts in Fight With Sharkey.

Herewith is the first of a series of articles, direct quotations from Max Schmeling. They are set down as he speaks them in a daily discussion of his method of preparing for his heavyweight championship fight with Jack Sharkey on June 12 at the Yankee Stadium. The writer, sporting editor of the New York News, is living with Schmeling at Enticott, New York. A certain time, each morning is set aside for the preparation of these stories. The writer's contributions do not go beyond whipping the spoken material into fluent English.

By MAX SCHMELING
(As Told to Paul Gallico).

ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 15.—First of all, please greet the readers of The Washington Post for me and tell them I hope they will be interested in what I say. You see, training is such an everyday business to me that it is hard for me to realize that any one might like to know about it. It is like going to the office for you and doing your daily work to earn your bread. This is something that you yourself must do. No one can do it for you. And so it is with training.

The first essential to successful training is peace of mind. This I lacked in former years. This I have today. The business about the contracts and the managers and the boxing commission and the lawyers and what-not no longer bothers me. I am thinking only of that fight. And to me that is as important as the training of my muscles. I do not try to forget the fight. I must prepare my mind for it as much as my body. After all, this period of training is only to prepare my body so that it will at all times instantly obey what my mind tells it to do, even when it is hurt in a vital spot. That is the only true meaning of condition.

Training Means Plenty Of Practice.

You see, I have nothing sensational to tell you today. I just wish that you will understand what I am trying to do. To me, the chief weapon in the ring is thinking. When I am sparring in training, I know instantly when I have done something wrong. I feel it. Then I am angry with the part of me that has failed. I practice it again and again. Then I try to build up that part of my body so that when I call upon it it will not fail me.

Seven years' experience as a professional boxer has taught me to know my body as your Gene Tunney knew his. No professional trainer could suddenly step in and train because he would be limited to what he knows. To train right, one must have a man who knows one inside and who will know how to bring out what is there.

Trainer as Important As Either Hand.

I have such a man in Max Machon. He is to me as important in my fights as my left hand or my right hand would be. He has been with me for five years and knows me almost as well as I do myself. And, in addition, he is my friend and companion. Together we traveled Europe, together we have made success or failure. I trust him completely. I am telling of this here, because you who have never trained for a hand-to-hand fight involving hundreds of thousands of dollars can not otherwise appreciate how much it means to have the proper person with you. A fighter can not be alone.

Today, and from now on, I will work for speed and eye. In tomorrow's article, I will go over my workout today and tell you what I learned, what I was thinking and planning and what it taught me.

Chisox Tie Macks, 6-6, In 5th When Rain Falls

Philadelphia, May 15 A.P.).—The Athletics failed to complete an official game in their final stand against the Chicago White Sox today when rain interrupted the contest in the middle of the fifth inning. Chicago scored three runs in the first half of the fifth to tie the count at 6 to 6. The score reverted to the fourth inning and did not go into the records. The Athletics had made six runs in the second.

The champions made seven hits off the delivery of Red Faber, Chicago's veteran spitballer, to tally all their runs in the second. Reynolds had started the Sox off ahead with a homer. In the fifth, four singles gave Chicago the three runs that tied the score and kept the game from becoming an official one.

Before the game the Athletics raised the American League pennant they won last year. It was the first occasion of the kind they have taken part in since the summer of 1914 when the championship flag was hoisted.

Cards Trade Mitchell To Giants for Judd

St. Louis, May 15 (A.P.).—Clarence Mitchell, only left-handed spitball pitcher in the major leagues, was traded today by the St. Louis Cardinals to the New York Giants for Ralph Judd, right hander. The Giants are in St. Louis and the deal was closed here today, the Cardinal Club announced.

Van Ryn Near Victory; Rain Ends Play

Leads Dr. Wright, of Canada, 5-2, With 2 Sets Won.

Singles and Doubles on Today's Davis Cup Tie Program.

By TED VOSBURGH.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15 (A.P.).—Johnny Van Ryn stood just two points from victory over Dr. Jack Wright, of Montreal, in the opening match of the Davis Cup tie between the United States and Canada today when a thundershower forced postponement of play until tomorrow.

The youthful East Orange, N. J., player had held match point a moment before, but lost it when his drive went outside the base line. Losing this point, Van Ryn led at 6—2, 6—2, 3—6, 5—2 and deuce and then the weather man intervened with a sudden downpour.

Even when the match began, the championship court constructed by the Philadelphia Country Club especially for these international matches was damp and slow from recent rains. The lean sun-bronzed American and the dapper Canadian captain made the best of it and refused to stop for the sprinkle of rain that fell through the earlier stages of the fourth set, but they could not stand before the deluge that finally descended, scattering the crowd of 3,000 as well as the players.

Postponement Follows Wait of Hour.

Acting Referee Samuel H. Collom, of Philadelphia, waited more than an hour before postponing the rest of the match and the second singles contest between George Lott, of Chicago, and Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, until tomorrow afternoon. The regularly scheduled doubles match also will be on the day's program with a possibility that the favored United States team can clinch the series in a single day by sweeping all three.

Unless Wright can work a tennis miracle the opening match will go down to the credit of Van Ryn and this country's team will be off on the right foot in its quest for the famous trophy now reposing in France. Although much harder pressed than he was in last year's Davis Cup play at Montreal, when he allowed Wright only two games in three sets, Van Ryn held the upper hand by a clear margin. His all court play and deadly volleying gave him enough of an advantage to carry the first two sets without difficulty.

Wright's Lobs Give Van Ryn Trouble.

Wright, a smooth worker and a clever tactician, shifted in the third set to a lobbying game that raised havoc with Van Ryn's net attack. Alternating his lobs with swift sideline passing shots, Wright turned the tide and captured the set. The Canadian's lobbing in the fourth set was not so deep and accurate, with a result that Van Ryn often was able to score smashing overhead kills. Again in the saddle, he forged ahead to a lead of 5-2 and 40-30 on his own service, but it was raining hard now and his drive went too far.

It was the final stroke of the day, rain falling in torrents the next instant.

Australia Sweeps Net Matches With Ireland

Dublin, Ireland, May 15 (A.P.).—Australia made a clean sweep of the opening pair of singles matches today in the second round Davis Cup play with Ireland.

E. F. Moon, of Australia, dropped two sets in beating Lyttleton Rogers, Irish star, in a hard battle, 4—6, 2—6, 6—8, 6—3, 12—10, but J. H. Cragford downed A. Maguire, of Ireland, in straight sets, 6—1, 6—2, 6—4.

West's 2 Long Clouts Off Hudlin Net 3-Run Lead Early.

Nationals Are Outhit; Rice Gets Safety in 25th Game.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WASHINGTON was outhit by the Indians in the final game of its home stand against the West yesterday, but managed to win, 4 to 2, thanks largely to the slugging of Outfielder Sam West and the pitching in the pinches of the old-timer, "Sad Sam" Jones. The victory enabled the natives to hold on to the runner-up position in the standing and gave them a 7-6 edge in victories against the invading Westerners.

In every inning, except one, in which more than two hits were made, a score resulted, with the big blows of the game coming off the bat of West in the first and third innings. He led off with a triple and scored the Nats' first run and on his next trip to the tee, he crashed out a homer inside the park with Pitcher Jones on first, these three runs being enough to decide the game Washington's way, as things turned out.

Jones, who showed more "stuff" than in any of his previous starts, rang up his fourth victory of the year because of his ability to tighten up in the pinches. With the score close at all times and the Indians

Nats and Macks Battle for Lead In Bargain Bill

HAVING held on to second place by breaking even in the abbreviated series with the Indians, the Nationals this afternoon start a set of games which they hope will give them the league lead, meeting the first-place Athletics in a twin bill in the Quaker City this afternoon. By winning yesterday while rain stopped the world's champions before a legal game was completed with the White Sox, Johnson's troupe pulled to within one game of the leaders.

A double triumph this afternoon would bringg the Nationals home tonight leading the procession. In the hope of bringing this about Irving Hadley, who at times has been most effective against the men of Mack, will draw the Washington pitching assignment in one of today's games, while Manager Johnson believes that Ad Liska's underhanded shoots will prove puzzling enough to cause the Philadelphia hitters plenty of trouble in the other. George ("Rube") Walberg and George Earnshaw are expected to hurl for the Mackmen.

Clubs Return for Week-End Games.

Today's games will be the first and second of a set of four scheduled with the champions, who return with the Nationals tonight for single games in the Clark Griffith Stadium on Saturday and Sunday. Of the five meetings between the two teams so far this season, the Nationals were badly beaten in the first, but then came back with four victories in a row, these giving them as many 1930 triumphs as they were able to ring up during the whole of last season.

TANNERY'S PRE-DERBY TRIAL CHEERS KENTUCKIANS

Revised Field Indicates 17 Starters

Tannery Is Second Choice, Bradley Entry Third.

By J. B. SNODGRASS
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Ky., May 15. The Derby development today was the final workout of Tannery, by Ballot—Blemished, second choice to Gallant Fox for Saturday's classic. Kentuckians have a strong sentimental interest in the fortunes of the handsome horse owned by Edward F. Pritchard, of Paris, Ky., and as his price has dropped from 100 to 1 to 6 to 1, a large number of supporters have shown their loyalty by sending in the cash.

Tannery took the track before post time in the first race and worked a mile in 1:44, finishing out a mile and a furlong in 1:59 2-5, eased up the last furlong. The other fractions were 0:24 2-5, 0:50 1:16, 1:29 3-5.

The track was slow, but the workout very good, though some observers said the horse was tiring. The trial cheered Kentuckians.

Tannery's Workout Is Formal.

At the time of the workout, the crowd for the day's racing was gathering. The workout was very formal, like an exhibition. Tannery was taken to the paddock blanketed, walked around to the half mile, and started with a dash. He appeared to have been eased slightly at the six furlongs, and considerably after the mile had been turned. When Gallant Fox was worked yesterday, there was no ado about it. The horse and his running mate appeared from the barn on the back stretch, and Sande, in a sweater, started from that point.

Sentiment Only Reason For One Derby Starter

Louisville, Ky., May 15 (A.P.).—Although the horse's name has not been mentioned or even considered among the contenders for the Kentucky Derby, Dick O'Hara, a Light Brigade colt, was declared "in the field" today by his owner, Patrick H. Joyce, of Chicago, wealthy retired railroad man.

Dick O'Hara was named for a close friend of Joyce, who insisted that his horse would start for the sake of sentiment and regardless of whether he could run "3 furlongs or 5 miles."

"And if he wins," added Joyce, with a chuckle, "I'll go down in my shirt sleeves to get that mug from Lord Derby."

Indications today are that seventeen will start in the Derby, the official entries for which will be issued tomorrow. The revised field is: Gallant Fox, Sande; Gallant Knight, Schutte; Tannery, W. Garner; Breezing Thru, J. Smith; Buckeye Poet, Legere; Crack Brigade, Ellis; Ned O, J. D. Mooney; High Foot, C. Meyer; Broadway Limited, T. May; Uncle Luther, R. Creese; Gone Away, M. Garner; Longus, R. O'Brien; Sydney, McCrossen; Play Time, Busy and Kilkerry, no jockeys assigned. It appears Kilkerry from the Three D's Stable will be a starter despite all the talk about the colt being injured, for he worked this morning.

Bookmakers Seeking to Avert Crush.

There was a convention of future book proprietors downtown in Louisville this morning which, it was said, were seeking ways and means of averting a market crush on Gallant Fox. Much money was accepted by these layers at 8 and 10 to 1, and higher odds, and the prospect arises of a deluge of comeback money on the present 7-to-5 favorite in the machines at Churchill Downs as a partial relief, but one which ultimately would defeat its own ends, for the more that is bet in the pari-mutuels, the shorter the price and the bookmakers by that method can only save a fraction of the longer price they are pledged to pay on Gallant Fox should he win.

The general drift of opinion is that Tannery will be second choice, the Bradley entry third, and Ned O fourth. Ned O may be better than rated at the Downs. He has been asked to do very little this spring, and while starting in several races, could not be charged with punishment in these races. He has been permitted to take the pre-Derby week easy, and this morning was rolling around in the grass near his barn like a pet dog. He started in the Derby trial race Monday and finished second, in the deep mud, but there are many who believe he could do much better.

East Wagering Heavily On Gallant Fox.

Thousands of dollars have been rolling in on Gallant Fox, these bookmakers report, and their telephones are ringing at all hours from the East wanting big money on Gallant Fox at any price they can get.

Crack Brigade was sent a mile and a quarter this morning in 2:15 3-5 driving. This horse was second to Gallant Fox in both of his Eastern races, seems to have almost passed from the picture, due to the belief that he can not go the Derby route and his work today did not add to his prestige.

Ned O will be sent five-eights of a mile tomorrow. Foreman realizes, he said today, that Gallant Fox and Tannery are dangerous to him but that he does not fear any of the others.

Louisville is making every preparation possible to take care of the 100,000 visitors expected here Saturday, and the city has declared that day a legal holiday, with special traffic regulations.

COMETS PLAY CRONINS.

The Comet Peewees, victors in six of their first seven starts, will play the Joe Cronin Peewees tomorrow. Games have also been scheduled with the Colonials, Brightwood Cubs and the Hornets.

CHALLENGE VICTORY POST.

With a record of 14 straight victories behind it the Joe Cronin Nine has challenged the Victory Post Midgets. Other interested teams should call Manager Clark at Lincoln 6085-W.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUPREME SWEET, $5.16, $3.76, $3.28; FRENCH LASS, $12.16, $8.40; BROOMSHOT, $10.86.

SUPREME SWEET, away well and saving ground on inside, gradually disposed of BROOMSHOT in first half mile and, continuing strongly, won with speed in reserve. FRENCH LASS, always a keen factor, loomed up dangerously, but was not good enough and was tiring last fifty yards. BROOMSHOT raced on outside of winner first half mile, held on well in the drive and outfinished LADY FINGERS. Latter lost much ground first part of it and could not reach a contending position. PRETTY POSE raced well up most of the journey and had no excuse.

SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Oakdale. For 2-year-olds, maidens, fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:28. Off at 2:32½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—IN HASTE, $7.30, $5.04, $3.78; SURLY, $10.08, $5.30; HELEN, $7.76.

IN HASTE raced as if much the best, held ground at first turn and, taking command, easily drew out decisively. SURLY was badly kicked by WEIDELEEN at post, closed a good gap through stretch. HELEN worked way up fast through stretch on outside in best footing and finished resolutely under strong riding. WEIDELEEN could not improve position after suffering interference on the stretch turn. BEAUTY BELLE was forced out of contention soon after start.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:57½. Off at 2:58½. Winner, B. O. Hickman's b. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MYTH, $15.46, $6.82, $3.86; KENTUCKY ACE, $9.12, $4.46; HERENDEEN, $3.10.

MYTH, well up under steadying restraint, slipped through on reaching stretch and, responding gamely, assumed the lead and was drawing clear at last sixteenth. KENTUCKY ACE was much used up in early stages while setting the pace and, when seemingly done for, came again near the end to outfinish HERENDEEN. Latter was allowed to race far out of it and, losing ground on back stretch, closed strongly when hard urged through stretch. CHATTERBLACK weakened badly after taking the lead at the head of the stretch.

FOURTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds, fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:28. Off at 3:32. Winner, C. Van Dusen's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISS CHILLA, $5.14, $3.44, $2.84; REVERBERATE, $4.12, $3.40; OUR MAN, $7.92.

MISS CHILLA was hustled to the front immediately after start, held on stubborn pace when captured by REVERBERATE and outfinished latter lot long, hard drive. McCrossen struck Jones with whip several times when about a sixteenth out. REVERBERATE worked his way up slowly on outside at head of stretch, was carried a trifle wide by winner all through the stretch and just failed to get up. OUR NAN broke slowly, but was rushed into contention when reaching main stretch and, although continuing strongly, could not threaten leaders. NAUGHTY SALLIE suffered from early interference.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $2,000; allowances. The Greenwood. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:58. Off at 3:58½. Winner, R. S. CURRENT, displaying a high order of early foot, gradually raced ALL UPSET into defeat and, responding gamely on the turn when urged, easily drew out. MARTIE FLYNN was well up from start, closed gamely on inside through stretch, but could not menace winner. MIKE HALL, outrun first half mile, moved up determinedly on the stretch turn, but failed to gain any ground thereafter. TORO was forced back when in close quarters on back stretch, then closed stoutly when clear through stretch. REIGH OLGA raced wide most of trip. ALL UPSET quit after reaching far turn.

SIXTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,700; allowances. The Beechmont. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won eased up; place, driving. Went to post at 4:27. Off at 4:28. Winner, J. PRINCE ATHELING was reserved behind PATRICIA ANN until reaching far turn and responded gamely when ready; easily disposed of latter to draw out and win in ridden out manner. PATRICIA ANN, under pressure while setting the early pace, held on courageously when challenged and, although tiring, would have been a more formidable factor but for suffering interference from winner an eighth out. JEAN LAFITTE worked way up on inside on back stretch, came with a good burst of speed through stretch, but could not get to leaders.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:54. Off at 4:56. Winner, C. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROLLING SEA, $5.18, $3.36, $3.48; ROYAL YEOMAN, $3.56, $3.60; JOVIAL FRIAR, $10.60.

ROLLING SEA was hustled into contention rounding far turn, soon disposed of JOVIAL FRIAR when shaken up and, drawing out on the turn, was going strongly at the wind-up. ROYAL YOEMAN, a factor from the start and saving ground to the end, moved up menacingly on outside and, although closing a good gap through stretch, could not seriously threaten winner. JOVIAL FRIAR saved ground on inside and held on fairly well. WOOD AXTON was pinched back on far turn and could not reach a contending position. LORD CONCORD was also forced out of contention, but closed strongly when clear through stretch.

STEVINSON, PITT AMONG 4 CHEVY CHASE SURVIVORS

1929 Titlist To Oppose Youngs

Latter, Formerly of Princeton, Eliminates Peacock.

Eynon, of Columbia, 4th Semifinalist, Faces Stevinson.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

IN the semifinal round of the Chevy Chase Club invitation golf tournament, which will be played this morning, the contestants are Harry G. Pitt, of Manor Club, paired against W. P. Youngs, Princeton, N. J., in the upper bracket, and Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia, District amateur champion, vs. Everett Eynon, one of the younger members of the Columbia Club, in the lower half.

If Pitt should win his morning match and be victorious in the final round this afternoon he will become the permanent possessor of the president's trophy, which must be won three times in succession.

Pitt reached the semifinal round without a serious struggle. He defeated C. Ashmead Fuller, the Chevy Chase Club champion, in the morning round, 3 and 2, and in the afternoon, playing eight consecutive holes in absolutely par figures, had no difficulty in disposing of Alex Cole, of Philadelphia Country Club, 4 and 3.

Young Shoots 74 to Eliminate Peacock.

Pitt's opponent this morning, W. P. Youngs, was a star on the Princeton Golf Team, and since his graduation from the university two years ago has been in the aviation service and is now stationed at Quantico. He is a golfer of no mean ability, having played the course yesterday morning in 74 to defeat Roger Peacock, Indian Spring, and the District junior champion.

Stevinson did not reach the second round without a struggle, for, although he was never down in the morning round to Fred Hoblitzell, Toronto, who tied for the medal in the qualification round, he only won on the final hole when, being 1 up on the eighteenth tee, he secured a half on the eighteenth green.

In the afternoon, to reach the semifinals, he had a walk-away against R. P. avidson, Chevy Chase, for he was out in 34, one under par, and was only one under par at the thirteenth green when the match ended. It is quite possible—although any one is foolish to predict the outcome of a golf tournament—that this afternoon Stevinson and Pitt will be paired against each other, as they were a year ago, when Pitt won.

English Beats Jones in 25-Hole Thriller.

While there were several extended struggles yesterday, no less than five being decided on the nineteenth hole, the banner contest of the day was played between B. R. English, Indian Spring, and William W. Jones, Congressional, which went to the twenty-fifth hole. At the fourteenth hole English, who was playing in the fourth sixteen, was three down and five to play and seemed destined to ultimate defeat. However, when he had won the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth holes, the match was squared.

20 Youthful Nines Start City League Season Today

TWENTY young baseball teams will swing into action tomorrow in quest of Capital City League championships and the trophies awarded by The Washington Post each season to the title winners in the various divisions. Battling tomorrow will be confined to the Insect and recently revived Peewee class teams.

All diamond and umpire assignments have been made. Most of the hostilities will start at 11 o'clock, with the remaining games scheduled at 1 and 3 o'clock. The record entry list in the insect division necessitated the division of the clubs into two sections.

Walter Newman's Corinthians and the Wonder Boys will inaugurate play among the section A insect teams when they meet on South Ellipse diamond at 11 o'clock. The Spud Coleman and Eagle Nines will clash on East Ellipse diamond at 1 o'clock, and the Lionel and Burroughs A. C. Teams will play on No. 1 diamond at 3 o'clock in other section A tilts.

He hopes to get back in uniform before many more weeks.

A letter received today by George Kircher, varsity baseball coach at V. P. I., from Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Windy City club, asked that Tomko report to club headquarters there June 19, a week after the college session closes.

GUILFORD 12-0 VICTIM OF MARINES

Almand Scatters Five Hits; Winners Bat Around in 2d.

Special to The Washington Post.

QUANTICO, Va., May 15.—Guilford College failed to score off three pitchers here today as the All-Marine Baseball Team chalked up its eighteenth victory of the season by a score of 12 to 0.

Almand, who started on the mound for the Marines, was nicked for only five scattered hits. While he struck out five opposing batters, in addition to pitching a great game of baseball Almand with his two hits drove in five runs. His first hit of the game was a home run in the second inning with the bases filled.

In the second inning the Sea Soldiers scored seven times, thirteen men batting. Cy Young, Marine left fielder, was the victim of a unique circumstance. He was the first batter in the second inning and was hit by a pitched ball. On his second appearance at the plate and in the same inning he was again hit by a pitched ball.

Five Hits in Big Inning.

Five hits, two Guilford errors, two hit batsmen and two bases on balls accounted for the seven-run splurge made by the Marines in the second inning. Sullivan, Marine third sacker, singled twice in this inning, which came to a climax when Almand hit his home run with the bases filled.

Shore, Guilford center fielder, played a sterling game in the center garden, robbing Billingsley of a possible home run in the sixth inning. Zachary was the outstanding Guilford batsman, while Sullivan was the leading hitter for the Marines with three hits. The All-Marine Team will play Washington College here tomorrow afternoon.

D. C. NETMEN TRIUMPH AT RICHMOND

Special to The Washington Post.

ICHMOND Va., May 15.—Followed by a number of lesser lights, Emmet Pare, of Dayton and Herb Bowman, of New York, led the march to the Finals of the Old Dominion today. Pare, formerly of Georgetown, dropped one game during the days play and that to Alex Keiles, a crack Baltimore netman.

Bowman ran into difficulties in his first round match against Eddie Yeomans, of Washington, D. C., a student of the University of North Carolina whose play has improved considerably of late. Yeomans was off to an early start in the first set, leading 2-0 and being within a point of 3-1, but Bowman struck his best form and raced out the set to the tune of 6-3. Yeomans was little perturbed by this as he piled up a 5-2 lead in his favor in the second set.

Yeomans Takes Second Set at 7—9.

The scattered galleries heard that an upset was in sight and crowded around the Bawman-Yeomans cocrt. oBwman evened matters by playing the best tennis of the day, but Yeomans was not to be denied and by forcing tre New Yorker to volley, nosed him out at 7-9. Thoroughly aroused oBwman raced through the last set aided by Yeomans' semi-carelessness.

Bob Considine, of Washington, D. C., one of the seeded singles players, was defaulted when he put in an appearance one day late but paired with Herb Bowman rested in the third round at the close of the days play by dint of a victory over Cliff Miller and Jack Sherer, of Richmond. H. M. Birch and Fred Dodge, also of Washington, were amongg the survivors in the doubles.

The finals in all events will be played Saturday. The results:

G. W.-C. U. TENNIS OFF.

The tenis match scheduled for today between Catholic and George Washington Universities has been canceled due to poor court conditions.

COLUMBIANS TO MEET.

The Columbian Insect players will meet tomorrow at 11 o'clock at St. Paul's School. The Columbians meet Georgetown tomorrow on No. 9 diamond at 1 o'clock in a Capital City League opening game.

VICTORY NINE PLAYS.

Victory Post baseball players will meet Sunday at 10 o'clock at the home of Manager Kleidienst to go to Alexandria to engage the Knight's Midgets at 11 o'clock on Hayden Field.

Mt. Rainier A. C. Nine Is Revamped for Race

Manager Mosedale, of the Mount Rainier A. C., will put a revamped team on the field Sunday in the opening game with the Hyattsville All-Stars at Mount Rainier when these teams start play in the Prince Georges County section of the Capital City League. Sammy Hook, Quigley, Grant Smith, Waple, Purdum, Guy Bell and Johnny Wanley are the latest additions to the team. Mount Rainier players will drill tomorrow at 4 o'clock.

CLARKSBURG SCORES.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 15.—Clarksburg took the odd game of the series from the Colts by the score of 4 to 1 here this afternoon, effective chucking by Lefty Shatzer and a three-run splurge in the third inning turning the trick.

A spectacular catch by the former major leaguer, "Greasy" Neale, staved off two Colt tallies in the third inning. Neale backed up against the left field scoreboard to gather in Durning's triple.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL DECLINES

Business Seeks Third Win Against Tech Nine Today.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, JR.

IF America's greatest sport depended upon the Washington High School baseball games of 1930 for the continuance of its popularity, it would be safe to say that the diamond game is on its last legs. If baseball considered itself even half way exemplified by the type of ball that every game has produced, it would probably rejoice in dying a natural death.

For with the exception of the first game of the series, which ended in an 8-4 score, not one encounter has had a result not on the order of a farce, with 26 runs being the lowest number of runners to cross the plate on an afternoon since the April 30 game. The way players have been allowed to cross the counting block in droves has resembled a track meet and has just about killed any interest of "Joe Pan" in the series.

Coaches Fail to Shift Pitchers.

Perhaps the most important reason for the high scoring to date has been the reluctance of the various coaches to withdraw their pitchers even when giving signs of rapidly weakening. In every instance, the starting pitchers have been left in the game until the damage has been done, and when a team has started to hit a certain hurler, it has continued to enjoy its party. Eastern must have thanked the Central coaches the other day when one lone alabman was left in the box to absorb 21 hits and as many runs in the entire nine innings.

In its attempt to prevent a slaughter, the fielding team has, in most every instance, presented rather than prevented a direct means of allowing the score to mount. Inexperienced players, excited at the sight of seeing alien runners on the paths, have thrown to all corners of the lot in an effort to get their man before he reached the home plate, with the result, that by the time the ball is halted long enough to find out just what's what, three or four runs have usually crossed the pan. Bring about this condition four or five times during an afternoon and there are your twenty runs.

Scoreboard Sorely Needed.

And yet, when the need of a scoreboard has been repeatedly illustrated during these double-figure affairs, incapable of being remembered, it was not until yesterday that a definite group was criticized for its nonappearance. An interested party yesterday stated that, in his opinion, it was the duty of the high school principals to see that a scoreboard was erected and accurately kept for the remainder of the series and expressed confidence that if the principals were acquainted with the lack of this necessity, it would not be long before a "counting instrument" would appear. And what a relief it would be to know that "Whoozis" is only leading by ten runs instead of eleven!

With a chance of meeting Eastern High's three-time champions on even terms next week should his Business team score over Tech's luckless nine in the stadium this afternoon, Coach Lynn Woodworth, of the Stenogs, will take plenty of care in selecting the right man for the most important job on the field today.

Woodworth admitted last night that no less than four of his charges are under consideration for the pitcher's box today and that he will watch Garner, Singman, Chase and Silverman all warm up just before the game before announcing his selection. Having seen three pitchers pounded out of the box in his first two games, Coach Mal Edwards, of Tech, will entrust the hurling duty to another man, Gordon Batson, today. The bespectacled hurler is small but can't be any worse than Tech's mound staff has shown so far.

Incidentally, it is planned to move the Business-Eastern game, scheduled for next Friday to the following day, inasmuch as the interhigh track meet is scheduled to take place a week from today.

G. U. Baseball, Track Teams to Face Navy

For the third time during the current academic year, Georgetown University athletes will invade Annapolis tomorrow to do battle with their traditional rivals, the embryonic admirals of the Naval Academy. Last fall the football tea mvisited the banks of the Severn and fought the Navy Eleven to a scoreless tie, while during the winter the basket ball team made the journey to meet a heart-breaking defeat.

Tomorrow the baseball and track teams will try to succeed where the gridmen and basketers failed. The baseball team appears to have a fine chance of winning, but the track team, minus its star sprinter, Karl Wildermuth, and numerically weak in experienced talent, faces gloomy prospects.

STOCK PRICES DROP IN QUIET TURNOVER

DULL PERIOD FORECAST

New York, May 15 (A.P.).—Speculative sentiment reversed itself in the stock market today and prices sold off during most of an extremely apathetic session. Total sales dropped to 2,675,470 shares, about 25,000 below Tuesday's volume, which had been the smallest since late February.

The list was routed from its rut in the final hour when a bear group launched a vigorous drive on leading issues, but the movement was almost entirely in the hands of the bored floor traders, who just before the closing gong bought back the stocks they had sold, thereby reducing net losses to 1 to 4 points in the most active shares.

Opinion in brokerage circles is that a period of dullness will do the market no harm, and some brokers believe that a rather extended interval of such character is at hand. A few weeks of comparative quiet, with profesional flurries up and down, it is pointed out, would serve to strengthen confidence and would lay the groundwork for a recovery coincident with an upturn in business.

Conservative Stand Advocated.

Numerous commission houses were reported to have done little business with the public today. Their advices to clients continued to advocate a conservative position in what appeared to be almost entirely a trading market.

From a news standpoint, it was a dull day. American Locomotive announced its expected reduction in the annual dividend rate to $4 from $8, but the stock was prepared for the news and yielded less than a point. Standard Oil of New Jersey likewise had discounted its 1929 earnings statement. There was good buying in Columbia Gas & Electric on further reports of an offer from United Corporation. This offer, made public after the close, revealed that the Morgan-Bonbright Holding Co. would give one-third of a share of its preference stock and 1½ shares of common for each Columbia share, with the total acquisition limited to a 25 per cent interest in the utility.

As a group, the utilities met considerable profit taking from yesterday's higher levels, although part of the loss was accounted for by the late bear selling. American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, United Corporation, Standard Gas & Electric, Pacific Lighting and a few other prominent shares declined 1 to 3 points.

Auburn Loses 21½ Points.

Auburn Auto was hard hit, tumbling 27½ points to 158, a new 1930 low and more than 100 points below its high for the year. It recovered to 164 for a net loss of 21½. J. I. Case was hammered down 19, finishing 6 points above the bottom. Vanadium afforded the bears a vlunerable target in the last half hour and sold off 6 points before it was supported by covering.

Western Pacific common and preferred mounted 4 points each on buying attributed to the Van Sweringen interest, who were said to be seeking control of that road so as to provide a through line from St. Louis to the Coast. St. Louis Southwestern was also strong, rising nearly 5 points net.

The weekly brokers' loan statement disclosed a decline of $67,000,000 to a total of $4,007,000,000. Loans for out-of-town banks dropped $54,000,000 and loans for the account of others $21,000,000, but there was a rise of $8,000,000 in loans for New York banks' own account.

Federal Reserve Report.

Further evidence of the slow demand for credit was revealed in the Federal Reserve report. The statement for the system showed a drop of about $31,000,000 in bills and securities and of $27,000,000 in discounts. The New York bank's bill and securities total declined $43,000,000 and discounts $27,000,000 and Government security holdings $15,600,000.

Commodity prices were firmer. Wheat gained about a cent, and corn rallied three-eighths, while sugar, after making a new low, developed a steadier tone. Cotton was quiet, closing slightly higher on the new crop months.

Foreign exchanges moved irregularly. Sterling cables strengthened slightly on the indications of a firmer money policy suggested by the weekly Bank of England statement.

BONDS IRREGULAR AS TURNOVER SAGS

Convertibles Prove Active; American Phone 4½s Slump 3 Points.

UTILITIES FAIRLY FIRM

New York, May 15 (A.P.).—Drifting rather aimlessly through a dull trading session, the listed bond market turned irregularly downward at the close today.

Considerable profit taking and the competition of many attractive new offerings overcame the strength of many railroad issues and a large section of the convertible group. Stock privilege issues yielded the most ground, ranging from three points to a fraction lower, while the losses among the investment group were confined to small fractions.

United States Governments, foreign bonds and the utility group were the brightest spots in the market, and were generally firm. Sales were $2,000,000 under yesterday, totaling $8,134,000.

Convertible bonds turned over in fairly large blocks. American Telephone 4½s lost 3 points and Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron 6s and International Telephone 4½s sagged more than a point each. Some issues, such as New Haven 6s, Chicago & North Western 4¾s, General Theaters 6s of 1940, and Alleghany Corporation 5s showed firmness.

Trading in rail issues showed the sluggishness of the market, for both prime and secondary issues moved uncertainly. The heaviest demand was for Pennsylvania 4½s and Erie Improvement 5s. Both turned downward by substantial fractions joined by Missouri Pacific 5s, Pere Marquette 4½s, Canadian National 4½s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, St. Paul 4s and Boston & Maine 5s. On the upward trend were Delaware & Hudson 4s, Denver & Rio Grande 4s and 5s, Erie 4s, New York Central 5s, and several Southern Pacific issues.

Utilities showed good strength, although they were not particularly active. American Telephone 5s, and Laclede Gas & Electric 5½s led the advance.

Oils were traded extensively, and in common with the rest of the industrial group were irregular. Shell Union warrant 5½s yielded ½ a point on heavy sales, but Phillips 5½s, Sinclair Crude 5½s, were firm. Among the amusement bonds, Paramount Famous Lasky 6s and Loews 6s ex-rights were firm. Loews 6s with warrants fell off more than a point.

Foreign bonds maintained their firm position in a quiet market. Japanese government bonds moved ahead as another large block of the new 5½s was absorbed.

United States Governments showed uniform firmness and moved upward on small sales.

ACACIA'S PRESIDENT WILL VISIT OFFICES

Montgomery, in Circuit Trip of U. S., Will Inspect Concern's Branches.

TO ATTEND COAST EVENT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

William Montgomery, president of the Acacia Mutual Life Association, is leaving this week-end on a circuit trip of the United States, undertaken for the purpose of inspecting branch offices, attending important organization meetings and contacting personally with large numbers of the field force.

Mr. Montgomery's ultimate objective is the Pacific Coast, which he will reach from Washington by the Southern route. It is his plan to move southward from the National Capital, stopping at many of the branches located below the Potomac, including Atlanta, Birmingham, Mobile, New Orleans and others. He then will travel westward and will call at every branch on the Pacific Coast, among them San Diego, Los Angeles, Fresno, San Jose, Oakland, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle.

One of the principal reasons Mr. Montgomery is making the trip is to attend the meeting of the field advisory committee of the association, which will be held at Los Angeles the first week of June. This committee consists of three branch managers who have attained outstanding leadership in their several classifications, and two home office officials. The committee is an Acacia innovation which, it is stated, has proved eminently successful.

Trip to Be of Two Months.

While in the field, Mr. Montgomery not only will inspect the branches in all details but is also planning a survey of the mortgage loans made by the association in Western territory. It is probable that his entire trip will consume more than two months.

Mr. Montgomery plans to return to Washington by the northern route, with Chicago at least one stop on the way. That there will be others, however, is fairly certain. It has been the Acacia chief executive's intention to visit each one of the organization's branches during 1930, and the present trip will go far toward enabling him to realize that goal.

The part played by advertising in international trade will be the topic of discussion at a luncheon conference to be held on May 20 at the Willard Hotel in conjunction with the convention of the Advertising Federation of America. Among those who have accepted invitations to attend are Ambassador von Prittwitz of Germany, Ambassador Davilla of Chile, S. H. Payne, Assistant Secretary of War; Dr. Julius Klein, United States Department of Commerce; William D. Earls, director of advertising, United States Rubber Co., and Allen H. Seed, jr., vice president and general manager Jordan Advertising Abroad, Inc.

Invitation Is Issued.

C. King Woodbridge, who will preside at the conference, is issuing an invitation to all those interested in export trade.

President Robert N. Harper, District National Bank, is the guest of Col. Ernest Chilson at the Black Night Country Club at Raleigh, W. Va.

John B. Elliott, former Washington newspaperman and now vice president and treasurer of the Jameson Petroleum Co., Los Angeles, is a visitor in the local financial district this week.

Willis K. Clark, president of the stock exchange of Portland, Oreg., was in the city today after attending the Investment Bankers Association board of governors' meeting at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Berry Crop Aided By General Rains

Nearby Orchards Are Hurt by Recent Severe Dry Period.

Fairly general rains of the last few days have afforded relief over most of the Eastern producing sections from one of the most severe droughts on record, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported yesterday. The berry crop in New Jersey and on the eastern shore of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia was suffering from the lack of rainfall.

Cabbage from eastern Maryland will be on the markets about June 1, the crop being reported generally in good condition. The situation was reported much better for old potatoes this season than last. Commercial cold storage holdings of apples were reported only 3 per cent greater than those of a year ago. The mid-month report on fruit conditions shows scattered injury in Virginia orchards with the extent of damage not yet determined. The same situation exists in West Virginia and Maryland.

Potato acreage in the nine second-early States from Maryland and New Jersey to Oklahoma and Kansas is placed at more than 99,000, compared with 94,000 of last year. Production of spinach in New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Missouri, Arkansas and Washington is forecast at 3,450,000 bushels.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Allis Chalmers and Two Others.

N. A. R.—What are the earnings and prospects of the following three stocks: Allis Chalmers, American Locomotive, United States Realty? I am considering them from the point of view of speculative investments.

Answer—Allis Chalmers, paying $3 annually in dividends, earned for the quarter ended March 31, 1930, net income equal to 93 cents a share, compared with 89 cents (after 4-for-1 stock split) for corresponding 1929 quarter. This represents a gain of about 16 per cent. Annual earnings have shown unusual stability, with general trend upward since recession in 1921 and 1922. Common dividends have been maintained since 1920, present amount being raised with payment of 75 cents quarterly on February 15, 1930. Stock looks fairly attractive.

American Locomotive, paying $8 annually on common, earned for that issue in 1929 $5.40 per share. Recently stated directors, at meeting May 15, 1930, would consider a reduction in present $8 yearly rate, but that it was likely any cut would be deferred until August meeting. On this account, stock is less attractive than heretofore.

United States Realty has changed its fiscal year to the calendar year. Net income for eight months to December 31, 1929, equaled $3.48 a share, compared with $3.39 per share on the smaller capitalization for corresponding months of previous year. For last fiscal year, to April 30, 1929, earnings for common were $7.73 a share, or a substantial margin over dividend requirements of $5 per share. Company steadily expanding and has seemingly bright outlook. Stock very well thought of.

Moon; Remington.

J. B. F.—I would like an opinion on Moon Motor and Remington Arms. How are they regarded?

Answer—Moon Motor earnings have been unsatisfactory for months. Nothing is paid on the stock which relegates it to the limbo of poor speculations. The stock should be ignored if you desire to employ your funds wisely.

Remington Arms has considerably more merit. This company was originally established more than a hundred years ago and is the leader in the ammunition field. In addition to turning out ammunition, the price of which was raised recently, the company is a big factor in the manufacture of cutlery and cash registers, ranking as the second largest in the latter field. With the exception of 1928, earnings have been rising since 1925. The stock has considerable attraction for the long pull in view of its diversified business.

Miller Train Control Corp.

Mrs. B. S. G.—Can you give me any information concerning the Miller Train Control Corporation, that is, anything about the price of the stock or the possibilities of future business? Is there any market for Automatic Guns, Inc.?

Answer — Information concerning Miller Train Control Corporation is extremely meager. Latest announcement is that company had received inquiries concerning its flexible automatic traffic control system, Trafilator, from London, England, South America and Australia. A previous announcement was to the effect that first ten trial installations of the Trafilator system, designed by company, had been approved at expiration of various trial periods and payment ordered by various municipal authorities. Notwithstanding this, the stock, dealt in over-the-counter and currently quoted nominally at $4 bid, offered at $6, is regarded as nothing more nor less than a sheer gamble. No quotation available for Automatic Guns, Inc.

Has $5,000 in Bank.

B. G. D.—I have $5,000 in the bank, part of which I would like to invest in Cities Service common stock, providing your opinion of it is favorable.

Answer—You have the right idea. Invest at least half of your savings in Cities Service; the remaining half should be left in the bank for an emergency. At the present price of around 37 the yield is about 9 per cent, considering the 30-cent annual cash dividend and 6 per cent stock dividend.

Earnings are now on the upgrade, those for the 12 months ended with March setting a new high record, being 41 per cent over the preceding 12 months, while for March they were 64 per cent over March, 1929. Profits for the 12-month period were equivalent to $1.31 per share of common, as against $1.14 for the preceding similar period. The stock appears to have considerable merit for long-term holding.

American Reinsurance; Penn Dixie.

K. B. C.—I have been advised to invest either in American Reinsurance or Penn Dixie Cement. Which of the two do you advise investnng in?

Answer—There is only one stock you can "invest" in and that is American Reinsurance, because it pays dividends of $3 per year. Penn Dixie Cement, on the other hand, pays no dividend and can not be regarded as an investment.

Penn Dixie Cement is a rank speculation and should be disregarded if you desire an income on your invested capital. American Reinsurance operates in 21 States and is engaged in writing excess reinsurance, along with miscellaneous lines, including automobile liability, property damage, burglary, theft, fidelity, surety, accident, health and workmen's compensation. Earnings have shown a steady increase for the five years, 1925 to 1929, inclusive. The stock may be described as a speculative investment, with some attraction for the long pull.

Eastern Utilities Investing.

C. S.—I desire some information on Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation, and an opinion of this stock.

Answer.—Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation is a conservative holding organization and is not an investment trust. It plays no part in the management of companies, but merely invests its funds in public utility and allied dividend-paying securities. Its sponsorship is high-grade, comprising several big banking firms. The company now holds investments aggregating $80,000,000, on which it receives an income.

Anything earned above 4.65 per cent on the investment account goes to the class "A" and class "B" stockholders, but the class "A" stock is entitled to a $1 priority dividend before the class "B" stock participates in earnings. For 1929, profits available for the class "A" stock were equal to $2.28 per share, which has led to the assumption that the way may be cleared for dividends this year. The "A" stock, while at present in the catagory of speculation, holds considerable promise in view of the bright future facing the public utility companies of the country.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 15 (A.P.).—Suggestions of possibly the largest export business in breadstuffs this summer that has been witnessed for years had a stimulating effect on wheat prices today. Attention of traders focused on announcement that the amount of wheat on ocean passage to Europe is down to the smallest total in nearly a quarter century, with shipments from Argentina in particular reduced to an extent seldom equaled. Export buying of North American wheat today was estimated at 1,000,000 bushels.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¾ to 1¼ cents a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅛ to ½ up, oats ¼ to ⅝c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents down.

Almost from the very outset today, wheat values here showed themselves responsive to news that Argentine wheat exports for last week were down 800,000 bushels compared with 2,465,000 bushels the week previous and 6,376,000 bushels for this time last year. Besides, there were indications of buying here in connection with sales, and the Liverpool market was shown to be under a parity with exporting countries. Notice was also taken that high prices ruling for native wheat in continental European countries appeared to be indicative of dwindling supplies. May delivery of wheat being quoted in Berlin today at $1.90 a bushel.

Under such circumstances, predictions were made here from influential sources that stocks of breadstuffs overseas will be practically exhausted by the time the 1930 wheat crop in the United States is available. It was also shown that the world supply of wheat had been reduced 46,843,000 bushels in April compared with 32,891,000 bushels decrease during March, and that the reduction was chiefly in the United States and Canada. There were also continued reports that the Kansas crop outlook is poor in important areas, with stands thin and with heads and straw short. Persistent Canadian advices were also at hand emphasizing lack of any appreciable reserve of moisture.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength, and also reflected Nebraska and northwestern Iowa reports that corn planting has been delayed.

Provisions were easier, influenced by downturns in hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 1.03¼@1.03¾, 1.05¼@1.05¾; September, 1.06@1.06¼, 1.07⅛@1.08; December, 1.10⅝@1.10¾, 1.12@1.12⅜. Corn—July, 78½@80⅜; September, 80½@81½; December, 74¾, 75⅝@75¾.

Cash grain: No. 3 red, 1.06¾; No. 1 hard, smutty, 1.01½.

CORN—No. 1 mixed, 81½; No. 1 yellow, 81½.

OATS—No. 2 white, 43¾@44¼; No. 3 white, 40@42.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 8 points, the more active positions selling about 3 to 8 points net higher during the early trading in response to the relatively firm Liverpool cables. NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON GRANTS LAND FOR HIGHWAY

STATE READY FOR WORK

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Removing one of the final obstacles Boulevard, the County Board of Supervisors after a spirited meeting today granted the National Boulevard Association as promoters of the project the remaining two acres in a six-acre tract purchased originally as a county property yard.

The action culminated efforts made by William S. Hoge, jr., and Dr. Samuel M. Johnson, officials of the association during the last four years, to obtain the property, located near the courthouse, where the county had planned to keep its like stock and movable property.

Granting of the final two acres follows by a month action of the board of supervisors in giving the association approximately four acres in the same strip for construction through the tract of the proposed 200-foot boulevard, which begins at the new Memorial Bridge.

Gift of the remaining two acres was made conditional upon inauguration of construction within the ensuing six months. Motion to present the property was made by Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, and received the support of all members of the board.

Dr. Johnson stated that there is but a portion of $30,000 to raise to match the $30,000 which the State Highway Department has agreed to give to purchase rights of way. The support of the board of supervisors will mean that the land values in the county will more than double in value.

The State is ready to start work, and he felt confident that bids will be called for within the next two months, for grading and clearing, he said.

Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth came to Dr. Johnson's rescue when he stated that the State Highway Department has been most liberal to Arlington County, and answered the complaint of Supervisor E. C. Turnburke, that the State has failed to widen the Lee Highway to Falls Church as first agreed. He said the funds were used to widen and resurface the Glebe road, and that in due time the State will extend the widening of the Lee highway to Falls Church.

While Supervisor Turnburke still held out, refusing to support Mr. Hedrick's motion, the climax came when he asked Dr. Johnson if he would agree to assist him in having the State widen the Lee highway. Dr. Johnson rushed toward Mr. Turnburke, took his hand, and pledged his support. Mr. Turnburke then supported the motion as did Chairman Edward Duncan.

Recognizing the need of a public utilities commission to study electric light, gas and telephone rates and to report its finding to the county board of supervisors, the board adopted a resolution offered by the Arlington District Council of Citizens Associations calling for creation of such a body. The resolution was presented by Supervisor B. M. Hedrick. Upon Mr. Hedrick's recommendation, the following persons were appointed to serve without compensation:

Frank Lyon, chairman; Frank G. Campbell, H. W. Beattie, C. I. Kephart and James W. Head.

Expressing the opinion that the findings of the census for 1930 for Arlington County as reported by William E. Trusler supervisor for this district, is far below the actual population, the clerk was instructed to write Mr. Trusler and ask that the matter be given his attention.

It will be pointed out in the letter, according to William H. Duncan, clerk, that in the opinion of the board the population in the subdivisions of Virginia Highlands and Aurora Hills alone is 2,774, the figure given for the entire area of Jefferson District.

E. J. Skidmore, chairman of the Welfare Board of Arlington County, stated that the directors of the welfare board have found that it is not necessary for the board of supervisors at this time to appoint an assistant to Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, who is superintendent of welfare for Arlington County.

A petition from the Lyon Village Citizens Association was presented by W. D. Medley, chairman of the sidewalk committee, asking that something be done to improve the courthouse road and Virginia avenue, both of which were used as detours during the construction of the Wilson boulevard. The matter was referred to County Engineer C. L. Kinnier.

The Arlington County Monarch Club unanimously indorsed the proposed $640,000 bond issue for schools at a meeting held at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse yesterday.

County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp, in discussing the bond issue, said that the per capita cost in Arlington County is $51.80 as compared with $72 in Montgomery County, Md., and in excess of $100 in the District of Columbia. The average cost per pupil in the entire United States is $89.

Stating that he had been asked by many what portion of the bond issue would go to the county treasurer for disbursing funds, he replied, that the treasurer received no fee for spending funds from bond issues, as the result of an act passed by the last General Assembly.

He stated further that the county will save through the fact that the State architect is furnishing all plans and specifications for additions to the buildings as outlined in the petition. While the State is furnishing all plans and will from time to time inspect the buildings, the State will designate an inspector whose salary will come out of the bond issue.

He explained that $225,000 of the bond issue will be used to refund short time loans. Since coming to the county more than thirteen years ago, Mr. Kemp stated that he has reduced the school debt from $450,000 to $225,000.

Explaining how the bond issue will be repaid he stated that 15 of the 30 cents which has been used to reduce the debt will be sufficient to provide for a sinking fund and pay the interest on the bond issue. The remaining 15 cents will be used to take care of the salaries of the increased number of teachers that will be needed.

M. Bergman, who was in county police court to answer a charge of violation of the new county zoning ordinance in that he was using his property, fronting on the Wilson boulevard, to store a quantity of building material, was given 30 days by Judge Harry R. Thomas, in which to move the material.

This is the first charge of this character, and, as explained by Robert H. Forman, administrative officer for the board of supervisors in connection with zoning, the property in question is within the commercial area but no provision for the use of the land for storage purposes is provided.

Owing to the storm of yesterday afternoon the May Day celebration to have been given by the children of the James Monroe School has been postponed until next Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp is announced as the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association, which will be held at the schoolhouse tonight at 8 o'clock. Superintendent Kemp will discuss the proposed $640,000 school bond issue to be voted upon in Arlington County Monday, June 9.

By a vote of twenty to 3, the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, at its quarterly meeting, held last night at Clarendon, indorsed the proposed bond issue of $2,173,089 for installation of a modern trunk line sewerage system.

County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, explaining the program as laid out by the County Board of Supervisors, said that in addition to a 30 cent levy on the $100 assessed valuation of real estate, that there will be a service charge of $10 per year. The life of the bonds would be about 34 years. Th echarge for laying of lateral lines, he explained, would be on the basis of $1.50 per foot, this charge being paid by property owners on each side of the street.

As to the plans for carrying on the installation of the system, Mr. Kinnier stated that it is proposed to expend during the first year $750,000, the second year a like amount and the third year the remaining $673,089. Of the total amount of the issue, there will be set aside $250,000 as a revolving fund to assist in the installation of the lateral lines.

The main trunk lines will be of sufficiant size to take care of a population of 113,000, the estimated population of Arlington county by 1960.

Discussing the question property owners who have already paid for a sewerage system, Mr. Kinnier explained that the county will inspect all such systems, and will take them over, credit the property owner with their present value and make a reassessment for the frontage.

On passage of the bond issue, Mr. Kinnier said he would recommend a special ordinance making it mandatory for property owners to connect with the system within a reasonable time, which he said he considered 90 days.

President Ashton C. Jones declared that with the passage of the sewerage bond issue assessed valuations in Arlington County will increase between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000

The industrial survey made by engineers from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, points out that there are certain areas adapted to industrial development in the county and the chamber went on record as favoring such development where properly located. This action was taken following a report read by vice president Henry C. Morris, who pointed out the many features of the report as submitted by the engineers.

BAKER CASE TURNS TO CABIN JOHN MAN

SUICIDE CHECK-UP MADE

Authorities searching for the slayer of Mary Baker early yesterday received a report that a man had been seen acting suspiciously for several days in the woody sections near Cabin John, Md.

Residents of the vicinity of Cabin John notified the Fourteenth Precinct of their suspicions. The information was then turned over to Lieut. Edward J. Kelly. A search of the region was made yesterday, but no trace of the man could be found.

The names of the informers are being withheld by police. Reports that were made to police carried the meager information that the man was about 35 years old and had lurked near the woods for several days.

New York and Atlanta police were yesterday checking on the activities of Frank McDonough, of New York City, prior to Sunday when he hanged himself in Atlanta. Police are anxious to learn of his whereabouts on April 11, the day on which Mary Baker was murdered.

Inspector William S. Shelby had not received any word late yesterday from either of the cities. The desired information is not expected for a few days. In the meanwhile an attempt will be made to obtain pictures of the suicide from relatives in New York City.

The cautiousness of McDonough in removing all identification marks from his clothing before taking his life has prompted inquiry by police.

Search for a World War veteran who is also an itinerant painter is still being conducted by police. He is said to have boasted that he knew Miss Baker.

Indian Relic Collection To Be Presented Museums

Smithsonian Institution and Maryland Academy of Sciences Will Divide Toloson Exhibit of Tools and War Implements.

Centerville, Md., May 15 (A.P.).—The Maryland Academy of Sciences in Baltimore and the Smithsonian Institution soon are to be given one of the finest collections of Early Indian relics in the United States.

The collection consists of many specimens of tools and war implements, gathered through the last 50 years by E. Carville Tolson, of Centerville, member of the House of Delegates from Queen Annes County during the last two sessions of the Legislature.

Several years ago, as the collection neared its present state, Mr. Tolson provided in his will that it should be divided between the Smithsonian and the Maryland institution. Several weeks ago, however, he decided that the gift might as well be made at once, and thus relieve the executors of his estate of that duty. Following his decision, Neal M. Judd, curator of the Washington institution, came here to inspect the collection, and pronounced it one of the finest yet assembled.

Mr. Tolson collected the majority of the pieces of the collection on the old Tanner and Carville farms, piece by piece, and still is adding to it. Most of the arrow and spear heads were found on the Tanner farm, but the greater part of the other exhibits came from the Carville estate.

Among the discoveries Mr. Tolson has made during the time he has been interested in the collection of the relics were several Indian graves, based with oyster and other shells, with the skeletons of braves buried in a sitting position. One of these graves was in an exceptionally well preserved condition. Another contained two skeletons, one buried several feet below the other.

Henault, clerk of the police court. The sum of $1,347 is to be deducted from this amount for motor-vehicle cases and forwarded to the commissioner of motor vehicles.

ALEXANDRIA CLIMBS 6,125 IN POPULATION

24,185 Persons for City Is Shown in Initial Set of Figures.

POWER BIDS CONSIDERED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.,
Phone Alexandria 523.

The present population of Alexandria, according to the figures just announced by William E. Trusler, of Manassas, supervisor for the census of this district, is 24,185, or an increase of 6,125 over the figures for 1920. These figures, according to Mr. Trusler, may be slightly increased, since efforts are now being made to list a number of persons whom the enumerators were unable to locate when taking the census.

The gain in population of slightly more than 25 per cent, is due in large part to the annexation on January 1 of a portion of Arlington County, including the Town of Potomac, and a small section of Fairfax County. As the result of a special census taken for the City of Alexandria in the early part of 1928, of the portion which was later annexed, it was shown that the section of Arlington County which is now a part of Alexandria contained 5,477 persons, and the part of Fairfax County sought had a population of 485, or a grand total of 5,962 in the annexed territory. Deducting this number from Alexandria's gain of 6,125, would leave a balance of 163 to represent the actual gain in the city without the annexed territory.

It is believed that the final figures will show approximately 25,000 population.

Several of the small unincorporated suburbs which were included in the recent annexation had long been considered a part of the city, although not numbered in the census in the past.

The census from the year 1790 to 1920, inclusive, compiled by the United States Census Bureau, give Alexandria the following: 1790, 2,748; 1800, 4,971; 1810, 7,222; 1820, 8,218; 1830, 8,241; 1840, 8,459; 1850, 8,734; 1860, 12,652; 1870, 13,570; 1880, 13,659; 1890, 14,339; 1900, 14,528; 1910, 15,329; 1920, 18,060; 1930, 24,185.

The city council yesterday afternoon took under consideration the publishing of bids for a franchise for light and power for the city for a period of 30 years, the present franchise with the Virginia Public Service Co. having six years to run, but owing to a recent decision that the arrangement now existing between the city and the power company that a certain percentage of the company's earnings should be paid the city in lieu of taxes was illegal, and the payment yesterday of $22,806.46 back taxes by the Virginia Public Service Co. to adjust this difference, necessitated a new franchise, hence this action by council while the present franchise still has six years to run.

Councilman Timberman moved that the franchise be placed on its first reading, under the rules, and be considered on Thursday at an adjourned regular meeting of council, and also the proposed franchise for furnishing the city electric light and power be advertised, according to the law on the subject.

Capt. T. M. Hamilton and W. S. Washington spoke on this resolution, and the terms of the proposed franchise were explained by Leo P. Harlow, attorney for the Virginia Public Service Co.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence presented the financial statement of the city for the month of April as follows: Receipts, $66,749.75; disbursements, $49,164.04; balance on hand May 1, $19,585.71. The report from the city gas works gave receipts of $31,746.68; disbursements, $29,990.95; balance on hand May 1, $1,755.73.

A petition was received from citizens on Glebe road asking relief from the conditions prevailing along that thoroughfare owing to the increased traffic detoured over it while the River road is closed, and Councilman Timberman moved that the city manager be instructed to go as far as possible in work to relieve the situation, not only on Glebe road but others in the new territory, specifically mentioning Hume avenue from Washington road to Montrose avenue and Montrose avenue to East Clifford avenue, and asked that the city manager and city engineer investigate the cost of ditching and draining in the latter section. R. B. Berryman, of Abingdon, appeared for the citizens of that section regarding the dusty condition and asked that oil be spread.

C. D. Welch appeared for the residents of 200 block North Patrick street, protesting the establishment of an undertaking parlor opened by a colored man named Ryan, from Washington, at 221 North Patrick street, and asking that the council have the same closed until the proper permission was requested and the consent of at least 50 per cent of the residents of that block be obtained, as has heretofore been required. He was accompanied by Louis Hardin, Mrs. Simpson and Mrs. Moyer, of that block, who also voiced a protest.

A request from R. J. Snell, 119 Peyton avenue, Del Ray, for the rental of the Rosemont station to open a newsstand, cigar and candy store was refused.

Thomas J. Simpson, 322 South Lee street, asking for the residents of that section that some steps be taken to require the Virginia Public Service Co. to abate the smoke nuisance from its plant.

A resolution was placed on its first reading for widening Mount Vernon avenue from Hume avenue to Four Mile Run, to conform with the width of this avenue in Arlington County from Four Mile Run to the Military road, and Councilman Timberman moved that $35,000, or as much thereof as may be needed, be appropriated for this work.

The final program for the military tournament to be held at Baggett's Field at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon and sponsored by Alexandria and Clarendon posts, American Legion, for the benefit of Alexandria, George Mason and Washington-Lee High Schools, is as follows: Battalion formed and presented to the judges; all companies march to posts near entrance; competitive drill in order named: Company B, Washington-Lee High School; Company A, Washington-Lee High School; Company D, George Mason High School; Company A, Alexandria High School; selection of best drilled private (four candidates from each school); formation of battalion; announcement of awards and presentation of prizes; march in review.

In the company drill points will be awarded on the basis of manual of arms, 15; officers' and noncommissioned officers' manner of giving commands and correct positions, 15; accuracy in ranks in execution of marching movements, 60; steadiness in ranks, 10. In the individual competition manual of arms will be performed until two candidates from each school remain. The final elimination will be by inspection to determine the best turned-out cadet in the matter of uniform, clothing, equipment, appearance, care of rifle, neatness and cleanliness.

Three officers of the Regular Army will be detailed by the War Department to judge the events, and an Army band will furnish music.

The committee in charge state that since the entire field will be needed for troop evolutions, attendants will be required to find parking space outside the inclosure. Tickets may be had at the schools or at the gate. Attention is directed to the fact that the affair will not open until 3:15 o'clock and not 3 o'clock as previously announced.

LOVE MISSIVES SPUR VIRGINIA DEATH HUNT

THREATS ON LIFE BARED

Richmond, Va., May 15 (A.P.).—Discovery of two love notes found in the vest pocket of Harry Rohm, Richmond leather dealer, who was shot to death in his home Monday night, caused detectives today to work on the possibility that Rohm was entertaining a woman at his home the night of the slaying and that the shooting had resulted from this visit.

"You are the only one I love Harry dear always" was the message, unpunctuated and unsigned, written in one note. "Don't you think we had a nice time tonight dear?" this note continued. Another note said, "I am not going home yet Harry dear because I love you."

Detectives said today that Rohm's life had been threatened and on the day he was killed he appeared nervous and distraught and twice during the day had burst into tears.

Detectives were also investigating today a report that a man, believed to have been Rohm, was seen quarreling with a woman on a downtown street corner on the afternoon of the day he was shot. The man drove away after a time with the woman in the same car, the report said.

ALEXANDRIA WOMAN MAKES WAR ON REDS

Activities in U. S. Attacked as Club Federation Opens Convention.

OTHER SPEAKERS HEARD

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, May 15.—A vigorous attack on communistic activities in the United States and the expose of an alleged plot to infect the mind of children with Soviet principles was made today by Mrs. Helen Norris Cummings, of Alexandria, chairman of the American citizenship committee of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, which opened its twenty-third annual convention here.

"Never before in the history of the world," she said, "has there been such a well-conceived and carefully executed plan to debase the mind of youth, and that plan is in active operation wherever the seeds of the Soviet doctrines have been implanted."

Mrs. Cummings attacked the Young Pioners of America, described as existing in three groups: One of them sponsored by the Young Men's Christian Association and given approval by the speaker; the other two groups "distinctly against God and country and sponsored by the Soviet." Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Governor of Wyoming, spoke tonight before the convention, and Mrs. Finley Sheppard was heard today in an address on "Religion."

Mrs. Sheppard's address was not made public, the convention going into executive session to hear her. It is understood that she had consented to come here only on the understanding that there be no publicity.

Mrs. Henry Eley, of Suffolk, retiring president of the organization, made her address this morning and made several recommendations. Among them was the holding of a club institute in connection with the Institute of Public Affairs at Charlottesville, a uniform time for the election of officers by the district clubs, and the election of a special chairman for the foundation fund. The financial report showed a satisfactory condition and 23 new clubs were admitted to the federation during the year.

Resolutions are to be adopted tomorrow. It is understood there will be one reaffirming faith in prohibition and those supporting Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, vice president of the national organization, who, in an address predicted that the Denver national convention in June would go on record for a continuation of Volsteadism and an affirmative position on world peace.

A federation breakfast, a gold club breakfast, a garden party and the annual banquet tonight marked the social features of the day.
